SEIZO FAMILY:

July 13 = Obon around Tokyo

Aug 6-16 is Obon in this Kansai area.

6 - 7: members of temple come for ohaka maeri, have to have water ready. Start coming at 6:00 a.m. and continue till evening. The priest reads sutra at the altar and at the grave, and gives them "na fuda" wooden slats (toba) which they take to put on their own home shrine till next year.

In hot summer, he has to wear robe and wear tabi - tho not too painful for him.

Aug. 7th hottest and busiest day is Oji's birthday.

Aug 13-14: Oji goes from house to house. This is after the spirit's return from the grave. Lotsof food - ohagi, etc. on specific days.

Aug. 15: Real Obon: put hasu no ha at obutsudan with tomato, egg plant, beans, or other summer vegetables. Mukke-bi to call the dead to life. For those who died during last year, a small step ladder to help them climb to obutsudan. Lotsof incense is burned 13th-16th, so the dead can come home on the scent trail. Some temples fly a long white flag to help the dead come back.

Most families belong to some temple. This dates back to the period of the persecution when Xnity was being stamped out of Japan. Priests used to go around and check to see if each family had a butsudun; everyone forced to belong to some temple; therefore, succeeding generations still belong, tho they are not active buddhists.

Oji's main temple (honzan) is Ao no Kyomyoji

If son were to become priest:

1. Must inform main temple. seki wo ireru
2. learn sutras
3. Kegyo: for about 2 weeks stay at honzan, do cleaning, read sutras, listen to lectures; group do this together. Get up at 5:00 a.m. till 10:00 P.

Oji went for his in the dead of winter; pitch black on rising; ice all over; wore one thin white robe, take water from oke, douse from head to foot while reciting the sutra.

4:00 a.m. - sutra and lecture - 10:00 A sutra and lecture, 4:00 P.

Purifying of soul?

4. Kurai: There are 15 grades (levels) to top post. Oji is only 3rd from bottom. Had to take certain teststo reach this level.

Top grade is red robe - head priest

Next ispurple: everyone wants to reach this level.

The way to get up to the15th rank is to give money to the temple; Oji refuses to do this. He is content with hisown rank; why struggle - he refuses to ~~go~~ buy his way to the top rankWhy should he try to get purple robe.

Below purple, can wear brown or green.

However, when he goes to themain temple for Otsutome, they sit in order of rank (kurai); after all these years, he is still near the bottom. Some ask him why. Isn't he embarrassed. He asks, why should I be? He's glad to be in lower rank.

Spring 3/19-23 and fall 9/19-25 all the members come to the temple; especially 9/21 ohigan. Oji gives lecture -

Once a month, he also gives lecture; the toban makes osushi, andold folkd like to come eat and chat; oji's talk is too hard, they nap while he talks.

The people are old, because from about 50 on, people are concerned with death - buddhism is concerned with after life-

Kyoko (20), Takao 18, Hiroko 16, Kazuo 14.

Kazuo loves any kind of insects; as a child, they would just put him in an empty room give him an insett of some sort and he would followit around or sit and watch it for hours; he didn't kill it, because they it would stop moving. Even now he loves fish, chicken, works in bgarden, does anything Takao does. Pals.

Is on school tennis team. Wanted tv until they all had to keep quiet hours so Takao would study, and then he stopped asking forit.

used to go watch neighbors.

Children these days don't do much reading or thinking - watch TV, are passive.

Grammar school child: Just likes to run around, climb trees; gang of 10 or so would play hide and seek, chased each other, run in bamboo forest till dark; worst that can happen then is to be disliked by others and left alone, when they are mad at you.

Trips most looked forward to: 1 night in Ise.

2 daytime trips - like picnics.

undokai; gakugeikai - plays and program.

Hiroko: in 1st year of High School. likes ping pong; saving 400 yen ea month for Kyushu trip 3-4 days at end of 3rd year. For many, these are only trips they ever get. When she was small, she'd have temper tantrums, lie flat in street and scream. Now is quiet, good, helps around kitchen. Gets mad at older sister who works, and therefore doesn't do much housework, comes home tired, just in time to eat.

in Jr. High saved 200 per month for trip to Tokyo.

Kyoroko studied typing in Jap. and Engl for 2 years to get job; now doesn't use it. Is studying yo-sai; getting ready for marriage. company officials liked her because she was tennis champ; they wanted her for company team.

Kokudo daini doro- is the busy road near their house. dump cars go by 2500 times each day; (roundtrips) 1 company only - 4 cars! Create terrible dust; young careless boys drive, knock down lamp post, utility post, lights out; cover big numbers on back (for reporting) them with dust.

Curve on Kokudo doro from Osaka so bad, innumerable accidents there; Seizo called to do otsutome there, recited sutra, because so many have died there. He jokingly says he told the spirits to stop calling any more people there. Some say it's because they knocked down and buried a jizo statue there to build the road; so many die there.

Closet sprung a huge leak during downpour beginning of tsuyu season; Mother tells child to check closet; "Oshire mite kure yutte haru yo..." tells father; "hmmmm" they finally look; rain pouring in- whammo whole family has to form a line to carry out foodstuffs, dishes, etc.

- June 10th - farmers are burning husks from wheat harvest in fields - the burning lights at night are pretty in the darkness. They will save the ash for fertilizer.

June 10-20 Rice planting; weeding until August - then farmers fairly free in Aug. for ohaka maeri.

Sept. plant seeds for vegetables.

Oct. harvest rice.

Farmers who own land are getting rich by selling; get 1,000,000 immediately, they buy big tractors, refrig, fix house, get tv. companys are buying land for factories. Around Kuze 1 tsubo (2 tatami mats) about 10,000 yen - cheap places 6000. (Shimo gamo about 40,000 per tsubo).

Companies like Takara Beer, Kansai Kogyo, Glass co. lots of elec. companies shooting up around Kuze. Lots of highways, building, activity.

Lots of people taking advantage of farmers who are making fast money; tell them to take money from bank and invest in some kind of poor security; they make alot of money - then lost rest. (Idea: neighbor has to move out to make way for highway; sells land high invests in fake company; loses everything)

Hiroko: takes math, lang; Engl, soc. studies (econ); chemistry, biology, shukyo, music, sewing cooking (2 a week); manners - only in priv. school; learn how to open door, serve tea, etc.; Can also take Ikebana and ocha once a week.

Parents all helped clear ground for undoba at Kazuo's school. Each child's parents come. while kids in class, parents take turns carrying off rocks; spend a whole day; and job done.

Mother; belonged to group studying food, diet, health; reported at Kyoto meeting; sent to attend National health instit. conf. in Tokyo; took huge posters (others who knew better took slides)- had to get new suit; spent 2 days sightseeing and came home.

Retirement income recipients get improved benefits

The program is now called "Tax Credit for the Elderly" since it now includes earned income as well as retirement income. Where the old limits on which the credit was based were $1,524 and $2,286 for single people and those filing married-joint respectively, the new amount is $2,500 for a single person and $3,750 for filing married-joint.

The maximum income is still reduced by exempt social security and exempt retirement income under a specific formula, but the key is that all types of income, including earned income, is eligible for the credit. It remains at 15% of the retirement income credit base as calculated.

"Above my head the wild geese are flying south... By morning a tiny spider had hung upon the bushes his silver thread. The golden brown chrysan. ~~xxxxxxx~~ blooms are waiting humbly... for the first rays of the weak sun to touch them. Today they fall slowly, slipping gently over the damp sandy roads. .. Not a frog is left croaking by the pond.. The beetles have crawled deep down into the ground.. It is quiet everywhere, quiet. Only high up, far above my head, the wild geese are flying like a snow-white cloud..."

("According to a Jpnse tradition wild geese in flight carry in their beaks rushes which they drop onto the water when they are tired, and come down to rest on them. Thus they remind people of the care they should give to preparing the place where they want to settle. The geese fly in long straight rows, only breaking ranks when they see something unusual beneath them. This habit revealed to the warrior Yoshiye and the famous archer Takenori that their enemies were hiding in the undergrowth and thus helped them to victory.")

"Today I pulled the first white hair from my head. I have twisted it around my finger. Perhaps you will ask who gave me a silver ring. And I shall answer: the most faithful of friends - time."

"We found each other too late in this world... But after we are dead, in some other world, perhaps we shall belong to each other as night to day. Even the plum will blossom again when the crane flies over to herald another spring."

"Like a bubbling spring their song leaped over the fence as light as a dragonfly. It rose in a fountain like the fireworks on festival days, and lingered on the wind like the last leaf torn from the bough."

"The moon is a porcelain plate hanging among the clouds. The trees have turned to snow-white lace."

"Snow has fallen and hunger creeps thru the land as dead as the moon. Frozen branches point towards the sky like phantoms and lean stray dogs leave deep tracks behind them on the ground.."

S The Alumnae Fund of Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts 01060
1875 S 1975

October 1974

Dear Alumna,

Smith College is at a pivotal point as it begins its second century. It can triumph over challenges from its position of strength. Or Smith's excellence can be eroded into mediocrity by the financial crisis facing higher education in general.

According to the recent Carnegie Commission on Higher Education, priority should be given to the preservation and enhancement of quality and diversity among those institutions which will survive. The Commission emphasized that the colleges and universities of superior educational quality are a source of scholarship and leadership training at the highest level. The disarray of the world puts a premium on the education offered by these institutions.

The Commission report also stressed the importance of diversity in education as a guardian of freedom and a defense against regimented thinking. Diversity is threatened as the trend toward coeducation eliminates many of the single-sex colleges. The richness of a diversified student body may disappear as fewer students can afford the rising cost of tuition at private colleges. The pluralism of American culture is becoming homogenized. Choices have narrowed.

As a private liberal arts college for women, whose alumnae are scholars in their fields and leaders in their communities, Smith has the attributes which should be preserved and enhanced. We who have benefited from the best must ensure this.

Will you provide the leverage to move Smith College into its second century by making a once-in-a-hundred-years kind of gift? The Centennial Alumnae Fund can provide Smith College with a solid base for a continuing position of strength with the help of alumnae generosity.

Sincerely,

Nancy R. Lange '47

serial story.

"Bells were jingling in the streets until morning came, and the white snow was falling all night. The soft white flakes came floating down to earth like herons' feathers. Drums were throbbing and trumpets blaring, and the lighted lanterns were like fallen stars wandering thru the town. Towards midnight, I went out on to the terrace; the snowstorm had piled a high drift before my door. I looked into the eyes of a merry clown, drunk with wine and intoxicated by the pleasant company of his fellows. He laughed and laughed, swaying from the waist, and sweat poured down his flushed cheeks. Then he stumbled on, wavering thru the darkness and the dancing snowflakes."

Myterious beings fluttering thru a child's dreams like birds' wings."

The streets are full of noise and many colors.. . the wandering monk would even sell you a slice of Heaven..."

Summer is running through the land and beating his little drum... It is beating in the meadows and on the hillsides, the clear metallic tone rings far and wide.. the air is full of scents and the humming of bees.

"I am watering the isises. The drops of water trickle down the leaves and the earth greedily drinks up the silvery streams. Tiny pearls gleam in the flowers; the sun has breathed a rainbow into each. Like a snail lazily laying his sticky track, so is the day drawn out for me, so slow, my love ..."

"The crescent moon floats like a boat over the black stream of night. Far below her a silver pathway lies across the water. The moonbeams falling. Like gleaming fish scales, like tiny scraps of gilt, they tremble, reflect the light, glitter... I lean over from the bank and dip my hand into the water. I will catch a few of these tiny gold coins...."

"Sunset... the water buffaloes, tired with the day's ploughing, sink heavily to rest in the rough grass.. motionless.. overgrown summer houses crouched on the hillsides seem to be in flames.. Down the evening breeze comes the sad note of a shepherd's flute."

Pumpkins... among the twisting weeds.... a drunken summer noon has transformed their delicate Blossoms into these shapeless heavy bodies on the ground.

"It is the end of summer, the end of the long days and clear nights, the end of everything that danced so madly under the blue sky.. Like when a oath suddenly ends deep in the woods, like when a pilgrim stops short in amazement at the edge of a precipice. What will come next?/// Tell me what I shall have to comfort me when the birds grow silent and the last leaves fall to the ground from the trees?"

"The delicate claws of time leave their traces on the silk. .."

"The year has come and gone like a ribbon wound around a spool."

Dear Friend:

Thank you for your message expressing concern over the Administration's request for supplemental military aid to Indochina.

The civil wars in Cambodia and South Vietnam continue to be a terrible tragedy for the people involved. I oppose spending money on U.S. military aid to Southeast Asia, which only prolongs the conflict without a constructive end in sight.

I will vote against the Fiscal Year '75 supplemental requests submitted to Congress by President Ford. Further, in my view, Congress should not vote military aid to Phnom Penh and Saigon in FY 1976.

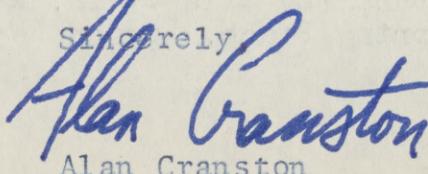

In the case of South Vietnam, economic aid should also be cut off unless there is a demonstrated willingness by that government to negotiate with its adversaries--in line with the Paris accords--and to allow opposition parties to participate in a free electoral process. And economic aid must be used for humanitarian purposes. We must not permit it to be diverted to political use, or to increase the wealth of the wealthy.

In regard to Cambodia, the United States must help bring the war to an end--not continue to prolong it. Humanitarian assistance should be provided for those in need.

Finally, be assured that I intend to explore all legislative means of closing the loopholes the Administration has found in past legislation that was intended to end participation of U.S. military forces in combat-related activities in Southeast Asia. Present military actions by the U.S. violate the spirit--if not the letter--of the provisions Congress wrote into the law.

I appreciate your taking the time to share with me your views on ending military involvement in Southeast Asia.

Sincerely

Alan Cranston

... roommate Carlton Allyn Sheffield gave Stanford Steinbeck's letters and early manuscripts, including this Christmas card designed by the author's wife

gram. Steinbeck dropped out and got a night job at the Spreckels Sugar factory.

"It wasn't much of a job," Sheffield said. "We were both writing to each other two or three times a week
... I had a whole shopping bag full of letters from that time but once, some time later, John got hold of them and fed them to the fire, one leaf at a time."

An early one that Steinbeck didn't destroy described his method of working on a novel. It required endless observations and pieces of reasearch, he wrote. "But until you can put your theme down in one sentence you're not ready to start writing. Then when you start, it's the most exciting time in the world."

The letters follow Steinbeck, who died in 1968, through the course of 30
books and a temporary rift with his old friend. The

the book... from one another it also make him mad because he thought it was a trick. Only now, he said, he was conscious of the design.

"Well, there wasn't any conscious design. I suppose what it boils down to is this — a man has only a little to say and he says it over and over so it looks like a design.
And the terrible thing is that I still don't know what it is I have to say but I do know it isn't very complicated and surely it isn't new."

Parts of the collection, including early verse written by Steinbeck for a Stanford course, will go on public view in an exhibit planned for next spring.

CHORUS

It's a small world after all,
It's a small world after all,
It's a small world after all,
It's a small, small world.

It's a world of laughter, a world of tears,
It's a world of hopes, and a world of fears,
There's so much that we share,
That it's time we're aware,
It's a small world after all.

CHORUS

There is just one moon and one golden sun,
And a smile means friendship to everyone,
Though the mountains divide,
And the oceans are wide,
It's a small world after all.

Mountain near Vancouver named for Manzo Nagano

OTTAWA — A mountain for Manzo!

The Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names has decided to name a mountain in British Columbia after the first Japanese immigrant to Canada a 100 years ago, Manzo Nagano.

D.F. Pearson, the British Columbia member of the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names, has selected a mountain southeast of River Inlet—still a popular commercial fishing area for Japanese Canadian fishermen — to Manzo Nagano. The mountain rises above 6,400 feet.

In a recent letter to the Japanese Canadian Centennial Committee, Alan Rayburn, executive secretary, Energy, Mines and Resources berta, on Oct. 7. The J.C. Centennial Committee will be sending representatives to this event.

—The New Canadian

Anti-immigration campaign begun

NEW YORK—The Zero Population Growth foundation started a nationwide campaign to sharply curb both legal and illegal immigration to the United States, according to an appeal signed by Paul R. Ehrlich, author of "The Population Bomb" and honorary president-founder.

While the letter refers only to "illegal aliens", ZPG lobbyist Melanie Wirken in Washington said May 8 the organization also favors "a drastice reduction in legal immigration".

Medicine

Internationally known sports figure and U.S. Olympic team physician in 1952 and 1956, Dr. Richard W. You of Honolulu was accused by the State Attorney General July 1 of issuing an excessive number of prescriptions that "may be a significant source" of illegal and dangerous drugs. The AG petitioned the state board also to have his license revoked.

Church

A survey on sexuality was conducted by Dr. Yoshi Fukuyama, head of the department of religious studies at Pennsylvania State University and presented before the 11th general synod of the United Church of Christ meeting in Washington. Among the findings of the 700 delegates polled: 78% favored full and equal rights for homosexuals, 80% did not feel uncomfortable discussing homosexuality, 56% agreed the Christian church had been so weakened by recent changes in its doctrine that it was no longer able to ents, and who did not feel familiar with Japanese customs. A third group added to the conflict within. This was the Kibei, a small number who had been sent back to Japan to study. On returning they found a cultural proximity to the Issei but a cultural gap with the Nisei.

From the Japanese American community, especially the Nisei, there were volunteers who served gallantly—particularly in the European theater—as the 442nd "Go For Broke" Regimental Combat Team. Unknown to many may be their significant service in the Pacific. General MacArthur's chief of staff, Charles Willoughby, stated that "these Nisei troops had shortened the Pacific Theatre war by at least two years and saved hundreds of thousands of American casualties."

There is drama in the story, but the pathos, the resignation, the stubbornness in seeking legal remedies for inflicted wrongs must be read between the lines. Rarely is there a mention of those attorneys who persisted in the cases that ultimately succeeded in righting wrongs. Yet this book deals with questions of law, and the lawyers concerned are worthy of a footnote. A novel may yet be based on this period, one that will capture the imagination of non-Orientals and give those readers a sense of the situation endured. Any novel, however, should be based on facts, to give accuracy of with civil liberties and human rights who believe that "We hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator, with certain unalienable Rights . . . Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness."

Wiser than many, those portrayed, whether Issei, Nisei, or Kibei did not ask for happiness; they asked for the right of its pursuit. The pursuit, not the attainment, is joined with life and liberty. No more should anyone seek.

having a plant + getting some so S. took me up yesterday + I bought a few pieces including a nice tea pot - at last. He was in charge of the sale + charging unbelievable prices for the plants.
Pats, he compared to West too.
Wouldn't you think she'd give me a plant at least. She's kawaii but I don't like him. She doesn't she'll miss her friends here.

Been meaning to tell you + keep forgetting. 3 weeks ago this coming Thurs.
Jigger brought 2 baby birds to our front door + I thought they were dead so told
S. to bury them + when he went out he found they were still alive so we put them in a Kleenex box up in a tree for the night hoping the mother might find them. Well, the next morning they were both alive much to our amazement + neither one was hurt in anyway. How the cat ever brought them there without hurting them I can't figure out.

I called the Nature Center in town to ask if they'd take them but was turned down so found out how to take care of them + also talked to our Vet + I've been feeding it every 3 hrs with hamburger mixed with chopped apples. I feed it with chashi. It's so cute how it opens its huge red mouth! One died (the smaller one) after 3 days but the other is growing beautifully. Turned out to be a blue-jay. It hardly had much feathers at all with tightly closed eyes so was really quite ugly at the beg. but now ^{so} cute + getting so pretty with blue + wh. feathers. It lives in our back bathroom. Just learning to fly but still has to be fed.
It's so tame. I don't think it can survive in the wild so I'm going to have to find a sheltered aviary somewhere.

Will you could see it.
My arm really aches now
so have to stop.

Much love,
Kay.

P.S.

Also incl. is check for Bazaar.

such that

$$|F(x) - h(x)| < \varepsilon \quad |F(y) - h(y)| < \varepsilon$$

$$|F(xy) - h(xy)| < \varepsilon$$

Since $h(xy) = h(x)h(y)$, we have that

$$|F(xy) - F(x)F(y)| < 3\varepsilon \text{ for any } \varepsilon .$$

Therefore, $F(xy) = F(x)F(y)$ for all $x, y \in A$. Thus either

F is a non-trivial homomorphism and $F \in \Delta$ or $F = 0$.

We have thus two possibilities for F with $F \in \Delta$ or $F = 0$.

Sequel to SAMURAI

Koichi and Father go off to work at farm. Have hard times. Father is killed in an accident ~~wit~~ (?) or illness. Koichi decided to go back to Gold Hill and find Okei. She too has died of fever. The white couple tell him to stay with them, but now Koichi is det'd to find a way to go back to Wakamatsu to his grandmother. He looks for his friend ... who married a woman and wnet to a town. Rintaro had ~~married~~ married a white woman (or black) and ~~worked~~ worked with her in the shop she ran in Placerville. Koichi stays with them a while, but he knows he doesn't belong. Rintaro can only feed him and house him as the Whitlows offered to do. That will only keep him in America. He must find a way to earn money, to buy a ticket back to Japan.

One day he sees a man with the trained bear. They're going from house to house! shop to shop. He's intrigued. follows him around. The man asks Koichi if he'd like to help him ~~take~~. He need a boy to feed and clean the bear while he does odd jobs around town. Koichi leaps at the chance. They leave together, travel from town to town.. (wagon?) eating at campfires. sometimes in a shabby ~~room~~ room. The man goes off to drink in saloons, often doesn't come home at night. But he always keeps his promise and pays Koichi his keep. K. is as much a curiosity as the bear. (heard on radio talk of a travelling Jpnse circus, with a ~~white~~ wild cat. that turns out to be just an old alley cat.) (when?) They join up (?) ~~signs~~. He carries signs that say "See the wild bear... See the ~~sp~~ real live Jap boy." Koichi hates being a curiosity He hates the way they stare at him. When he meets up ~~the~~ with the Jpnse circus, he's so lonely for Jpnse company. He joins up with them. Befriends a boy or girl in the troupe. Where would they go?

Trigger whole idea

Or the bear trainer could be Jpnse. The two of them bill themselves as Travelling Jpnse Circus. Have the bear, an old alley cat they bill as the wild cat from India. Get tamborine, drum. Man paints Koichi's face, ties towle around his head; they have placards. "Circus - see the dancing bear. See the wild cat from India. The 3-legged dog. And a real live Jpnse." ~~Like~~ Like the chin-don-yas - the festivals of Japan. He doesn't like being a curiosity himself - "a real live Jap.boy." He has the feeling some people are coming to see him, more than the animals. One-Eye catches up with them? Runs them out of town. He could hear about the Jpnse Village which came from Japan to travel all around the country... He somehow finds his way back to SF and joins up with them. He doesn't want to go to all the faraway cities... but he has to stay with them if he wants to go back with them to Japan. He ~~becomes~~ becomes an apprentice to one of the potters.. helps set up "village", works with clay, etc... but again, as they travel people are as interested in them as curiosities more than their ware. ~~They~~ He feels as tho he's still part of a circus. Only this time, no animals, they're the exhibit. Sees poster saying "See real live Jap babies". At last - he returns to Japan - to Wakamatsu... his grandmother is gone. But he goes to her grave. Tells her he has come back. He is going to work as a potter now. He will carry on the family name. in dignity. He can hold up his head.. and no one will push him around because he's a Jap.

There was a man named
J. Francis McQuishberry whom everyone thought was quite strange -

He wore a tam on his head that came from Paris and he carried a Malacca

But that wasn't what made him seem strange -

He also wore a black chain ~~hanging in front~~ which hung from his vest, and pants that were striped and shoes that were tight, but that wasn't what made him seem strange

It was the way he talked - ~~the things he said~~; or rather the way he thought - at least that's what everyone said -

But Hector J. McQuishberry

who was his grandson, understood everything he said.

~~In instance~~ —

~~They walked downtown to where the big truck was parked~~

They went for long walks each day of the year ~~and~~ ~~frisk~~ together, hand in hand —

And J. Francis McDeasberry said — "How are you m'boy?
feeling today, m'boy.
As for me, I'm feeling a bit olive green"

and Hector J. would answer
"Me, I'm fine, Grandpa
I'm feeling ~~red~~ ~~pink~~ a little ~~rosy~~ red.

They walked ~~the~~ park where the leaves smelled wet and the ~~the~~ ground was soft & spongy
