1319 Students Prepared For High School Opening Monday

High school will start Monday. Taking up from where they left off, last May, Hunt's 1319 students will march off to school to continue their higher education, school officials announced yesterday.

All students are to report to their respective counselors' rooms where they will receive their schedules. A complete list of the students with the name of their counselors and their room have been posted on every dining hall.

Students are asked to study the list and know their rooms so as to avoid as much confusion as possible.

The school day, composed of eight periods, will start at 9 a.m. and the pupils will go home for lunch until the dining hall in Blk. 23 opens.

A pencil is absolutely imperative, and a pen and a notebook advisable, according to school officials.

"High school in camp is a great deal different physically from the city schools. This is a new experiment for everybody so let's go all out and make it a success," J.T. Light, principal, said.

Children To Name Block 32 School

Tiring of referring to their institution as the Blk. 32 school, pupils there have staged a contest among themselves to name it.

Several names have been submitted, among them being Sagebrush School, Canal School, Willow, Minisage (from Minidoka and sagebrush,) American Way, and Townsend, according to Miss Mildred Bennett, school principal.

Still other suggestions are Seaport, (from Seattle and Portland,) Stafford, Willosage, Dustage, and Dusage.

Pupils have been asked to submit more names, including ideas for the Blk. 10 school, Miss Bennett added.

CONSTRUCTION OF SCHOOLS BEGINS SOON

Construction of the two elementary schools and the junior-senior high school which will be located immediately north of Blks. 10 and 37, and 26, will begin in the near future, Joseph P. Bocca, senior engineer, declared this week.

Although the War Production Board has approved the plan to grant a priority rating to secure material for construction, some needed material cannot be obtained for some time. No definite date therefore, has been set as to when the construction of the schools will begin, Bocca said.

Masachi Hashida, former concert master with the Broadway high school symphony orchestra, then brought the semi-classical half of the program to a close by playing on his violin "Zapateado" by Sarasate.

Music in the lighter vein opened the second half of the program with Chickie Ishihara sounding out the popular "Juke Box Saturday Night." Accompanied by the Burley high school pep band, Toshie Wakamatsu gave a baton twirling exhibition. The talent revue program was brought to a close with the yell team, headed by yell king Bob Imai, leading the entire student body in some school cheers.

The talent revue was accompanied by the following members of the faculty: Jerome T. Light, Veda Satterfield, Erling Erlandson, Victor McLaughlin and Minor Azuma. Accompanists for the program were Jeanne Kanno and Elsie Takeoka. The talent revue will visit Twin Falls high school next Friday, March 19.

Seniors Graduate Against Desert Backdrop

It was a scene nostalgically like the old days. It was a typical pre-evacuation high school graduation ceremony transplanted among sagebrush, sand, and barracks.

Before proud parents, relatives, and friends, two hundred and six seniors of the first graduating class of Hunt High School marched up last night, to the outdoor amphitheatre below Blk. 22 to receive their individual diplomas.

The exercises were officially opened with an impressive processional, after which Father H. Tibesar gave the invocation.

John Okamoto, class president, gave the welcome speech. He told how war is raging just beyond the mountains. The seniors will be facing a war-torn world and a hate-torn world. Their lot is hard, much harder, the future the greatest uncertainty to face graduating niseis.

R. A. Pomeroy, superintendent of education, gave the commencement address.

"Pioneers—1943 Edition."

"I wish to pay tribute to the class of 1943." Pomeroy first proclaimed tribute to the graduating class of 1943, then tribute to the assemblage of parents, relatives and friends. The isseis were pioneers, coming from over the sea to this land of social, political, and economic freedom.

"Theirs were not paths of ease," he said.

But now the niseis were the pioneers, theirs the job of going out in the world and relieving the tension of hate and prejudice, to integrate themselves within the American life. Pomeroy stressed relocation. "Jobs are plentiful."

Art Yoshizawa, speaking on "The Future We Must Face," said, "We might consider ourselves as being overburdened by difficult situations but by facing the facts it is plainly shown that our problems are minute and obscure indeed if compared with the world as a whole. It is time for us now to stop complaining and worrying about ourselves, let us instead plan a constructive future."

"What we are now is the reflection of what we will be tomorrow, for what we are striving for will tell what we will be in the years to come," said Betty Aoki, speaking on "We Plan Our Future."

Vice-president of the graduating class, Jane Suguro, said, "Tomorrow is but a wave on the ocean of Eternity. Before us lies an ocean of Tomorrows . . . Let us look to the future."

Diplomas were presented by Jerome T. Light, high school principal, who also made special school activities wards.

Special awards were given out in this order: HONORABLE MENTION FOR ADHERENCE TO IDEALS OF THE SCHOOL—Betty Matsuye Aoki, Violet Arase, Sumiko Hata, Saburo Ikeda, Tsuguo Ikeda, Shunji Ito, Alice Reiko Iwasaki, Irene Kinoshita, Anna Yoshiko Kurata, Yemiko Mukai, Shigeyoshi Murao, Frances Nakagawa, Frank Nakata, Ben Ninomiya, John Okamoto, Frank Shigio Ota, Joe Sakakibara, Jane Suguro, Lily Shitama, Shoichi Shioyama, Roy Suzuki, Mitsuru Takazaki, Ruby Sachima, Nana Tomita, Grace Uchimura, John Uno, Sachiko Yasui, and Ruth Eiko Yoshino. Graduation Rites Held At Language School Saturday

BOULDER, Colo., July 11 Armed with the strangest of war weapons—the Japanese language—a class of sailors were graduated Saturday from the navy's oriental language school at Colorado university, the Salt Lake Tribune reported.

Parts of the speeches were made in Japanese and the school song, words by instructor and music by a student, was sung—in Japanese.

The valedictorian delivered his oration in the enemy tongue, it was also reported.

The number graduated and their identities are confidential information, but it can be said that when this class gets into action shortly its members will be translating Japanese short wave broadcasts, decoding messages, interviewing Japanese prisoners or carrying on navy affairs in occupied territory.

From "ohayo gozaimas" to "sayonara" the students have crammed the kanji cards throughout their waking hours for a year. They studied the cards, pasteboards with Japanese syllables on one side and the translation on the other, in all their free moments. 717183

"Stafford Press" Reveals Hidden Talents of Sixth Graders; Journalism Rated High Caliber

While presses rolled and headlines screamed in the weekly IRRI-GATOR, the little sixth graders of Stafford Elementary School have been grinding out their mimeographed monthly, the Stafford Press, make-up, artistry, and journalism far beyond grade school caliber.

Under the capable leadership of Miss Gretchen Wahl, the Press is put out wholly by the sixth graders, and all copy is original. It has drawn favorable statements from various parts of the nation commenting on the superiority of the sheet in its class.

Occupying the editor's swivel chair have been Hideo Kobayashi and Sumio Go; the art work being attributed largely to Kenneth Hara and Yukie Sato.

Showing the change center life has made on everyday living is a poem entitled, "Times Have Changed."

"If I played in the mud and water,
when I was a tiny lad,
Mother used the hairbrush and said that I was bad.
Now I waddle in the mud and
splash my feet so bold.
Mother merely shakes her head and says, 'Poor child, you're cold!'"

Obviously written while he was having trouble writing a poem, Sumio Go's:

"Some troubles of mine
That are far from divine Happen because
A line won't rhyme",

is charming in its simplicity.

Sumako Tanaka shows her ability to interpret exactly what she sees and feels in her "Wind":

"Wind is beating through the air,
And the weather is just fair.
People hold their hats on tight;
Cats and dogs run out of sight;
Then the wind will dance away
And leave a still and sticky day."

Typifying a child's longing for his former home, Sumio Go's "Homesick" is especially appealing in the simple query of his last line:

"I long for things that are not here,
Things that seem so very dear.
I miss the buildings, small and tall;
The mountains with their lovely view,

I miss the shores, I miss it all.
I can't stand homesickness, can you?"

Still a strong and unshaken faith in America in the younger generation is shown in the following excerpts from poems written by Ayako Nagasaka and Phyllis Nosawa, respectively:

"The Stars and Stripes are waving

far off in foreign lands,
But we at home remember well the things for which it stands.
We never will forget our flag or
the land we hold so dear.
And though we've left our former homes, our faith is shining clear."

"When the waves rolled in
And all was quiet,
America was a baby.
It seems to me that
This magnificent land came
From the colors of the rolling waters."

Other talented students making outstanding contributions to the paper include Roy Kawaguchi, Ruth Saito, Aki Shiraishi, Joe Namba, Lawrence Takahashi, Nanao Umino, and others too numerous to mention.

Taking into consideration that the average age of these students are 11 and 12 years, the Stafford Press is to be congratulated for a fine and progressive paper.

School Vacation Starts

School vacations for the Stafford and Huntville grade schools began yesterday and will continue for a month's time until school is again resumed September 13, R. A. Pomeroy, acting project director, announced this week.

High school work will begin on August 23, and all prospective high school students are urged to start their full term as scheduled.

"We are starting the high school term early because there is a possibility of having a fall vacation when most high school students will be given an opportunity to work in agriculture," Pomeroy said. "If we do not have the full-hearted cooperation of all concerned, this program will not be successful."

During the months of the grade school vacation those buildings to be used for classroom work are to be sealed in at the windows and the walls will be covered. The floors will be oiled to prevent circulation of dust around the rooms. The rooms will be standardized to a 40 ft. length instead of the small spaces provided previously for class rooms. Emergency doors will be built to lessen the dangers of being trapped in the event of fires. All this work is now under way during the high school vacation, and is nearing completion, Pomeroy said.

Club Headquarters

Headquarters for all clubs on the project, including the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, YWCA affiliations, and other organizations, are now being established at Blk. 22-3-A next to the Community Activities Office.

STAFFORD SCHOOL HOLDS ART EXHIBIT

Featuring poster work, pastel and crayon drawings, and handicraft, an art exhibit of the Stafford Elementary School will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 10-11, 32-4-CD, from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

The public is invited to attend.

HIGH SCHOOL SCHEDULES OPENING MON.

Hunt High School will officially open for the fall term August 23, Jerome T. Light, high school principal, announced this week. All students in the Junior and Senior high school (grades 7 through 12) who expect to enroll for this term, are required to be present and report at their proper places at 9 a. m.

All students who have never been in high school, including those in the sixth grade last year, are instructed to go to D. H. 23 where they will be given their daily schedule. Those students who are returning are to go to the Core teacher they had last year.

"Time will be allowed for handing out programs, reading announcements and the like, after which a schedule of eight short periods will be run, four before lunch and four after lunch", Light said. "Thus, pupils will go to all their classes the first day and attendance will be taken."

On Tuesday, classes will start according to the regular schedule.

Those Core teachers to whom returning students should report are:

Mrs. Jessie Sistermans, 10-CD; Miss Betty Peavey, 10-AB; Mrs. Elma Tharp, 10-EF; Miss Alice Gwinn, 8-AB; Robert Coombs, 5-EF; Mrs. M. Pollock, 4-EF; James Horne, 11-EF; Miss Gladys Gilbertson, 6-CD; Miss Ruth Candee, 7-CD; Mrs. Ellen Herndon, 7-EF.

Tally Shows 1,101 Students Enroll

Although the relocation program and seasonal work have kept many pupils from registering, 1,101 students have returned to Hunt High School this semester. The Guidance Office stated that there are 39 programs that have not yet been claimed. It is not known whether these pupils intend to re-enter or not.

The Junior High School total numbered 265, while the Senior High School tallied 836.

Owing to the added factor that 127 entered the seventh grade whereas 210 graduated last July, the enrollment is not as high as it was during the preceeding term.

Bill Sutterlin Returns to School

The Federated Christian Church said goodbye to one of its dearest friends when Bill Sutterlin, the summer Pastor, left the project to resume his studies at Berkeley, Calif. Sutterlin was the leader of the Young People's Fellowship Group and aided the church program in countless ways. Among other things, he directed the play "He Came Seeing." This royalty play was produced by the Christian Dramatics Class and proved to be both different and successful.

A senior at the Berkeley Divinity School, Sutterlin is serving as student body president.

So long, Chief

We can't let Fire Chief W. L. Yeager, widely known as Bill, shake the dust of Hunt from his shoes without expressing the feelings of the many residents who count him a friend. These persons include the Boy Scouts to whom he was inspiration and leader and whom he championed on the outside; the members of the Hunt fire department whom he trained into an efficient organization (it was a job because firefighting was not a pre-evacuation job of Japanese Americans); and many individual residents.

Friendly, courteous and cheerful (he could play Santa Claus with no make-up except a pillow), he secured widespread cooperation in fire inspections, fire drills in schools, volunteer fire-fighting and in other ways which resulted in the excellent record of not a single major fire during his year here.

He left Wednesday for a well-earned rest and will linger awhile in Twin Falls to turn his attention to trout streams and pheasant fields.

It is no reflection upon his successor, not yet named, to say that Bill Yeager will be missed.
