WRA District Office Doubles for USO

Five young Hawaiian Nisei soldiers, Privates Hiroshi Joe Fujimori, Richard Fujikawa, Tomekichi Tom Hasegawa, Kenneth Katsumi Imai, and Isami Sam Haraguchi, dropped in at the New York City WRA District Office one day last week to see the view from the 63rd floor of the Empire State Building and the pretty girls in the WRA office. After a rousing welcome from the WRA staff members, arrangements were made to entertain the boys and show them the sights during their brief furlough. Nisei residents offered them warm home hospitality and personally showed them the sights of the largest city in the world. The week's hospitality included Japanese-style home cooking, visits to popular eating places, the ice show, and the famous Coney Island Boardwalk, and the ferry boat ride past the Statue of Liberty. The boys left for camp with many expressions of grateful appreciation, leaving behind a new set of warm friends.

Miss Yuriko Amemiya, New York City dancer from Los Angeles and Gila River, has just returned to New York following a four-week series of dance recitals with the Martha Graham Dance Company for the students at Bennington College, Bennington, Vt. Lucky Error or "All's Well That Ends Well"

George Kato of Los Angeles and Fred Moriguchi of Venice, Calif., and both more recently of Manzanar, made a lucky mistake the other day. The personnel director there hired them immediately--George as an oiler, Fred as an engineer's helper.

Mr. and Mrs. Koso Yasumoto and their children, Allan, 9, and Joy Alice, 7, who came East from Poston last June, have made a new home for themselves on the farm-estate of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Stout -- High Meadow -- at Brewster, N. Y., which is about 50 miles from New York City.

Mr. Stout is nationally known as a writer of mystery stories, chairman of the Writers' War Board, and a leader in groups striving to improve racial relations. Mrs. Stout, an artist in her own right as a fabric-designer, is interested in helping young artists to develop and use their talents. Their two daughters, 8 and 12 years old, and the Yasumoto children have already become good friends. Mr. and Mrs. Stout were planning to bring both families to their New York City apartment over Labor Day for a week-end of sightseeing.

At the Stout farm, Mr. Yasumoto does gardening and Mrs. Yasumoto helps with the cooking and housework. On their arrival in New York City from Poston, the Yasumoto family was met at Grand Central Station by a member of the local evacuee reception committee who escorted them to the mid-town apartment "hostel" maintained by the New York Church Committee for Japanese Americans. The Yasumotos remained there temporarily until they completed arrangements to work for Mr. and Mrs. Stout, who then drove the Yasumotos out to their farm.

"It's beautiful here; it's like living in a park," Mrs. Haruko Tamura, formerly of Granada, wrote in a recent letter to a WRA staff member in New York City from the Target Rock Farm of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Eberstadt in Huntington, Long Island. Mrs. Tamura, her husband Juzo, who is employed as a gardener, and their three children, have been living there since coming East early this summer.

"Our house is very nice and will be even more comfortable once our freight arrives," Mrs. Tamura wrote. "Mrs. Eberstadt is very understanding... The children have also been cooperative and helpful, so that things are running smoothly... Everyone has been so kind. The first gardener and his wife share their refrigerator with us; they take me along so that I may do my marketing whenever they go to Huntington. Mrs. Eberstadt lets me borrow books from her lovely library...

"You have been so kind to my husband and me that I'm at a loss for words to thank you. The warm welcome you gave the children and me on our arrival on New York made us forget we were tired from our train ride...."

The Tamuras have their own cottage on the 180-acre Eberstadt farm, which is largely wooded. Their children -- Seig, 13, Michiko, 9, and Takeo, 7 -- have been enjoying the swimming and boating at a nearby beach.

Prior to evacuation, the Tamuras lived in Los Angeles, where Mr. Tamura managed the Central Fertilizer Company at 617 East 8th Street. At Granada he was a block manager and warehouse superintendent.

One of the three rooms being occupied by the Omori family is being redecorated to suit Kikuyo's own taste, and there is a little pony cart which she can use whenever she wants to take a drive. She has already been escorted through the high school she will attend.

"I feel that everything will be O.K. here," Mr. Omori said the other day. "The people here are very fine to us. They are being very nice to my daughter, more than I expected. They showed us the town and everything."

Prior to evacuation the Omoris lived at 511 East 4th Street, Los Angeles, where they operated a restaurant. While at Gila River, Mr. Omori was a mess hall chef and Mrs. Omori a waitress.

where he is now employed as a gardener-carctaker. The Kadowaki children -- Shaw Akira, 10, Kazuo John, 15, and Miekko Frances, 17 -- will attend nearby schools.

The new mailing address of the Kadowakis is R.F. D. #1, Port Jervis, N. Y. This is just across the state line from Montague, N. J., where the Kadowaki family will live in the home of H. Barentzen Van Inwegen. Until going to work there, Mr. Kadowaki resided temporarily at the Brooklyn Hostel.

At the time of evacuation the Kadowaki family was living in Santa Ana, Calif., where Mr. Kadowaki operated a truck farm. While at Poston he was foreman of a landscape-gardening crew, and designed and built Sci Len Park.

S/SGT. GOSHO HONORED BY NEW YORKERS

S/Sgt. Henry H. Gosho, hero of Merrill's Marauders, who recently relocated to New York City with his wife and baby daughter, was honored on September 12 at a dinner sponsored by the New York Chapter of the Japanese American Citizens' League. A distinguished guest, Dr. Dan W. Dodson, executive director of the Mayor's Committee for Unity, in addressing the group pledged the support of the committee in helping Japanese-American resettlers in New York City.

The banquet hall at the Toyokwan Restaurant was jammed with Japanese-Americans and Caucasians who had gathered to express their gratitude to "Horizontal Hank", whose valor had won him the Bronze Star, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Presidential Citation Unit Badge, and the Pacific Ribbon with three campaign stars. With Sgt. Gosho at the head table were Mrs. Gosho, their little daughter, Carol Jeanne, and his buddy, Sgt. David Quaid, a New Yorker.

"Hank" held his audience spell-bound as he described his experiences in the jungle and the many narrow escapes which he and his comrades had fighting the enemy.

Takeo Nogaki, of Seattle and Minidoka, served as toastmaster for the evening.

Most of the New York newspapers carried stories about Sgt. Gosho and his exploits, and some of the papers also published pictures of him and his family.

On September 16 he was featured on the radio program "We The People" which was broadcast coast-to-coast from New York by the Columbia Broadcasting System. Sgt. and Mrs. Goshō formerly resided in Seattle and Minidoka, where their daughter was born.

Mr. Okada arrived in New York in 1938 from Hawaii, and took his master's degree in international trade at Columbia University. He has spent all the time he could spare from the responsible jobs which he has held in serving the community. During the past three years much of his time and energy has been spent in helping resettlers in New York. When the WRA program closes, Mr. Okada plans to enter the field of international trade and hopes to continue to give his free time to work with resettlers.

Mr. Okada extends a real welcome to any resettler coming to New York where he, himself, is a permanent resident. On the subject of New York Mr. Okada says: "I feel that this is a city of great opportunity for ambitious young Nisei since many professional and business fields are open to them. For the older Issei who seek a quiet life, New York's beautiful suburbs offer many advantages."

COMMUNITY LEADERS PLAN RECEPTION FOR NEWCOMERS
AT NEW HOSTEL IN NEW YORK CITY

Leaders of schools, churches and settlement houses in the neighborhood of New York City's new hostel at 58 East 102nd Street were planning a reception for newcomers as the five-story building with accommodations for 60 persons was being prepared to receive its first evacuee guests on October 29.

Sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee and the Community Church of New York, the hostel will provide both temporary quarters and housing for resettlers who wish to live there indefinitely while seeking their own permanent place in the city or suburbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Giichiro, Issei from Granada, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, will be the hostel's manager and housemother, respectively.

A neighborhood committee is being organized to help hostel residents become acquainted with the community and to aid them with their problems. The principal of nearby Benjamin Franklin High School, Dr. Leonard Covello, has already arranged to provide Nisei students attending any of the city's high schools with counseling and guidance at his school.

The hostel is conveniently located in an interracial neighborhood within a 15-minute bus ride of Grand Central Terminal and a five-minute walk of Fifth Avenue and Central Park. It has 44 sleeping rooms, a dining room seating 60 persons, a fully equipped kitchen, and adequate lounging and recreation space.

"IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED..."

Eighteen-year-old Harold Okada, Tule Lake, is a radio assembler for the Marc Simpson Manufacturing Company in New York City. The story of how he landed that job illustrates the old adage; "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

Harold came to New York in August with his heart set on getting a job in the radio field. The USES representative in the New York City District office sent him to a radio research and developing company, which hired him. Before he started to work, however, V-J day came and the shop was closed to prepare for reconversion. Harold was "unhired" and put on a waiting list. Since all the other companies dealing with radio were also in the middle of reconversion, Harold took a temporary job as a laboratory helper at Mt. Sinai Hospital. Meanwhile, he and the USES representative continued on the lookout for a radio opportunity, and he finally got his present job.

OTHER INTERESTED PARTIES

One unexpected result of the teletype about unfurnished apartments in Manhattan and The Bronx which the N. Y. C. District office sent to the centers on October 19 has given the local WRA staff a good deal of amusement. On the pretext of verifying the rental figures, one of the teletype operators called up to obtain additional information about the apartments -- especially their addresses. The District Office doesn't intend to become a housing bureau for the City of New York, but the WRA housing specialist is proving that housing is available and can be found by diligent searching.

Little Old NEW YORK

By ED SULLIVAN

Broadway at 42d

From the 1906 West Point Howitzer:

"Wainwright, Jonathan. Nicknames: Jim, Skinny. Ranks: Corporal, sergeant major, first sergeant, first captain, hop manager, marksman, toastmaster, 1906 New Year's party.

"This is IT!—the summit for which the pampered pets of the powers-that-be continually strive; the goal of every good cadet's ambition. Many honors have been heaped upon his head—so many that it is a wonder his slender frame has withstood their bending moments without any greater damage than giving to his knees a permanent set. Skinny will long remember that awful Halloween evening when just as he was making his most military salute and reporting: 'A Company all quiet, sir' about a ton of bricks dropped on the roof of his 1st Division. Skinny collapsed on the spot and it took the O. C. a good hour's work with the sponge to bring him around."

Pictures showing Mrs. Wainwright tensely starting toward her husband, as his plane landed, tell the story better than words. . . . It is a story that is being repeated in every section of our nation, as the men come home. . . . At the Hotel Astor Roof, swaying to Sammy Kaye's swell band, the shoulder patch of New York's 27th Division catches your eye. It's worn by a decorated captain with the 106th: "He's been away four years," the wife tells me. "Our outfit in Tokyo now," says the tanned officer. . . . The floor is crowded with soldiers, sailors, marines, seabees, Coast Guardsmen, Air Forces officers, technicians. Each one is holding tightly to his girl, ignoring everybody else on the floor. . . . They form a breath-catching pattern, the men of the winning American forces back on the home soil, enjoying the things and the girl they dreamed about when death was in every whine of a bullet.

The men who faced death now are going to face life, which has its own hazards, too. . . . Broadway for a space has lost its Coney Island cheapness. The hot dog stands are blocked out by the youthful American winners wearing the shoulder patches of every outfit that collaborated in smashing Hitler and Hirohito, and wearing the rainbow of star-studded ribbons that tell their own stories of exceptional heroism: the Silver Star, the DFC, the DSC, the Bronze Star, the Presidential Unit Citation. . . . The Stem is a riot of color, with boys from every Main Street in the nation swelling the population of America's most famous main street. . . . Their sleeves are colored with old stripes that tell of months of overseas service beyond the Pacific and the Atlantic. . . . Broadway never has been such a charming boulevard as it is in this month of September, 1945. . . . No longer is it tawdry, cheap or phony. This is the real McCoy.

Railway Express trucks still warn: "Tokyo still listening. Watch those loose lips." . . . Japanese-American Citizens' League of New York honoring Staff Sergt. Henry H. Gosho, of Merrill's Marauders, at Toyo Kwan restaurant (Nisei lads with Merrill did spectacular work, tapping Jap wires, thus ambushing one midnight attack that would have wiped out the Marauders). . . . Intones a rhymster in Capt. W. D. Brereton's U. S. Naval Receiving Station, New York, paper Pier 92 Transfer:

*"Good-by, in brief, to general perdition,
"Praise the Lord and stop the ammunition."*

Sergt. Emanuel Rosenberg, Air Forces, writes from overseas that the greatest show they've seen in 27 months just played Camp Detroit, France: "Give bows to Dixie Dunbar, the Rockettes, Joe and Jane McKenna. Sensational! Regards to the boys on Hinsdale Street, Bklyn."

Tojo speculated as to what history would say 500 years from now; it will say the Japs quit and Tojo shot himself, Tojo. . . . Marie Paxton, charming British actress, back from a terrific season with the Bonfils, at Denver. . . . Chuck Barnet says he never dreamed Commissioner Lewis Valentine and Butch LaGuardia would be comparing Crossley-Hooper ratings. . . . Macoco had told Kay Williams that on and after Sept. 6, when their divorce became final, she'd have to choose between him, a career or other marriage proposals. The whirlwind courtship with Adolf Spreckels supplied the answer. . . . Movie companies getting their Far Eastern branch managers back from the prison camps. . . . Fresh Meadow Country Club honoring Al Ciuci Oct. 11 for 20 years service. . . . Dorothy Kirsten planed in from Mexico. . . . Jap diary of the beheading of that Australian fier is a magnificent epitaph to the Australian's courage—proving again that the brave die only once.
