PROCEEDINGS

of the

1962 Pre-Primary Convention

California Labor Council on Political Education

Wednesday, April 11, 1962

Del Webb TowneHouse

Eighth and Market Streets, San Francisco

MORNING SESSION

The 1962 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor Council on Political Education was called to order at 10:30 a.m. at the Del Webb TowneHouse, San Francisco, by Albin J. Gruhn.

President Gruhn led the delegates in a pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Invocation

President Gruhn presented the Reverend Roy Nichols, Downs Memorial Methodist Church, Berkeley, who delivered the following invocation:

"Our Father, we have come from many posts of duty to carry out our responsibility as citizens in a democracy. Grant that our judgment may be governed by our responsibility not only to the rank and file, but also to the welfare of the unrepresented and oppressed men and women throughout the entire world who look to us for leadership.

"Grant wisdom in all of our deliberations, candor in each of our comments, and conciseness to each utterance.

"We beg Thy guidance at this convention that we may register success in Thy presence.

"In Christ's Name we pray. Amen."

President Albin J. Gruhn

President Gruhn welcomed the delegates and addressed them as follows:

"Delegates, may I extend to you a hearty welcome to this momentous 1962 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor Council on Political Education.

"This, one of the largest in attendance of delegates in California labor political action's history, is indicative of your concern about California's political posture in the vital years that lie ahead.

"Our great state with its eight additional congressional seats and the fact that it is soon to be the most populous of the 50 states of our nation, can and must be even more effective and a driving force in the struggle for freedom and social justice for all people.

"The deadly serious fight against the forces of the extreme radical right, such as the Birchers, and the extreme left, as represented by the Communists, must be carried on in our body politic by elected officials responsive to the strengthening of our democratic institutions and the needs of the workers, the small businessman, the small farmer, the youth, the elderly.

"Labor's political action from the grass-roots level of the local council on political education, district council on political education and now this State Council Convention can and must provide the political impetus to this type of elected official in all branches of our government.

"Labor in this state, through its councils on political education, has one of the most democratic processes for political action of any group in this state. The California Labor Council on Political Education, as many of you know, has through the leadership of our great Executive Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Pitts dedicated itself to the task of building up the strength of our COPE organizations in every part of the state. His appointment of a full-time assistant director of COPE in the person of Fred Smith is positive evidence of action in this regard.

"The California Labor COPE is no stronger than the combined strength of the chain of local and district COPEs throughout our great state. We can ill afford any weak links in this political action chain. Much has been done in the past few months to activate or reactivate our local and district COPE organizations. You know that there is much yet to be done in the area of affiliation and participation by our local unions in the local district and State Labor COPE organizations.

Supporting COPE With Positive Action

"Let's back up our deliberations and actions at this convention by positive action on the home front, affiliations, participation, registration; get out the vote. These and only these actions are what develop the political muscle that brings results on election day. This is what brings and maintains a responsive attitude on the part of the elected officials to labor's needs and programs for freedom and social justice.

"I can also point out to you the need for unity in political action, similar to the unity we have in the collective bargaining front.

"My observations in the last session of the state legislature, working with our Executive Secretary, further point out the need for collective political action. We cannot go it alone as individuals, and therefore I appeal to you to give these few thoughts that I express today your serious consideration when you return home after this convention."

JAMES A. SUFFRIDGE

President, Retail Clerks International, and Vice-President, American Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO

President Gruhn then presented James A. Suffridge, President of the Retail Clerks International Association, and a Vice President of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations, who, representing George Meany, AFL-CIO President, addressed the convention as follows:

"Of course, it is always a pleasure to get back to the bay region after being in exile for approximately 18 years.

"President Meany contacted my office the other day and asked if I would pinch-hit for him on this particular occasion. I, of course, jumped at the chance to have an opportunity to visit San Francisco, because at the time it had been almost two weeks since I had been in San Francisco, so I was happy to have this opportunity to come back again.

"President Meany wishes to have me express his personal regards, his best wishes for a successful and fruitful convention of your state COPE, and also bring to you the fraternal greetings and best wishes of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress for Industrial Organizations.

"When we think and talk in terms of our political arm or our legislative arm, of course we are all aware that we have our jurisdictional problems within our various and sundry activities. We are quite aware that COPE has one function in the State of California on the political front, while the State Federation has another function on the legislative front. We are aware, however, that when we enlarge, when we build our political arm, that we must build it on a foundation, and that foundation must be the American trade union movement. It is for that reason that I would like to talk for just a few minutes on that particular foundation.

Unity and Hard Work

"Along about October and November of last year, it was difficult to pick up a daily paper or watch TV or listen to the radio without hearing the dire predictions of the fall of the American labor movement. Unity of the American labor movement was no longer possible; there would be a split. In December at the convention some of them were even so bold as to predict the type of split. Most of the wise men said it wouldn't split exactly the way it went together. When I attended this particular convention and had the opportunity to attend as a delegate, most of the departments had held their conventions prior to the AFL-CIO convention, and when I was also privileged to sit in as a visitor at the Building Trades Convention, I found none of the elements that had been mentioned, that I had been reading about in the daily paper and that I had been seeing or hearing on the air for the previous two months. We saw, instead of that, when the convention was called to order in December, the largest delegation that has ever gathered together in America to represent the trade union center of America. We saw the committees functioning, working long hours, burning the midnight oil, to assure a successful convention.

"When we got into the crux of the situation, one of the toughest subjects that was to come before the convention, we were pleased to note that the Executive Council and each member was willing to put in many extra hours; in fact, we outdid our own committee. We stayed in session on that one morning until 4 o'clock in the morning, and were fortunately able to come out of that meeting with a unanimous vote of the Executive Council on the internal disputes plan.

"We were further pleased with the report of the committee and reports of the Executive Council, and those of you who were present at Bell Harbor know that the reports were accepted in most instances unanimously. I believe on the international dispute plan we had one dissenting vote.

State COPE on Strong Foundation

"So we meet here today in a State COPE meeting knowing that the foundation that we build on, and that we project our activities from, is in good order and is enjoying the greatest strength that it has ever enjoyed. I think that it is enjoying the most positive, the most militant leadership that it has ever had in the history of the American labor movement, despite the fact that we have now and will always have, and we probably would be disappointed if we didn't have, a small minority that might be numbered one, two or three, that always like to predict the doom and the split-up of the American labor movement.

"When we think of California—and being a former Oakland boy, I am very much aware of the type of labor movement we have in California—I am very much aware of the fact that if our political education arm in California was as good as our labor movement in California, there is nothing whatsoever that can beat us. I say that because I know that we are going through a period of time in California and in the political arena that is not too much different from the past when it comes to our own individual, rugged ideas on that particular subject.

"I'm reminded, and I would like to think back in the proper context, of the period in the middle '30s in this area. I would like to think of the 1934 general strike, not as a general strike, but because of what that meant to the building of the labor movement in this State; what it meant to revitalizing the labor movement, and what it meant to the unions in this particular area. I recall very well the battle cry at that time that everyone had on his lips: that an injury to one is an injury to all. I am very much aware that we lost that slogan. In fact, I think it was picked up by one organization that might still use it today. Most of us are a little bit self-conscious about using that particular slogan, but, no matter what we call it, I think we must return to that concept, not only politically but as trade unionists, if we are to go ahead and do the things that we are charged with the responsibility of doing.

"I intended to state at the outset that it is a pleasure to be here for a lot of reasons. One of them is that about 20-odd years ago I had the opportunity to nominate your President, Al Gruhn, to the post of Vice President of the State Federation of Labor. So it is quite a pleasure to see him presiding here today and to see him the President of the California labor movement.

"As we go into 1962, it would be trite, probably, and presumptuous to say too much about what we face in '62. We know this is a year of the big challenge. Every year that I've been in the labor movement—26 consecutive years as a paid official—every year has been the year of the big challenge, and I think that it is true. I believe that in 1963 we will face a greater challenge than in '62, and I believe that will be true in each subsequent year, as a matter of fact. So we must face the periods as they come along and build up our own spirits, our own dedication, and our own sincerity as trade union leaders if we are to deliver the goods and to represent the rank and file membership of our organization as we are expected to do.

"Now, labor in the political arena hasn't been taken too seriously in many quarters over the past several years for several reasons. One of them is that we usually manage to dilute our true strength by our division. We are on the trade union front on the picket line quite frequently. We can unite, but we do find our difficulty in staying united in the political field. I would like to say that in my opinion the question of labor's participation in political activities today and from here on out will be a serious business. It will not be a plaything, as some of the people outside of labor have thought during the past few years. Thinking of that, I am reminded of the fact that it was not too many years ago when the Wright brothers built a contraption that they called a flying machine. They flew it about 12 seconds. One of the news wires put out a release to this effect, and in the newspapers throughout the nation, each one wrote his own story. There were dozens of stories. Very few of them took the flight seriously; most of them thought they were having their legs pulled. Most of them thought the Wright brothers didn't fly. Most of them thought this toy was not worthy of consideration. Today the planes, just like the telephone (and it went through the same period), are a vital part of our everyday life, just as our political arm and political education are a vital part of the American trade union movement today.

Keep Ahead of the Game!

"I think that we must match our mission. I think that the leadership in labor and in our political arm must go and do everything possible to keep ahead of the game. We know that we are charged with the responsibility of making more gains. We are also charged with the prevention of a further erosion of the gains that we already have. We know in '62 we will face the effort on the part of our opponents to pass more right-to-work laws throughout the various states. In our union we know that in Indiana, Florida, and other states, they will attempt to outlaw the agency shop or the checkoffs, where these two instruments have been almost a substitute for the union shop in those states. We are aware, and I am sure you are aware of the fact, that while we were looking out the window last year and the year before and this year, in some cases some of the state legislatures, in industrial states where unionism is strong, have almost emasculated the child labor laws in those particular states, laws that it took many years to get on the books, laws that we still do not have on the books on a national basis. So I think we have to, of course, be very wide awake on watching all of the inroads and the various and sundry programs of that nature.

National Activities

"We have on the national scene at the present time, as you are aware, many current bills before the Congress in Washington that we are interested in doing something about. AFL-CIO is doing everything it can to have passed decent, reasonable, effective and workable aged medical plans under the social security system. We are interested in the public works program that will be a backstop against the possibility of depression. We are interested in the revision of the tax law that will be realistic, that will not give the rich a break at the expense of the working people. We are interested in the Trade Expansion Act, and those of you that have taken an interest in the international picture know that is perhaps more vital to the workers of the United States than any of us have stopped to realize, unless we have specialized in this question of imports and exports. We have to watch that. The AFL-CIO is backing the Youth Opportunity Act, the little CCC program for youngsters about 18 to 20 years of age. We know from the Building Trades' standpoint we must obtain the amendment to the Davis-Bacon Act where the extras over and above wages and hours—I am talking about vacation, health insurance and so on—should be included in that particular Act. We are interested in backing the equal pay for equal work bill, that is now before the legislation. We are interested in a bill to provide truth in lending, so that if you borrow money or buy something on time you will know what you are paying in the way of interest.

"If I may drop the AFL-CIO Vice President's hat for just a moment and return to the Retail Clerks' hat, I will let you know, if you buy a washing machine from Sears—which I hope you won't do during this period—you would be paying 48 per cent interest—4 per cent a month. No charge for that remark.

Stay Alert on Every Front

"We also have some long-range plans. We know that ultimately 14-B of the Taft-Hartley must be deleted. We know that we must remove the right of the states to pass the right-to-work laws as set forth in the Taft-Hartley Act. This will be a long-term thing and it will be tough. We know that we must push for realistic school bills. I don't need to discuss that with you, because it will be a long, rough road before we get a good school bill, in my opinion. We know that the thing that we are facing today on the political front is the job of arousing the rank and file membership of our organization. We know that just a complacent union membership is not enough to overcome the things that we are facing in the future. We know that we must give to the people that we represent, goals; we must give them something to stand for, something that they will have a reason to fight for. We know that we, as trade union leaders, must look beyond the political patronage that we ourselves might hope to get if so-and-so is elected, and pass that up and go along to the general interest of all, rather than thinking either too provincially or too personally on this particular thing. We know that we must remain in the position to criticize and pick, attack any of the politicians that fail to keep election pledges. We know also that this may sound old-fashioned, but there are many of us, and I think this is more true nationally today than ever before in the history of my association with trade unionism, but I think we must return to this idea of rewarding our friends and punishing our enemies if we are to go ahead, irrespective of what particular party they might represent. I think that we cannot afford the luxury, I don't think it is good judgment for us to become a one-party organization. I don't think we can have all of our eggs in one basket type operation and still serve the general and best interests of organized labor as a whole.

"Organized labor must be free; organized labor must remain free to act freely and to be the free institution that we have boasted about over these many years. I think also that labor in the future will have to act a little more affirmatively than we have in the past. I think we must give affirmative leadership, otherwise we are going to be accused in the future of what we have been accused of in the past, and that is reacting to the position of, or reacting to the presentations that are made by our enemies, whether they be before the state, federal, or other law enforcement or law enacting bodies.

Being FOR Something, Not Just Against

"I had occasion, about 1945, to attend a big rally in Ashville, North Carolina, and I saw Wayne Morse on the platform look out over a group about this size, and with a bunch of national AFL leaders on the rostrum, and I was 'way back in the corner, and I heard him dare anyone to get up and tell him that they had ever offered him a piece of constructive legislation. He accused us in this meeting of always being against something. So this is the point that I make. I know there have been many changes since '45 and this is not totally true, but I do believe that we must be far more affirmative, we must be more original. I think we must look ahead a little further, and I think this question that the military uses frequently, the question of anticipatory retaliation, is something that we will have to really practice as we go into the future. I think we'll always have to be flexible—we must have flexibility, but I would hope that as a labor movement we would not have flexible goals and flexible purposes. I think we must know where we are going and set our course and try to steer accordingly.

"I think this fall that we would all agree that we are likely to have a very inert or very inactive electorate. I think that in some states, and this might not be so in California, but it could be, I think that we'll find that the voters have tremendous lack of fondness for either one of the candidates in some of the offices. I think in this case we will find that the voters in many areas will be simply staying away from the polls because they are not really captivated by any of the candidates, or either of the candidates running for a particular office. This is the reason why I mentioned earlier that I believe that we must develop, particularly where the personalities that we are interested in are either not strong or they don't project well, or sometimes they don't think too clearly through some of their remarks before they make them, that we are going to have to develop the issues if we expect people to get out and vote.

"I think we will have to develop issues to support our position and not in many of the elections this year just depend solely on the personalities. We have developed a habit, and the public has supported this, of merely voting for a TV image. But I think the time has come when we are going to have to put alongside of the image of the person that we are backing, the issues, so that the people that we represent will know what we stand for and will go out to vote for the person that represents the issues, not merely because he might wear his tie right or be a nice-looking guy.

Registration Is a Must

"I think we must push registration, and I know the AFL-CIO has committed several thousands of dollars to a registration program. We know that a voter is not a voter or not an eligible voter unless he is registered. We know he is not a voter or a good citizen until he actually exercises this particular right, this particular franchise — that is, his right to vote.

"It is a strange situation in our country today, particularly when we look at other countries in Europe, some of the older countries; they turn out from 85 to 95 percent of the total eligible voters on their elections, and we are only able to get out just a handful in many cases. That is a really disgraceful representation, particularly so far as the members of our organization are concerned.

"I would like to say to you in closing, as I am here representing President Meany and the AFL-CIO, that the national organization is willing to cooperate in every way possible. Political activities, as we know, have to start from the Central Labor Council level, State Federation, and so on; it can't come the other way. I believe you will find that the national officers of the AFL-CIO are depending upon the state and local organizations to furnish the individual recommendations and information in the various communities. On this particular point, in closing, I am reminded of a little story that I heard recently about a man that had found that another fellow was running around with his wife. He made every effort to contact this gentleman by telephone without success. So he sat down and dictated a letter to him, and he said: 'Dear Mr. So-and-So: I am familiar with the relationship that you have with my wife. I've endeavored to contact you by telephone without success. I would appreciate it if you would stop by my office next Friday morning at 10 o'clock so we can discuss this matter.'

"The fellow when he received this letter read it, thought a few minutes, and dictated an answer. He said: 'Dear Sir: This will acknowledge your form letter of such-and-such date. I regret that I'll be out of the city and unable to meet with you Friday morning at 10 a.m. as per your invitation. You may be assured, however, of my cooperation, and that I will go along with whatever the boys decide'."

President Gruhn then presented Brother Suffridge with a guest badge to the convention.

On motion by Secretary Pitts, the convention approved these committee appointments.

Committee on Credentials

Chairman James H. Blackburn of the Committee on Credentials reported for the committee. He made a motion that the delegates as printed in the preliminary roll be seated as delegates. The motion was seconded and carried.

Chairman Blackburn then read the changes and final report of delegates. (Completed roll of delegates may be found on pages 19-24.) He moved that the additional delegates be seated. The motion was seconded and adopted.

The committee chairman then thanked his committee and the COPE staff. On his motion, the committee's report as a whole was adopted.

President Gruhn then thanked the committee and discharged them.

Rules and Order of Business Committee

Chairman Max J. Osslo of the Rules and Order of Business Committee reported for the committee as follows:

"The committee recommends for your consideration and adoption the rules and order of business for the 1962 Pre-Primary Election Convention as follows:

"1. Roberts Rules of Order. The convention shall be governed by Roberts Rules of Order on all matters not provided by the Constitution or specified in these rules.

"2. Rules—Adoption of Standing Rules. The adoption of the standing rules shall require an affirmative vote of a majority of the duly qualified delegates to the convention, present and voting. When once adopted, such standing rules shall remain in effect, unless suspended or amended as provided in these rules.

"3. Amendment of Standing Rules. No standing rule of the convention shall be amended except by an affirmative vote of a majority of the duly qualified delegates to the convention, present and voting. No such amendment shall be considered until it shall have been referred to and reported by the Committee on Rules.

"4. Convening the Convention. The convention shall convene at 10:00 a.m.

"5. Resolutions Defined. Whenever the word "resolution" is used in these rules, it shall include constitutional amendments.

"6. Committee Reports. All committees shall report on all resolutions submitted to them. Whenever there is majority and minority division on any committee, both the majority and minority shall be entitled to report to the convention. The discussion and vote of concurrence or non-concurrence shall be first on the minority report.

"7. Committee Quorum. A majority of any committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of its business. At least a majority of all members present and voting shall be required to adopt a recommendation on a resolution.

"8. Passage of Resolutions and Committee Reports by Convention.

- (a) A majority of the delegates present and voting shall be required to act on a committee report or a resolution, except a constitutional amendment, which shall require a two-thirds vote of the delegates present and voting.
- (b) No motion or resolution shall be finally acted upon until an opportunity to speak has been given the delegate making or introducing same, if he so desires.

"9. Roll Call Vote. At the request of seventy-five (75) delegates present and voting, any motion shall be voted on by roll call per capita vote of the delegates. When a roll call has been ordered, no adjournment shall take place until the result has been announced.

"10. Precedence of Motions During Debate. When a question is under debate or before the convention, no motions shall be received but the following, which shall take precedence in the order named:

- First—To adjourn;
- Second—To recess to a time certain;
- Third—To the previous question;
- Fourth—To set as a special order of business;
- Fifth—To postpone to a stated time;
- Sixth—To postpone indefinitely;
- Seventh—To refer to, or re-refer to committee;
- Eighth—To divide or amend;
- Ninth—To lay on the table.

"11. Motions in Writing. Upon request of the chairman, a motion shall be reduced to writing and shall be read to the convention by the chairman before the same is acted upon.

"12. Contents of Motions. No motion, whether oral or written, shall be adopted until the same shall be seconded and distinctly stated to the convention by the chairman.

"13. Motion to Reconsider. A motion to reconsider shall not be entertained unless made by a delegate who voted with the prevailing side; such a motion shall require a two-thirds vote to carry.

"14. Motion to Table. A motion to lay on the table shall be put without debate.

"15. Recognition and Decorum of Delegates.

- (a) Delegates when arising to speak shall respectfully address the chair and announce their full name and the identity of the organization which they represent.
- (b) In the event two or more delegates arise to speak at the same time, the chair shall decide which delegate is entitled to the floor.
- (c) No delegate shall interrupt any other delegate who is speaking, except for the purpose of raising a point of order or appealing from a ruling of the chair.
- (d) Any delegate may appeal from a decision of the chairman, without waiting for recognition by the chairman, even though another delegate has the floor. No appeal is in order when another is pending, or when other business has been transacted by the convention prior to the appeal being taken.
- (e) Any delegate who is called to order while speaking shall, at the request of the chair, be seated while the point of order is decided, after which, if in order, the delegate shall be permitted to proceed. The same shall apply while an appeal from the chair is being decided.
- (f) No delegate shall speak more than once on the same subject until all who desire to speak shall have had an opportunity to do so; nor more than twice on the same subject without permission by a majority vote of the delegates present and voting; nor longer than five minutes at a time without permission by a majority vote of the delegates present and voting.
- (g) Any delegate may rise to explain a matter personal to himself, and shall forthwith be recognized by the chairman, but shall not discuss a question in such explanation. Such matters of personal privilege yield only to a motion to recess or adjournment.

"16. Voting Not to Be Interrupted. When once begun, voting shall not be interrupted. No delegate shall be allowed to change his vote, or have his vote recorded after the vote is announced.

"17. Attendance of Delegates. Each delegate shall report to the Sergeant-at-Arms at the beginning of the session and shall sign the card presented to him; except, if unavoidably absent, he shall have the privilege of reporting to the Secretary."

Chairman Osslo moved that the committee's report be adopted.

The motion was duly seconded and adopted.

Its report being completed and adopted, the committee was discharged with thanks by President Gruhn.

(There were no reports from the Committee on Resolutions nor the Committee on Constitution, as no resolutions or constitutional amendments had been offered.)

Recommendations and Endorsements

Secretary Pitts then reported for the Executive Council and presented their endorsement recommendations, as follows:

"The Executive Council of the California Council of the California Labor Council on Political Education, together with the duly appointed advisory committee, met in this hotel Tuesday, April 10, 1962, to interview candidates from various statewide offices to be contested in the primary elections of June 5th. Following the interview period, the advisory committee made its recommendations to the Executive Council. The Executive Council then met in separate session and makes the following recommendations to the convention:

Recommendation for United States Senator

In Democratic Primary—
Richard Richards.

In Republican Primary—
Thomas H. Kuchel.

In considering this office, your Executive Council recognized that in the June 5 closed primary, with the repeal of cross-filing, registered Democrats and Republicans will be restricted to a choice among candidates of their own party in their respective primaries.

Accordingly, after interview of candidates for this office, the Executive Council recommends the endorsement of Thomas H. Kuchel in the Republican Primary, and Richard Richards in the Democratic Primary. In each case the individual is recommended as the preferred candidate for the nomination of his party.

The Executive Council's recommendation, however, is not to be interpreted as extending beyond the June 5 Primary. Final judgment on this office will be the subject of consideration at the Pre-General Election convention of California Labor COPE to be held later this year.

The Secretary then moved the adoption of the recommendations of the Executive Council, as they pertained to the office of United States Senator.

The motion was seconded from the floor.

The following delegates engaged in the lengthy discussion which ensued: George W. Johns, San Francisco Central Labor Council; Harry Bloch, Los Angeles County COPE; Harlan Savage, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers No. 128, Long Beach; Bill O'Rear, COPE, Fresno; U. S. Simonds, Carpenters and Joiners No. 162, San Mateo; Leonard Levy, Clothing Workers No. 55d, Los Angeles; Richard Cartwright, Auto Workers No. 887, Los Angeles; Charles W. Walker, Electrical Workers No. 11, Los Angeles; Herman Leavitt, Bartenders No. 284, Los Angeles; George E. Jenkins, Hod Carriers and Common Laborers No. 690, Monterey; O. T. Satre, Painters District Council No. 52, Santa Barbara; Anthony Cannata, Steelworkers No. 1440, Pittsburg; John L. Hogg, Building and Construction Trades Council, San Francisco; Elizabeth R. Kelley, Waitresses No. 48, San Francisco; Dick Allander, Construction and General Laborers No. 261, San Francisco; Al G. Boardman, Operating Engineers State Conference, San Francisco; Gordon A. McCulloch, Carpenters State Council, San Francisco; James H. Howe, Jr., Film Technicians No. 683, Hollywood; Milton B. Hanks, Hod Carriers and Common Laborers No. 300, Los Angeles; J. L. Childers, Building and Construction Trades Council, Oakland; J. J. Christian, Building and Construction Trades Council, Los Angeles; Max J. Osslo, Butchers No. 229, San Diego; Jesse Bernard, Building and Construction Trades Council, Fresno County; Fred E. Weeks, Plumbers No. 761, Glendale; Jackie Walsh, Waitresses No. 48, San Francisco.

At this point, there was a motion from the floor, duly seconded, for the previous question.

The motion was carried.

Concluding Remarks of Secretary Pitts

The chairman then presented Secretary Pitts, who made the following concluding remarks as maker of the motion before the convention:

"On behalf of the Executive Council and its recommendation which I reported to you, first may I clear the air as to the question of dual endorsement.

"Many delegates at the microphone have been referring to this steadily as a dual endorsement. It is not that in the sense that we have had it in the past in our political organization structure in California. You will notice that there is a very carefully worded statement tendered along with the recommendation, very carefully worded because it was the feeling of the Executive Council in making this recommendation to the convention that they did not want in any way, shape, form or fashion, that it be misunderstood to the degree that it was a dual endorsement. This we had hoped to make clear.

"I read it very carefully and slowly to you at the outset, and you have it before you yourselves in the recommendation sheet, and you can read it so that it can be very clearly understood.

"Yes, the Executive Council did have great concern, you may be assured, otherwise we would not have been there until quarter to 2:00 this morning. The Executive Council has some serious concern in that we are now facing a somewhat different situation in California than we have previously faced. As a result of action of our state government, we no longer have a cross filing system. The question has been raised by a delegate this morning: 'Why is it that recommendations in both parties were not made for other offices and in the various district offices?'

"May I point out to you clearly that district recommendations originate with local COPE organizations in the area of the congressional, state senatorial and assembly districts involved. You will find in the recommendations in a couple of spots where this has been done by the local COPE organization, where they recognized the problem that they had members who were registered in the Republican party, and that if they did not give them a recommendation in the Republican party in this instance, they would have no candidate to vote for, endorsed by labor. When they receive their ballots, they will be just like those of us who have registered in the Democratic party; they will only have those candidates from their own political party on them in the June 5th primary. You will note that it says very clearly in the Executive Council's statement that the recommendations are not extended beyond the June 5th primary.

"Let me say to you about this question of the Republican party nomination for United States senatorship: I see among those who have filed on the Republican ticket for the United States senatorship in California one of the most reactionary individuals that could exist as an opponent to Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, and I'll name him without hesitation: Mr. Lloyd Wright. I think most of you have heard something about him, particularly those from Southern California surely have heard a great deal about Mr. Lloyd Wright down through the years. I have had the misfortune, at some time or other in my life, to have rubbed shoulders with this individual, and I know his attitude, his philosophy, the kind of vicious stuff he preaches and the kind of a problem he poses in this instance. I think the Executive Council in reaching its conclusion took into consideration this very serious fact that we do have a very black reactionary in this instance opposing Senator Kuchel on the Republican ticket.

"Now, sure, I'm positive that most of us in this room are registered in the Democratic party, as I am. But if you all would be honest with yourselves for a few moments—and some of you do a little card job on the membership rolls of your unions, you would see there are members registered in the Republican party. I have done a checking job on a union, and in the instance of the check I made there was almost 40 percent of that membership registered in the Republican party. This poses a very serious problem to us, as we no longer have a primary cross-filing system in California. It poses a very serious problem in that this should be given consideration at every local level office from the Assembly on up through the State senatorial districts, through the congressional districts, and on into other offices.

"Now, it may well be said: So why did not the Executive Council give consideration to this matter as it pertains to the Governor of the State of California? Well, believe me, as far as the candidates running for the job of Governor on the Republican ticket in the State of California are concerned, neither of them could be given any consideration by the labor movement. We know Mr. Nixon for what he is; we know Mr. Shell for what he is, because in the '61 session of our legislature we took a look at his record. Out of 38 votes, Shell had 37 bad votes and was absent once. So there is no alternative as to the representatives who are on this list, on that side of the ticket.

"Racing down the line of candidates, if you will, of the state constitutional offices, you cannot find one there who is worthy of any consideration, who is at least halfway with us. And we would rather have our people who are registered in the Republican party cast their vote for a man who is there, than cast their vote for a bum on the other side. This poses a very serious problem.

"Sure there are feelings in our convention on both sides of this issue. This is another reason that the Executive Council approached this in this fashion. We have worked and worked hard in the last year and a half to rebuild a COPE organization. I mean rebuild it, because it has been torn down, disintegrated in some places, and grown absolutely stagnant and dead in some areas. This is no easy project. When I assumed the responsibility of my office it was one of my first projects, as soon as the '61 session of the legislature was over, to attempt to build a COPE organization and build it on a better, larger and sounder basis than has ever existed in this state. In building this structure we don't want to come to this convention today and gut it and tear it apart. We have made a great amount of progress in this year of 1962, and in the fall of 1961 after the legislative session, in doing this constructive work on our California Labor Council on Political Education.

"In my humble opinion, the local levels did not do the job that should have been done with respect to dealing with the problem that we no longer have cross filing in California. They should have dealt with it on a better basis, as they did in one or two instances. This, in itself, points up very clearly that we had better revise our thinking a little bit. We had better give consideration to our brothers who are in this organization who have had some problems for themselves, and try to be tolerant and lenient and understanding in some instances. Then, we'll begin to build, and build, and build, and we will have an organization. Not one where we come and fight like cats and dogs and then go out and go our separate 40,000 different ways in the state. We cannot allow candidates to begin to control us, as has been done, and as I have seen outside the door and had reported to me today; a candidate who seeks to mastermind the floor operations of this convention draws from me every ounce of wrath I can produce. I don't want candidates running labor's conventions. This is our convention, and I appeal to you to support the recommendations of the Executive Council, to maintain the kind of operation we have here, and then come back to the pre-general election convention of COPE this year and make a fair decision based upon the knowledge that you will have at hand then, which will certainly be much more than you can have at a pre-primary convention.

"At that time things will be done, many things will be said, and many votes will be counted. All of you will be in a better position to intelligently analyze what should be done with respect to the general election in this office and in every other office in the state of California.

"I appeal to you to uphold the Executive Council's recommendation in the interest of maintaining a larger COPE than we have ever had and in the interest of building it to a bigger and better COPE organization than we have ever had in California. Thank you."

Request for Roll Call

Leonard Levy, Clothing Workers No. 55d, Los Angeles, called for a roll call vote on the motion. Since 75 delegates joined in his request, President Gruhn announced there would be a roll call. However, there being no objection, he ruled the convention would recess for lunch, and vote immediately upon reconvening.

Recess

The convention recessed at 12:50 p.m., to reconvene at 2:00 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The convention was called to order at 2:30 p.m. by President Gruhn.

The chairman explained various aspects of the voting procedure.

Roll Call Vote on Executive Council's Recommendation

Chairman Blackburn of the Committee on Credentials then conducted the roll call vote on the Executive Council's recommendation to endorse Kuchel in the Republican primary and Richards in the Democratic primary for United States Senator.

The vote was 102,665 in favor of the motion, and 140,800 opposed.

The motion was therefore lost.

Subsequent Motion

Jesse Bernard, Fresno-Madera Building Trades Council, moved there be an "open" recommendation for the office of United States Senator. There was a second from the floor.

Arthur R. Hellender, Central Labor Council, Oakland, offered a substitute motion that the convention endorse Richard Richards. The motion was seconded from the floor.

John Crowley, Professional Embalmers No. 9049, San Francisco, called for the question.

There was a demand from the floor for a roll call vote on the substitute motion, to endorse Richard Richards. The chairman ruled that there would be a roll call vote. Although it was 5:50 p.m., the delegates agreed to proceed without recess.

Roll Call Vote on Endorsing Richards

Chairman Blackburn of the Committee on Credentials took the roll call vote on the substitute motion to endorse Richards, with the following results: in favor, 142,865; opposed, 68,438.

The motion was therefore passed to endorse Richard Richards for United States Senator.

Other Recommendations of Executive Council

President Gruhn then called on Secretary Pitts to continue with the recommendations of the Executive Council.

The Secretary read, in order, the recommendations for each of these offices: Governor, Edmund G. Brown, (D); Lieutenant Governor, Glenn Anderson (D); Secretary of State, Don Rose (D); State Controller, Alan Cranston (D); State Treasurer, Bert A. Betts (D); Attorney General, Stanley Mosk (D); Superintendent of Public Instruction, Ralph Richardson.

As each of the above recommendations was read, the Secretary moved its adoption. The motions were carried.

Secretary Pitts then read the Executive Council's recommendations for district offices.

On motion by Robert S. Ash, Central Labor Council, Oakland-Alameda County, seconded from floor, the convention then approved as a whole the recommendations submitted with respect to candidates for the United States Congress.

On motion of Secretary Pitts, seconded from the floor, the recommendations with reference to the State Senate were also concurred in by the convention.

Secretary Pitts then moved that the Council's recommendations for the State Assembly be approved. After a second from the floor, the motion was carried.

After a motion by Secretary Pitts, duly seconded, the convention accepted the Council's report for the four districts of the State Board of Equalization.

This completed the convention's action in regard to the endorsement of candidates in the primary election. The complete list of endorsements follows:

Authorization for Supplementary Actions

Secretary Pitts then moved as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, in order to clear the desk of what is appropriately the Convention's business, I would move at this time that wherever and whenever an office is left open on the action of this Convention, the Secretary-Treasurer, subject to the approval of the Executive Council, shall be given full power to act and make endorsements, after consultation with the local COPE, if any, where they exist."

The motion was seconded from the floor and adopted.

"I move also that the Executive Council be authorized to withdraw the endorsement of any candidate should his actions be detrimental to the labor movement."

The motion was seconded from the floor and adopted.

Thos. L. Pitts

Secretary Pitts then made the following remarks:

"May I say, delegates who have had the courage, the willingness, the vitality, and I guess the physical balance to be able to stay here and run through this convention session, that this has been the longest and most trying convention of California's Labor Council on Political Education that we have ever had.

"As I reported to you earlier, it is my desire, and I am sure it is the desire of President Gruhn and all of our people in the office, that we continue to build this organization to the point where we become the most effective political force that can possibly exist within the state of California.

"We have had a most democratic session this afternoon. We have had the ability and opportunity to express ourselves in our different and varied directions.

"Tonight when we leave this convention, it is my charged responsibility to reflect what has been adopted and what has been set forth by this convention. That responsibility I fully accept. I will do what the bidding of this convention is, and at the same time I ask of all of you, regardless of what differences you may have had from time to time throughout the day, that you put your shoulder to the wheel. That is necessary to make our political organization just as potent as it can possibly be made in the state. This is the only way the labor movement in California is going to succeed, the only way that it can succeed in protecting in the political field what we have won.

"I trust and hope that you join with me in exercising and fully working toward measuring up to the responsibilities that are ours.

"Thank you very much."

Richard Richards Invited Into Convention

Delegate Robert Cooper, Sheetmetal Workers No. 216, made a motion, duly seconded from the floor, that Richard Richards, who was outside, be invited into the convention.

The motion passed.

Delegate George Roberts, Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, praised the Executive Council and the delegates for the fine democratic procedures which had characterized the convention.

President Gruhn thanked the delegate for himself and Secretary Pitts.

Richard Richards
COPE-Endorsed Candidate for United States Senator

At the Chairman's invitation, Richard Richards addressed the convention in these words:

"Members of COPE and my friends: I am aware of how tired every one of you is. I am aware of how much you have gone through, and I have gone through a great deal of this by osmosis with you.

"I am grateful for your decision, and I am grateful for your patience.

"I want to say this: George said a moment ago we have watched democracy at work, and indeed we have. And democracy is often reached the hard way by group decisions and the solving of group problems. It goes beyond that. It is the obtaining of group expressions.

"There are no more able people in or out of the labor movement than we have had right here reaching decisions the hard way today. I regret that it took so long. One reason, however, that it did take so long was because the decision was truly important. I hope to justify the importance of that decision to every one of you, with malice toward none; and I mean that in its fullest sense, with a full understanding of the fact that delegates one after another came up and voted their commitments, voted their conscience on both sides. I understand it as you understand it—the working of every one of our locals and the people that made possible the moves that you took.

"We have reached here a decision which in the course of this campaign will be justified, and in the course of the years ahead, after we gain the other offices which are your offices, and give to you the voice which is your voice, and make for you the decisions that are your decisions, that are important to those in this room, to those that are on both sides of this question, and whose decision you reached with such effort, and to those whom we all represent that are not in this room and never will be, this then will be the justification for the work that you did.

"I am grateful to you for the chance to play a part in this justification. I look forward to a real campaign.

"Thank you very much. Good luck to you."

President Gruhn's
Closing Remarks

President Gruhn then addressed the delegates, in closing:

"Delegates, before we adjourn there are a couple of comments that the chairman would like to make, and which it is his prerogative to point out before you wend your ways home.

"If we search our consciences, and I think we may well do so, there are some reflections we must make. What I say now, I say from the experience of having been a secretary of a Labor Council from 1937 to 1960, and of being since 1943 an officer of a political action organization of labor, on the local grass-roots level. Many of you here today, heading state organizations, and the various trades and crafts of our great trade union movement, know the comments I have made at your state conferences, and the letters I have sent to you, about your unions which are not affiliated with our state COPE organization. You know the necessity of having these organizations of yours affiliate with the local, district and state COPEs to give us the strength we must have, so that when we endorse a candidate and exert labor influence in the voting in a particular area, whether it is an assembly district, a senate district, a congressional district, a city council, or in the election for county supervisor or any other local or state office, we endorse not only as a matter of procedure, but to get results.

"We must have the political muscle and the participation behind it to bring about the results we want—and then to give our candidates who are elected the backing to carry out effective support of labor's program for social progress, on the community, county, state, and national level.

"I have been a trade unionist all my life and gone through the dark days of the depression, when labor was a nonentity in our country, and then seen the great progress that working men and women and their families have made—with better homes, better working conditions, better vacation rights, better workmen's compensation, disability insurance, civil rights, so that all citizens regardless of race, color and creed have equal rights in every area. All of these things are the basic program of the trade union group. No other group in our society has carried the torch in these areas, and sometimes I think some of you who have been so loyal in working in your communities begin to wonder if our own members and our local unions realize the full import of the trade union movement upon our society and how much more it could be if we do our part, and how much more effective it could be.

"There are great goals ahead of us, not only in our own communities, our state and our nation. But the very survival of our democratic institutions, the dignity of the individual and all these things I have mentioned, not only in our country but throughout the world depend upon the free trade union movement and not upon the selfish interests that look upon themselves first and the interests of people second.

"I have had the chance in recent months since I have been in this office to talk to delegates of unions from other countries throughout the world, and they are looking to us for leadership to guide them in the fight against totalitarianism, by whatever name you want to call it, and they foresee if we fail to carry out our tasks the greatest catastrophe that this world has ever known. We have what it takes to do the job, so let's go back to our communities and let's tell these fellows who are in your trade union movement to affiliate with our local COPEs, to participate with their local COPEs, to affiliate with the State COPE.

"Let me just look at the participation

we had today. You know, the local membership in the state of California. I know Secretary-Treasurer Pitts feels the same way I do, there is great room for improvement and a great need for building this COPE organization on every level in California. I sincerely pray that each and every one of you will go back and give this message to the Brothers and Sisters who don't seem to understand that in the labor movement, when you become a member of a trade union, you leave your rugged individualist position, and you work collectively together for the best of all, for the best for the majority.

"With that thought in mind I can only say to you I know we have had a rather strenuous convention. Quite a few issues came up. I only hope that I have been fair in my handling of you as delegates in connection with the issues that came up.

"God bless all of you. Have a safe journey home and let's go out and do a real job and bring about this total objective that I have mentioned—freedom, social justice for all people throughout the world.

"Thank you."

REPORT OF SECRETARY-TREASURER

To the 1962 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor Council On Political Education:

Greetings!

This report covers the period of activities of the California Labor Council on Political Education since the general election in 1960. California labor's successes and failures in that election, coupled with developments in the intervening period, have served to drive home the fact known to us all that we have barely begun to scratch the surface of organized labor's political potential. While we may rightly take pride in past election campaign achievements, there is little satisfaction to be gained in the long run if we allow these victories to be dissipated through the abandonment of our organizational strength politically between election campaigns.

On the economic front, organized labor learned early in its history that a union which does not function on a full-time basis cannot effectively advance the conditions of life and labor of its membership. The organization of workers, the negotiation of collective bargaining agreements, the administration and policing of such agreements, are all part of a continuing process in the functioning of labor unions at the economic level. To abandon any one phase in this process is to dissipate the strength of organization, and risk the loss of wages and working conditions won from a position of strength.

The same is true of political action, as a vital and indispensable adjunct to economic action at the workshop level. The registration of union members and their families, the education of workers on issues, the endorsement of candidates for office, and the mounting of election campaigns, all require the effective functioning of COPE organizations on a full-time basis. Political activity which confines itself to election campaign periods cannot be expected to produce results any more enduring than economic action at the workshop which abandons organizational strength between collective bargaining negotiations.

Candidates elected to office have demonstrated a capacity for behaving as politicians. Clearly, it is not enough to send a representative to the Legislature or Congress on a liberal platform, and then sit back and condemn him if he strays from that platform under pressure of special interests. We can expect of legislators a capacity for honesty and integrity, but we cannot reasonably expect them to extend themselves in the direction of positive action to carry out campaign promises unless their constituents and supporters make it politically feasible for them to do so. This feasibility can be achieved by organized labor only where our COPE organizations are functioning on a year-round basis, engaged in the kind of organizational and educational activity that will give labor-endorsed officeholders the backing they need among constituents to press forward their campaign promises.

We have learned also over the years that successful legislative activity is dependent upon the achievement of a measure of unity within the COPE structure. A fragmented labor movement politically is an open invitation to legislators or other officeholders to play one group against the other, and thus frustrate the legislative programs and goals of the labor movement as a whole.

It is in recognition of these realities of political life that the activities of the California Labor COPE since the last general election have been focused on the strengthening of the COPE structure within the state to achieve greater unity, more effective coordination of efforts, and year-round political action.

1960 GENERAL ELECTION

The measure of success achieved by California labor at the polls in 1960 can be traced directly to the coordinated state-local registration drives which were launched early that year prior to the primary election, and continued on a vastly expanded basis into the general election campaigns. In cooperation with local labor movements, and other organizations, close to 200,000 new registrations were obtained between the primary and general election in key areas of the state. An important factor was the "crash program" launched nationally by the AFL-CIO. Financial assistance from the national office made it possible to accelerate the pace of the various registration drives in their final stages, with an immediate carry-over effect into get-out-the-vote activities.

Presidential Race

Although, in the Presidential race, President Kennedy lost California in the post-election day count of some 230,000 absentee ballots, after leading at the polls by a narrow 35,000, there is no disputing the fact that the narrow victory won by Kennedy nationally had its base in the industrial states where the President pressed his campaign to get America moving forward again. The labor-minority group vote came in sufficiently strong in the key areas and states to give Kennedy his margin of victory, thus off-setting the large religious bigotry vote against him and the efforts of a high pressure campaign to sell Nixon to the voters in the image of former President Eisenhower.

In the face of the religious issue and the many other obstacles confronting Kennedy, his election was an impressive victory for labor and the American people. It was a source of real gratification to organized labor that the combined labor-minority vote in urban areas played an important role in submerging bigotry in one of its most devastating forms.

In California, the examination of returns from areas where labor conducted extensive registration drives in cooperation with minority groups has produced evidence that the new registrations went overwhelmingly for Kennedy despite his loss of the state as a whole.

District Election Results

In the state's 30 Congressional races, the 1960 general election left unchanged the number of labor-endorsed Congressmen in the California delegation. California Labor COPE made endorsements in 26 districts; 15 labor-endorsed candidates won election, leaving the distribution between Republicans and Democrats the same as in the previous state delegation.

In the state Senate, the election of two labor-endorsed Democratic candidates boosted the Democratic control of the upper house of the state Legislature from 28-12 to 30-10. California Labor COPE made endorsements in 16 of the 20 Senatorial districts up for the election; 12 COPE candidates won election.

In the 80 Assembly districts, California Labor COPE made 70 endorsements; 49 endorsed candidates won election. The number of COPE-endorsed Assemblymen remained essentially the same as in the previous Assembly, with the Democrats in firm control of the lower house.

SPECIAL ELECTIONS

Three special elections were held in the interim period since the last general election to fill vacancies occurring in the state Legislature. In each of these special elections, California Labor COPE endorsed a candidate by action of the Executive Council, based on recommendations of local COPE organizations, and worked for the election of the endorsed candidates in cooperation with local organizations.

33rd Senatorial District

The death of James J. McBride (D) near the close of the 1961 general session of the Legislature created a vacancy in the state's 33rd Senatorial district, comprising Ventura county. A special election to fill the vacancy was called for October 3, 1961. Three candidates—two Democrats and one Republican—competed for the post. Robert J. Lagomarsino (R) won the election to become the new Senator from this traditionally Democratic district, defeating both the COPE-endorsed candidate, Assemblyman Rex Cunningham (D) and the other Democrat, Bruce Thompson, who together split a larger vote than was polled by the winner.

The official and final tally gave 13,833 votes to Lagomarsino, 11,464 votes to Thompson and 11,383 votes to Rex Cunningham. This was a simple case of split loyalty among the Democrats which resulted in the gift of this Senate seat to the Republican candidate. Ventura County COPE did its job well by getting out a large vote which was considerably higher than the predicted vote by the County Clerk.

30th Assembly District

In another traditionally Democratic district, John J. Veneman, Jr. (R) defeated Charles Spender (D), the state COPE-endorsed candidate by a vote of 20,099 to 18,263 in a special election held on January 23, 1962, in the 30th Assembly district comprising Stanislaus county. The vacancy was created when the former Speaker of the Assembly, Ralph Brown (D), resigned his seat to accept a judicial appointment on the state's Fifth District Court of Appeal in Fresno. Veneman's election was largely attributed to his popularity in the area as county supervisor, rather than any indication of a trend in the 1962 campaigns.

31st Senatorial District

Alvin C. Weingand, who campaigned on Governor Edmund G. Brown's Democratic record, defeated two Republican opponents in a special election on February 13, 1962, to win the state Senate's 31st district seat which was left vacant by the death of John J. Hollister, Jr. (D) last November. Endorsed by California Labor COPE, Weingand polled 16,282 votes to outdistance Republican William D. McKillop and Assemblyman James L. Holmes, who polled 11,507 and 7,045 votes respectively.

Weingand, in a victory statement, praised the campaign efforts of the local Santa Barbara county Tri-Council COPE organization, which was reorganized and merged with the Santa Maria COPE to embrace the entire county early in the Weingand campaign. State COPE played a major role in initiating this reorganization, without which the Weingand victory might not have been possible. In reference to labor's campaign efforts, Weingand said in his victory statement:

"I am very pleased and proud that the trade unionists of Santa Barbara county supported me, not only with their unanimous endorsement, but with their votes. My campaign pledge to work for a balanced economy with a strong labor movement will not be forgotten."

The defeat of endorsed candidates in two of the three special elections dramatically points up the real need for year-round active COPEs. Vacancies will occur between elections in either Congress or the state Legislature, and COPE should be prepared to effectively do the job necessary to protect labor and working people's interests. Off election year activities of COPE should be geared to the maintenance of a continued high percentage of union member registrations, the creation and maintenance of union member card files and full-time participation in local political activity. In every election, regardless of the importance of the agency involved—a city council, a board of supervisors, a fire district commission or board of education—labor should take an active part. Local government, regardless of the agency involved, is the breeding ground for most candidates seeking high offices in state or federal government. An active COPE should involve itself in the development and education of possible candidates, and when elected these officials, will have a thorough knowledge as to the legislative needs of the trade union movement.

REAPPORTIONMENT OF ASSEMBLY AND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS

The 1960 general elections were of particular significance for the state Legislature, because of the reapportionment of the state's 80 Assembly seats and the allocation of eight new Congressional seats for California in the reapportionment of Congressional districts. Democrats who had been complaining bitterly about Republican gerrymandering in 1951 to entrench conservatives, were now in a position to recoup their losses. They proceeded accordingly with the task before them to enact Assembly and Congressional reapportionment statutes.

Apart from the partisan politics involved, however, it can be said that from labor's point of view, the outcome of reapportionment at the 1961 session was to contribute substantially to both the challenge and the opportunity confronting labor at this time to increase the number of labor's friends in the lower houses of the state Legislature and Congress.

Given the strength of the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition which has succeeded in bottling up much of the progressive legislation advanced in Congress by the AFL-CIO and the Kennedy Administration, the election of eight new Congressmen from California this year assumes an importance which extends far beyond the borders of the state of California. In a very real sense, the liberal forces of America are looking to California to help break the conservative bottleneck in the House of Representatives.

In the state Assembly, because of the retirement of many veteran legislators and the decision of others to enter races for the state's new Congressional districts, along with the combining of incumbents' seats in several instances under reapportionment, 1962 will probably see the election of over 30 new Assemblymen in this 80-member legislative body.

Under these circumstances, it is apparent that labor's political effort in 1962 can recognize no limit. As important as the gubernatorial and other statewide races will be to the future of California, equally vigorous campaigns must be carried into each district office where decisive election contests will take place.

Needless to say, the same determination on the part of labor must be carried into the state Senatorial races. Indeed, the state Senate poses a special challenge because of the manner in which this closely knit fraternity of legislators has functioned historically within the framework of an all-powerful committee system to prevent the enactment of sorely needed liberal legislation of vital importance to organized labor and the general public. Through effective political action on a year-round basis, the means must be found to break this persistent bottleneck which has seriously limited California's ability to come to grips with many of its social and economic problems of urban industrial growth, not to mention the disgraceful plight of agricultural workers.

This election year, again, 20 of the upper house's 40 seats are expiring. Incumbents in a least five of these 20, for various reasons, have indicated that they will not run for re-election, thus underscoring the magnitude of the challenge to labor that exists here also.

ELECTION CODE CHANGES

Apart from the reapportionment of Assembly and Congressional districts, the 1961 general session of the California Legislature made several significant changes in the Elections Code affecting partisan elections.

One of the most important changes, which should be of assistance to organized labor in securing deputy registrars in areas where county officials have been non-cooperative, was the passage of SB 121. This measure clarifies the intent of the Legislature that county clerks, in order to encourage voter registrations, enlist the support of interested citizens and organizations and deputize as registrars qualified citizens to cover every section of a county. It specifies further that persons shall be permitted to register voters anywhere within the county.

Another measure passed in 1961, AB 370, prohibits the challenge of a voter at the polling place on the grounds that he cannot read the Constitution in the English language. In the last election, this challenge was used to intimidate many eligible foreign-born voters and discourage them from voting.

Among other Elections Code changes which should be noted here are the following:

AB 221, requiring county clerks to prepare a breakdown of registration by party affiliation in Assembly, Senatorial,

AB 1963, authorizing any person appointed or deputized to register voters to secure registrations at the place of residence of the person to be registered.

Congressional and supervisorial districts, as well as cities, following the annual purge of non-voters. Under this legislation, the Secretary of State is now required to make a statewide compilation of this information for distribution to the public.

AB 617, requiring an original and duplicate stub to be attached to the affidavit of registration. The county clerk, in turn, is required to deliver the duplicate stub to the voter at the time of registration.

AB 50, which revises the entire procedure for absent voting. The time for voters to make application for absentee voter ballots, either in writing or in person, is designated as not more than 29 nor less than 7 days before any election. The Tuesday before election is designated as the last day such applications will be accepted. The absentee voter ballots, in turn, must be returned to the county clerk not less than three days before the day of the election. The Saturday before the election is designated as the last day they may be received by the county clerk. Any voter receiving such a ballot by mail may vote in the clerk's office no later than the Saturday before election date. In hospital cases, ballots must be returned to the clerk's office no later than the time for closing of the polls. These ballots are to be counted after the polls close on election day, and the totals must be added to other absent voter ballot totals. Absentee ballots are to be voted starting on or after the Sunday before election, and are to be counted on election day. Processing and counting must be without adjournment until completed. War voter ballots issued under any provisions of the Elections Code must be returned to the county clerk not later than three days before the election.

AB 2292, providing that no county clerk may refuse to deputize any person to register voters because of race, creed, color, or national origin or ancestry.

COPE STRUCTURE

Following the 1961 legislative session, it was apparent to your Secretary-Treasurer that immediate steps had to be taken to prepare adequately for the election campaigns of 1962. The most pressing and urgent need was to go about systematically building up and strengthening the COPE structure in the state. Grassroots political action! Unity within local COPE units established at the central labor council level, and within Congressional districts! State-local coordination of COPE functions! Active, functioning year-round COPEs! This was the message and the program carried to various parts of the state as your Secretary reported personally to local movements on developments out of the 1961 session of the Legislature. Where assistance was needed from California Labor COPE, local movements were advised that such assistance would soon be available for them for the asking.

Accordingly, a full-time assistant director was added to the state COPE staff by appointment in July, 1961. Upon assuming this office in September, Fred C. Smith was immediately assigned to the task of working with local movements to revitalize inactive COPEs, help establish new COPEs where old ones were defunct or none existed, and generally to extend such other aid and assistance as requested by local groups.

Upon assuming the duties of Assistant Director, Smith first made an analysis as to the current strength of our COPE programs in California. This was accomplished through communication with local councils and a search of records in the State office.

The results of the analysis indicated an immediate need for an intensive reorganization of a number of local COPEs. The analysis revealed there were approximately seven active year-round COPEs in existence as of November 1, 1961. The highest number of COPEs in California, 19 in all, existed in 1958, the year of the "right to work" fight. After the 1958 election there was a general deterioration of COPE effort, particularly in the rural county areas. The large metropolitan area COPEs remained active. Even though there were only a few active COPEs left at the end of 1961, these COPEs did cover a major segment of our voting population.

With a knowledge of our weak areas, we instituted a statewide program of organization of new COPEs, based on the policy that the state COPE would offer every assistance possible to the local central bodies in forming active year-round COPEs. Ever mindful of the autonomous status of our local councils, our approach was based on needs of the area involved, and our activities were geared entirely to the desires and direction of the local officers.

We have met with a high degree of success in the formation of new COPEs. At this time we now have 27 active local COPEs; there are four Congressional district COPEs in existence. The COPEs in existence now cover approximately 97 percent of the voting population in California.

In addition to the three counties where no COPE exists, we have the problem of extending to a number of our COPEs an educational program designed to train the officers and members in the proper techniques of campaigning. The educational or training programs may be offered to the local COPEs through the "workshop" or "seminar" method where a panel of known experts in labor political action act as instructors.

Increased state COPE activities in the field during the past year have contributed substantially to ever increasing interest in political activities at the local level.

The process of strengthening our COPE structure in California is by no means completed. It is a continuing task which must find its solution in the development of political activities in this and succeeding political campaigns which will contribute to and enhance political unity within the COPE structure. As a matter of basic policy, it has been made known that all activities of state COPE undertaken in cooperation with local movement, will of necessity, recognize only the official COPE structure at the local level. Registration drives, get-out-the-vote drives, and other coordinated state-local programs are being developed with this organizational objective in mind.

Interest Picks Up

The pace of political activity generally, and, specifically, the interest of organized labor in developing campaigns, took a noticeable upward turn in the closing weeks of September 1961. This was when Richard M. Nixon announced at a press conference staged in Los Angeles on September 27, 1961, that he would seek the Republican nomination for Governor of California. While the announcement came as no surprise, the actual entry of Mr. Nixon into the gubernatorial campaign imposed a sense of urgency on the entire labor movement as work was getting under way in preparing for the election year ahead.

Under the circumstances of Mr. Nixon's announcement, characterized by the great press fanfare given his statewide TV performance, your Secretary was called upon to issue the following statement which was released simultaneously with a summary of Mr. Nixon's cumulative voting record:

"Richard M. Nixon's announcement that he will seek the Republican nomination for Governor serves to sharpen the issues which will confront the voters in 1962.

"The choice presented to the workingman in Mr. Nixon is a life-long record of dedication to special interests and of moral callousness towards the hopes and aspirations of workers and the great social needs of our free society.

"Beyond this record, which speaks for itself, Mr. Nixon's announcement presents the voting public with a situation which smacks of an attempt made by a national figure in 1958 to use our highest state office as a stepping stone for lofty ambitions nationally.

"In my opinion, Mr. Nixon is asking the state to wet-nurse a fallen national politician who is starving for public attention. I seriously question whether his personal ambitions are compatible with the needs of this state."

The summary of Mr. Nixon's record issued with this statement pointed out that his "overall voting record was 87 percent in opposition to the best interests of working people and the social needs of the nation, according to key votes tabulated by the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education during the years he served as Representative, Senator, and presiding officer of the Senate while Vice President during the Eisenhower Administration.

The released voting summary continued as follows:

"Nixon's dismal voting record on all issues was exceeded only by his record of contempt for working men and women on issues directly affecting working conditions and in the field of labor-management relations. He is recorded as voting against the workingman on 14 out of 15 key votes in this area of labor legislation:

- Nixon cast 6 votes restricting the rights of workers in connection with the Taft-Hartley Act. These included votes for passage of this anti-labor law, in opposition to its repeal, and in favor of applying the act's injunction provisions against the steelworkers after the giant steel corporations refused to accept a Wage Stabilization Board decision in 1952.

- On minimum wage issues, Nixon voted to remove a million workers from the protection of the federal wage-hour law. He voted for the Portal-to-Portal Act to permit employers to escape penalties and liabilities for violations of the Walsh-Healy, Bacon-Davis and Fair Labor Standards Acts. While vice-president, Nixon even voted for the infamous Knowland amendment to scuttle procedures to determine prevailing wage rates on public works.

- Nixon cast three anti-labor votes to subvert the Labor Department's services to workers, including two votes against sorely needed appropriations and one backing an employer-inspired move to transfer the U.S. Employment Service out of the department.

- Nixon voted during the Korean War to strip the Wage Stabilization Board of its powers to help settle labor disputes.

- Nixon climaxed his anti-labor record with a tie-breaking vote in the Senate in 1959 on a Goldwater motion which converted the Senate's anti-racketeering bill into an anti-labor vehicle paving the way for enactment of the Landrum-Griffin Act.

On matters of public interest concerning the social needs of the entire nation, Nixon compiled the following record of faithful service and obedience to the special interests of the few:

- On tax matters, Nixon cast 11 conservative votes serving the wealthy and corporate interests of the nation.

- In the housing area, Nixon voted 5 times to block programs designed to provide public and private housing to meet the needs of low and middle income families priced out of the market by the high interest rate policies he championed.

- On public power issues, Nixon voted consistently on 5 occasions for the private power interests against low cost public power for consumers and industry.

- On general consumer issues, Nixon voted 10 out of 12 times to the detriment of the buying public and in favor of those who would cheat the consumers.

- On social security proposals, Nixon voted twice, without any offsetting favorable votes, against providing adequate benefits for senior citizens who have contributed a lifetime to the building of their country.

- On civil rights measures, Nixon registered three key votes against equal rights for all Americans.

• In the field of education, Nixon cast the tie-breaking vote against aid to school construction and teachers' salaries in the School Assistance Act of 1960.

• On foreign policy, Mr. Nixon has voted almost consistently to weaken America's ability to withstand Communist subversion from abroad. This included a vote in 1950, prior to the invasion of South Korea, against a measure which would have provided $60 million in economic aid to the Korean nation.

• In crucial areas such as small business and veterans' affairs, Nixon has also compiled an unbroken record against the public interest.

Mr. Nixon's voting record, combined with his volatile career, epitomized the threat his candidacy posed for the maintenance of responsible and progressive government in California, enjoyed by labor and the public under the present state Administration. It was apparent to your Secretary-Treasurer that the tenor of the 1962 elections in California had been set. The challenge to labor to begin organizing itself for the year ahead took on an urgency that extended beyond the immediate interests of working men and women and embraced the fundamental character of representative government itself.

The issue and the challenge were joined when Governor Edmund G. Brown announced his candidacy for re-election late in January. On this occasion, your Secretary-Treasurer pointed out that "in the ranks of organized labor, Governor Brown had become the symbol of progressive government for our rapidly growing state." A wire was sent to the Governor welcoming his decision to seek re-election, adding that he had earned his reputation because of his outstanding record of achievement, both legislative and administrative. The wire continued:

"I consider it my privilege and responsibility, as executive officer of the state AFL-CIO, to make this record known to every member of organized labor in the state of California.

"It is a record which truly reflects the dynamic character of our state economy.

"In the fields of socio-economic legislation, health, education and welfare, civil rights, and many others reflecting the public and social needs of our complex society, the Brown Administration ranks with the greatest we have known in the progressive eras of California history."

CONFERENCE OF CENTRAL LABOR COUNCILS AND LOCAL COPEs

As 1961 was drawing to a close, the urgency of the developing political situation pointed more and more to the necessity of entering election year 1962 with a maximum degree of coordination between local movements in the planning of action programs for the campaigns ahead, and in launching them immediately. The field activities of state COPE's assistant director had established that such coordination was desired by local movements throughout the state, and that many of the outlying areas of the state needed the assistance of state COPE in planning their programs. Accordingly, by communication dated December 22, 1961, the leadership of central labor councils and local COPEs was called into special conference for January 29, 1962, at the Del Webb TowneHouse in San Francisco. In planning this one-day session, delegates from local councils and COPEs were urged to prepare themselves for a workshop session, which included the following agenda items:

- (1) Programming through official state and local COPE structures, including the strengthening of these structures.
- (2) Development and coordination of registration drives.
- (3) Development of a state-local program for financing Congressional campaigns through voluntary contributions.

With few exceptions, the San Francisco conference was well-attended by responsible officials of central labor councils and local COPEs. Its discussion sessions contributed substantially toward the development of local programs, which at this date are going into full operation.

The following summary indicates some of the conference highlights and activities generated:

Programming Within the COPE Structure

The dilution of political action at the local level was recognized as the central problem threatening the full realization of organized labor's political potential. COPE programs of international unions, functioning through AFL-CIO unions at the local level, it was stressed, constitute an indispensable part of any coordinated state-local COPE program. The conference discussed at great length, however, the potentially disastrous effect which can result when international programs are carried on outside of the local and state COPE structures with, in some instances, completely separate procedures for the endorsement of candidates and rendering financial assistance to endorsed candidates. Such uncoordinated political activity, it was noted further, not only dissipates the political strength of organized labor, but also has serious ramifications with regard to the labor movement's relationship with legislators and other public officials once they are elected. The fragmentation of political activities during campaigns seriously weakens the ability of the movement as a whole to enact desired legislative programs which are advocated by the movement as a whole.

The San Francisco conference brought focus on the need to vastly expand efforts, on a continuing basis, to bring all local organizations into affiliation with their respective local COPEs and the state COPE organization. Political action programming at state and local levels, it was agreed, should further this objective, while, at the same time, respecting the autonomy of local groups. The San Francisco conference produced agreement that the state COPE should contact the presidents of all international organizations requesting that a person be designated in California to serve in a liaison capacity with the state COPE organization in all political activities.

Steps to carry out this decision were taken on February 8, 1962, when the following letter was sent to all international presidents:

Dear Sir and Brother:

The AFL-CIO movement in California is currently engaged in the development of a coordinated program to secure effective political action by organized labor in 1962. We recognize that, with the recent reapportionment of Congressional districts between the states, resulting in an increase for California from 30 to 38 seats, our movement must carry a tremendous responsibility nationally to elect representatives who are responsive to the needs of the workingman.

Our ability to carry out this responsibility, of course, depends upon the achievement of unity both in the programing and implementation of sound political action policies. In this regard, it is one of our primary objectives to work cooperatively with national and international organizations which recognize the importance of effective political action.

Accordingly, I am requesting at this time that you designate a representative in California who will serve officially as the person we should contact from your organization in all matters relating to the coordination of political activities in this State. The urgency of the political situation in California requires that we request this designation at the earliest possible date, giving us his title, his mailing address and telephone number, and advising the person selected of his designation.

As soon as we hear from you on this matter, we will proceed to contact the individual named so that our mutually compatible efforts may be properly coordinated.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

/s/ THOS. L. PITTS
Secretary-Treasurer

At this time, most internationals with locals in California have responded to this request. Almost without exception, the responses have indicated a desire on the part of international organizations that their California locals become an integral part of the COPE structure in the state, and cooperate fully in the development and implementation of official COPE programs.

Development and Coordination of Registration Drives

In preparation for this agenda item, the research staff of California Labor COPE obtained basic registration data from the county registrars, which was tabulated for distribution to the conference participants to show registrations in each of the counties, broken down by Congressional, state Senate and Assembly districts, both in absolute figures and by party affiliations, as of January 2, 1962. It should be noted that this information was made available to local movements well in advance of registration data, published by the Secretary of State later in March. Extensive research materials showing voter behavior patterns and party loyalty in various elections over the past 10 years was also made available as an aid in the development of registration programs at the local level. This was supplemented by information showing the potential for registration among various minority groups. In regard to the latter material, it was agreed that local movements would work out the basis for coordinating their registration drives with minority groups and other civic organizations at the local level to assure the accomplishment of mutually compatible objectives.

The techniques and problems relating to the development of effective registration drives were fully aired at the San Francisco conference, working from the following additional materials prepared for discussion purposes:

—A summary sheet showing five ways in which local movements may undertake the basic job of registering union members and maintaining their eligibility to vote on a continuing basis.

—A detailed check list form developed to remind local leaders of the important steps involved in a successful registration drive. This check list was reviewed item by item and discussed accordingly. A completed check list form was left with the state COPE organization by each council and local COPE represented at the conference to provide necessary information for the coordination and further development of registration drives statewide. (The development of state-local registration drives in relation to the national AFL-CIO program is discussed further below.)

—A summary of election code changes by the 1961 legislature affecting partisan elections. All of the changes were reviewed and discussed at the San Francisco conference, with particular reference to those amendments designated to facilitate the appointment of deputy registrars to work in labor registration drives. (Some of these changes were enumerated above.) It was agreed at the San Francisco conference that the state COPE organizations should contact all county registrars to determine what steps they were taking locally to implement the liberalized election code provisions, and also to encourage cooperation on the part of county election officials with non-partisan registration activities of local labor movements.

Accordingly, following the conference, a communication was directed to all county registrars as follows:

The California Labor Council on Political Education, working cooperatively with local movements, strives continuously to achieve the highest possible level of registration among our membership. In this connection, we note that the 1961 state legislature made a number of changes affecting registration activities.

As a statewide organization concerned with registration, we would appreciate your response to the following questions covering registration policies which exist in your county:

1. Is your county taking steps to implement provisions of SB 121, enacted in 1961, which declared the intent of the legislature "that county clerks enlist the support and cooperation of interested citizens and organizations, and shall deputize as registrars qualified citizens in such a way as to cover most effectively every section of the county."?
- Is it possible, for example, for labor unions conducting registration drives to secure the appointment of qualified registrars for this purpose?
2. Does your county have a program to provide for house to house registration. If not, is your county contemplating such a program?
3. What is the rate of compensation for deputy registrars? Does your county have any kind of a bonus system to encourage registrations?
4. Does your county provide services, for compensation or otherwise, in connection with union registration drives to precinct membership lists and check whether or not individuals are registered to vote?
5. Generally, in what locations are voter registration booths established, i.e., supermarkets, fire stations, work places, etc.?

Your cooperation in answering these questions would greatly assist us in developing registration programs throughout the state consistent with county policies.

/s/ THOS. L. PITTS
Secretary-Treasurer

Information obtained from this communication has been tabulated by state COPE, and where appropriate, local movements have been contacted on responses of significance to them. With but few exceptions, most county registrars have indicated their desire to cooperate with the labor movement in registration drives.

Voluntary Fund-Raising

A substantial portion of the San Francisco conference on January 29 was devoted to the problem of raising voluntary funds for the support of labor-endorsed candidates for Congress, consistent with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act prohibiting the use of general trade union funds for this purpose. Fundamental importance was attached to this discussion because of the major challenge which California faces in the election of eight additional Congressmen, as noted previously, and the U. S. Senatorial contest in the state this year. There was agreement that the amount of voluntary funds available for the 1962 Congressional campaigns had to be vastly expanded.

In this connection, the 1962 drive for voluntary dollar contributions to national COPE, conducted through international unions, was stressed. Funds collected in such drives not only make national COPE activities possible, but have also served as the only funds that can be used to aid the campaigns of labor-endorsed candidates for federal office. Under national procedures for allocation of funds collected, however, it was pointed out that only a small fraction of the voluntary dollars collected in California by locals of international organizations are finding their way back into the voluntary funds of state COPE for the support of federal candidates. In recent years, in fact, there has been a marked decrease in funds returned to California. Local COPEs, in areas where the Congressional campaigns are conducted, have likewise been without voluntary funds to support federal office candidates.

In recognition of these facts, the January 29th conference discussed the feasibility of launching a coordinated state-local voluntary fund-raising drive, supplemental to the national drive, and agreed that such a fund-raising drive should be undertaken. In accordance with this decision, as of the date of this report, your Secretary-Treasurer has arranged for the printing of voluntary solicitation books which will be distributed to AFL-CIO organizations throughout the state as soon as they are available for the solicitation of voluntary contributions locally from the membership. All funds collected by voluntary solicitors, together with stubs, will be returned to the San Francisco office of California Labor COPE. The cost of printing, distribution and record-keeping is being borne by the state COPE organization. Central labor bodies and their local COPE organizations are expected, as agreed to at the January 29th conference, to promote the voluntary solicitations among local AFL-CIO organizations in their areas.

This drive is being undertaken in a manner which will promote political action unity within the COPE structure of California. Every dollar contributed will be an investment in representative government for California, and will also promote COPE unity, as 50 cents of every dollar collected will be returned to the official COPE organization of the central labor council in the area of collection. The remaining 50 cents will be retained by the California Labor COPE to support the election of labor-endorsed candidates for the House of Representatives and U. S. Senate.

It is important to emphasize again that this drive is being undertaken because of the urgency of the problem California faces in electing a liberal delegation to Congress. Its purpose is necessary to supplement funds collected through the national COPE drive, not to supplant the national drive in California. Every AFL-CIO organization in the state is urged to extend full cooperation.

PRE-PRIMARY CONVENTION CALL

With preparations for the developing campaigns well under way, the official call to the pre-primary convention of California Labor COPE was issued from San Francisco on February 6, 1962, setting Wednesday, April 11, for the date of the convention to be held in the Golden Gate Room of the Del Webb TowneHouse in San Francisco. The business of the convention was set forth to include the endorsement of candidates for Governor and other state constitutional offices, for the United States Senate, the House of Representatives and the state legislature in the statewide primary to be held on Tuesday, June 5.

In a convention call message to affiliated organizations, your Secretary-Treasurer described the political situation confronting labor in these terms:

"The measure of effectiveness in political action which organized labor achieves this election year may well determine the fate of liberalism in California for the decade of the sixties.

"Once again, as in 1958 when we rose to the threat of the compulsory 'open shop,' the vitality of our movement is beckoned to battle against the forces of reaction which would subvert responsible, progressive government to personal ambition.

"Election year, 1962, commands the full mobilization of labor's political resources. There can be no temporizing with apathy or indifference that would deliver the workingman to the surveyors of deceit.

"Indeed, the stakes for organized labor in this year's elections go beyond the bread-and-butter issues of the immediate past. They extend to the vitality of our economy—to the maintenance of a climate for economic and legislative action which will enable workingmen and women to achieve the promises of an automated age. They extend still further, and embrace the functioning of government and our democratic institutions, which must be responsive to human needs and the dignity of the individual so that freedom will have its fullest meaning in this complex industrial society. Labor's concern is to strengthen the bulwarks of democracy against the threat of totalitarian dictatorship, be it from the left or right.

"It is more than a coincidence that this historic struggle in 1962 should find its battleground in California, where state government has led the nation in attacking social and economic problems. The focus of the nation is on the state's gubernatorial election, but the issues at stake embrace every statewide office, each Congressional district, and every state Senatorial and Assembly seat up for election. The reapportioned Congressional and Assembly districts, including the addition of eight new seats in the House of Representatives, compound the challenge.

"Let it be clearly understood that we will meet in pre-primary convention fully conscious of our commitment to freedom's institutions. Our object is to endorse candidates who understand the responsibilities of progressive government, and who reflect the aspirations of free workers, organized to advance their conditions of life and labor. Our purpose is to work for the nomination and election of candidates who will have the courage to stand up against anti-labor forces and press forward the positive goals important to our state and nation."

Response to the convention call, and evidence that your Secretary-Treasurer has seen in many areas of the state where local organizations are engaged in registration activities and planning ahead for get-out-the-vote drives to be followed by extended general election activities, indicate that the challenge set forth in the convention call is being heeded in most parts of the state.

Election Guides

Under the constitution of California Labor COPE, the interviewing of statewide candidates for the purpose of making recommendations on endorsements to the convention is the prerogative of the Executive Council, assisted in the interviewing process by a committee appointed jointly by the Secretary-Treasurer and the President. With regard to candidates for district offices, however, interviews are conducted by COPE organizations of the central labor bodies, which, in turn, make recommendations to the Executive Council of state COPE.

Following precedent of previous years, election guides on state and federal issues were prepared and sent to all central labor bodies and local COPEs to assist them in the interviewing process. These guides were mailed out from San Francisco in February, well in advance of the interviewing period.

The issues for state office candidates in the 1962 primary election guide were grouped under the following headings: state labor law; liberalizing unemployment insurance, unemployment disability insurance, and workmen's compensation; civil rights; housing; taxation; liberalizing social welfare programs; consumer protections; public health; agricultural labor; water and power development.

The federal office guide for interviewing candidates grouped the issues under the following categories:

(1) Policies mobilizing our moral and material resources to maintain peace, protect freedom and national security, and extending a rising standard of living to all the world's growing population.

(2) Opposition to efforts of big business to severely cut back federal grants-in-aid programs, thereby threatening the free school lunch program, slum clearance in public housing, aid for the aged and blind, vocational education, rehabilitation of the handicapped, and many other federally-aided state and local programs won by labor over the last twenty-five years.

(3) Federal assumption of more positive responsibility for economic growth and stability in accordance with the Employment Act of 1946.

(4) Repeal punitive Landrum-Griffin provisions regulating unions' internal affairs and eliminate Taft-Hartley's evils by enacting a sound and fair national labor relations law.

(5) Correction of inequities in the federal tax structure.

(6) Liberalizing Fair Labor Standards and Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Acts.

(7) Comprehensive expansion and improvement of Federal Social Security System.

(8) Adequate minimum federal standards for state unemployment insurance to give equal protection to all workers.

(9) Long-range, comprehensive, and non-discriminatory housing programs for construction of at least 2.3 million units a year to meet the needs of the ill-housed one-quarter of our population.

(10) Providing substantial federal aid to education, without federal control, except where a state has inadequate standards or denies students the use of public schools due to racial prejudice.

(11) Enactment of comprehensive legislation geared to the nation's health needs and resources.

(12) Civil rights legislation and protection of civil liberties of all individuals.

(13) Legislation elevating millions of hired farm workers to a position of "parity" in legal rights and dignity with other workers.

(14) Maximum and integrated development of water, power, and other natural resources.

(15) Amendment of immigration laws.

(16) Elevation of consumer problems to a much higher level of priority.

It can be seen from these groupings that the election guides cover the breadth of AFL-CIO policy both nationally and in the state. As such, they were developed as a comprehensive outline of labor policy, appropriately worded so that local COPEs could exercise selectivity in interviewing prospective candidates seeking organized labor's endorsement.

AFL-CIO REGISTRATION CAMPAIGN

In programing political activities for California labor, your Secretary-Treasurer has maintained close contact with the national AFL-CIO COPE in Washington, D. C. Early in January, it was learned that, based on results achieved in the 1960 general election campaign, the AFL-CIO was considering the adoption of a major registration and get-out-the-vote program for 1962 which would again provide substantial financial assistance to state and local COPE organizations. This was reported to the January 29th meeting of central labor councils and local COPEs held in San Francisco, but it was pointed out at that time that if the national program was approved it would come too late to be of any real assistance in primary registration drives, operating under an April 12th deadline for the close of registration.

The primary consideration of your Secretary-Treasurer was that the national assistance program should be announced early enough so that any national funds made available could be efficiently used in the development of registration and get-out-the-vote drives for the general election. In this connection, it is to be noted that, while the 1960 assistance program of the AFL-CIO produced substantial results, it was started too late in the general election campaign of that year to be fully effective.

It was with great satisfaction, therefore, that the California movement learned that the AFL-CIO Executive Council approved a major registration and get-out-the-vote campaign for 1962 at its meeting in February. The AFL-CIO Executive Council approved a formula whereby coordinated state-local registration campaigns would receive $2.00 from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education for every dollar raised in the state. Together with the funds raised in the state, it was announced, the 1962 national campaign would be financed by $250,000 in national funds and the returns from the AFL-CIO's recent call upon affiliates for a contribution of 3 cents per member. National COPE estimates that if all unions meet the requested 3 cents per member contribution, a potential $375,000 would be realized in addition to the $250,000 AFL-CIO contribution and the anticipated $215,000 from state and local bodies. The campaign is being aimed primarily at areas where union members live. Studies have clearly demonstrated that there is a tremendous potential for expanding registration in such communities.

In hailing the national decision as an important step toward furthering good citizenship throughout the nation, your Secretary-Treasurer pointed out:

"In California, this will mean stepping up efforts already well under way toward working closely with county and local COPE organizations in developing a constructive and effective approach to registration."

It was noted further:

"Our fate is in democracy, and we want to make certain through this non-partisan effort that every union member is registered to vote so that the will of the people may be brought to bear on the many pressing issues confronting the nation. In California, this will mean stepping up efforts already well under way toward working closely with county and local COPE organizations in developing a constructive approach to registration."

Pending the development of finalized procedures for implementation of the national program (leaders of state councils and central labor bodies in major metropolitan areas will meet with the AFL-CIO in Washington, D. C., for this purpose on April 30), contact was made with all central labor councils and local COPEs, advising them of information that had been obtained regarding the national program, and urging them to develop workable budgets for submission to the national office. In a letter to central labor councils and local COPEs, dated March 15th, your Secretary-Treasurer pointed out the following:

"I am assured that California stands high on the priority list for financial assistance, provided we move quickly in the planning and development of specific programs for presentation to the national office. . . .

"Although the details of the national program have not been finalized . . . this is to be a completely coordinated national-state-local effort. As in 1960, all allocations for California will be disbursed through this office. . . ."

Each central labor council, or its duly established COPE, was urged to submit as soon as possible a resume of its registration program in sufficient detail so that California Labor COPE would be in a position to assure a maximum allocation of funds for the state. As an aid to local councils and COPEs in this regard, a resume form developed by the state office for the submission of necessary information was sent out.

Given the timing of the AFL-CIO's announcement, and the fact that the primary registration deadline was rapidly approaching, local labor groups were urged to gear themselves to having all their machinery in place, down to the last detail, so that effective well-planned general election registration drives could be launched throughout the state immediately after the June 5 primary.

In connection with the primary election, it was pointed out that, following the endorsement convention in San Francisco on April 11, there may be some cases in which a special get-out-the-vote effort would be necessary on behalf of endorsed candidates, in addition to general get-out-the-vote drives. These situations, it was pointed out, would be handled on an individual basis with the local COPE organization involved.

Finally, local councils and COPEs were advised that the state office was desirous of rendering whatever assistance possible in planning for the challenging months ahead.

As of the date of this report, going into the pre-primary convention, your Secretary-Treasurer is pleased with the co-operation that has been extended to the state office from local organizations. At best, the development and coordination of an effective registration and get-out-the-vote drive is a difficult job. The extra effort that is put into the planning of registration and get-out-the-vote drives at this time may well spell the difference between success and failure of organized labor at the polls when the final November returns are in. Your Secretary-Treasurer is confident that in the relatively short period that remains prior to the Washington meeting noted above on the implementation of the national program, organized labor in California will be able to develop one of the most effective registration programs ever undertaken in the state.

POLITICAL ACTION ROLE OF LABOR PRESS

Finally, in concluding this activities portion of my report to the pre-primary convention, the attention of affiliates is called to the major contribution which the labor press can make toward the success of political action. It should be noted that the 12th annual state AFL-CIO Labor Press Conference has been scheduled to take place in San Francisco on Thursday, April 12, at the Del Webb TowneHouse, the day following the California Labor COPE pre-primary convention. Under-scoring the challenge to effective political action by labor, the one-day press meet will be devoted to the labor press and the 1962 elections, with emphasis on the development and utilization of the labor press as an effective instrument for stimulating broad participation of the membership in campaign activities, educating union members and their families on campaign issues of vital importance to the working people, and electing labor-endorsed candidates.

This will be a down-to-earth practical workshop which will bring together labor press editors and union officials who have responsibility for labor press publications to develop ways and means of carrying the vital issues of the endorsed campaigns to the membership. The potential of the labor press as a vehicle for political education of union members and their families must not be overlooked. To the extent that the labor press is under-utilized in the 1962 campaigns, we will weaken accordingly our chances of success as the polls.

Although the focus of the forthcoming labor press conference will be on the 1962 campaigns, the orientation will be toward the development of more permanent relationships and techniques which will contribute to labor political unity on a year-round basis. As was indicated at the outset of this report, it is in functional political unity on a year-round basis that the California Labor COPE is focusing its expanding efforts in the political arena.

Fraternally submitted,
THOS. L. PITTS
Secretary-Treasurer

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS

San Francisco, California
February 19, 1962

California Labor Council on Political Education
995 Market Street
San Francisco, California

Gentlemen:

We have examined the statement of cash receipts and disbursements of the California Labor Council on Political Education for the two-year period ended January 31, 1962. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Cash receipts as recorded were found to have been deposited regularly in the bank. Disbursements were evidenced by paid cancelled checks on file which we compared with the cash book entries as to payees and amounts, and scrutinized as to signatures and endorsements. Disbursements were either supported by voucher or approved for payment by the Secretary-Treasurer.

The commercial account with Bank of America N.T. & S.A., was reconciled with the bank's statements on file for the period under review. The balance on deposit at January 31, 1962, was confirmed by correspondence with the depository.

An analysis of the deposit balances in savings accounts with banks and savings and loan associations for the period under review follows:

	Balance January 31, 1960	Transfers from Commercial Bank Account	Interest Earned	Balance January 31, 1962

	$179,705.84	$150,000.00	$14,638.09	$344,343.93

The above balances were traced to passbooks on file and confirmed by correspondence with the depositories as of January 31, 1962.

Surety bonds in effect at January 31, 1962, were as follows:

Thos. L. Pitts, Secretary-Treasurer$10,000.00
David M. Boring, Accountant-Office Manager$10,000.00

The accounts of the Council are maintained on a cash basis; no effect has been given in these statements to income accrued but uncollected at January 31, 1962, or to expenses incurred but unpaid at that date.

In our opinion, the accompanying statement of cash receipts and disbursements presents fairly the recorded cash transactions of the California Labor Council on Political Education for the two-year period ended January 31, 1962, and the cash balances on deposit at January 31, 1962, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of preceding periods.

We attach the following:

Exhibit A — Statement of cash receipts and disbursements, For the two-year period ended January 31, 1962

Schedule 1—Detail of contributions received, For the two-year period ended January 31, 1962

Schedule 2—Detail of disbursements, For the two-year period ended January 31, 1962.
