

Killed, *AB 428

The professional strikebreaker is assured of unhampered operation for at least a couple of more years. Federation-sponsored *AB 428 (Burton), despite a complete re-write and legislative counsel's opinions proclaiming of its constitutionality, is dead for the session. An Assembly Industrial Relations subcommittee presided over its burial this Wednesday. The measure would have prohibited the recruitment of these professionals by third parties in labor disputes.

On Assembly Floor

The Assembly Ways and Means Committee this week cleared *AB 683 (Rumford) for floor action in the lower house. It would extend the minimum wage order authority of the Industrial Welfare Commission to male minors between the age of 18 to 21. Employer groups, of course, are fighting it.

Disability Insurance

After a couple of months of hearings on Federation bills to liberalize and adjust the financing of the state unemployment disability insurance program, it appears that the Finance and Insurance subcommittee may be coming up with a package proposal of its own. Such a package has been amended into AB 234, which was a Federation-sponsored measure. There are many parts to the proposal but the gist of it is this: hold out the promise of a benefit increase in the distant future; stuff worker contributions into

"LITTLE NORRIS-LaGUARDIA ACT" SET FOR FLOOR TEST IN ASSEMBLY

The Federation's proposed "Little Norris-LaGuardia Act" has been set for a floor test in the state Assembly as we go to press — the first major roll call vote of the 1961 session of the California legislature.

*AB 425, authored by Assemblyman Phillip Burton (D) of San Francisco, has been made a special order of business for 10 a.m., Thursday, May 4th.

The hotly contested measure would restrict the use of injunctions in labor disputes to assure conditions of equitable relief between the parties, repeal the anti-labor jurisdictional strike act, and remove the unconstitutional "hot cargo" law from the state Labor Code.

In a special appeal for passage of the bill, Secretary-Treasurer Thos. L. Pitts pinpointed the "stark facts" of widespread abuse in the issuance of ex parte restraining orders, as disclosed in a U.S. Senate Subcommittee report.

In Los Angeles County alone, Pitts pointed out that the subcommittee's study of injunctions issued during a particular period showed "lawful activity was restrained upon the employer's application in 87 of 89 cases."

California, he told legislators, takes its place along side several Southeast-

Last Minute Note. *AB 425 was taken up on special order this Thursday. The Assembly amended the bill to remove the jurisdictional strike act repeal and sent it out for reprint before further consideration, probably early next week. The combined employer lobby is working the Assembly to kill the bill.

ern states as the "only major areas" in the U.S. "where such unrestricted issuance of temporary restraining orders remained as a matter of course."

*AB 425 was set for floor action by special order after being taken off of the Assembly's "inactive file" last week. It was sent to the lower house floor early in April by the Industrial Relations Committee on a 6 to 5 favorable vote.

The following is the text of Pitts' special appeal for passage, issued to members of the Assembly this Thursday as they prepared to take up the bill:

Dear Assemblyman:

"Without belaboring the point or the argument, your support for the passage of AB 425, the 'Little Norris-LaGuardia Act,' is sincerely urged. The need for such legislation is long overdue and is based solely upon the following considerations:

"1. The practice of the Superior Courts in the State with regard to the issuance of ex parte restraining orders without curbs has resulted in drawing judicial tribunals into labor-management disputes, not as neutrals but as weapons to be used by one side against the other.

"2. Most labor cases, as specifically distinguished from other types of liti-

IWC ISSUES MINIMUM WAGE ORDER FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN AGRICULTURE

The state Industrial Welfare Commission, culminating five years of investigation, hearings and wage board activity, last Friday issued a minimum wage order covering women and minors in agriculture.

By unanimous action, the 5-member Commission set the minimum wage rate at $1.00 per hour (the same as other existing orders) for women and minors 16 years of age or over who are paid on a hourly basis.

The effectiveness of the action, however, was clouded by the Commission's failure to establish a minimum for piece work, which is the dominant method of wage payment in agriculture.

Instead of requiring that piece rates be set to assure earnings equal to the hourly minimum, as recommended by employee wage board members, the commission established only a "call-in" or "reporting" pay provision for woman minors 16 years of age or over who are paid on "a piece rate or any basis other than hourly."

Under the order, such piece rate employees required to report, and who actually report for work, must be paid not less than $4, "regardless of the length of time such employee is required or permitted to work."

A guarantee of two hours at the $1.00 minimum was set as the reporting pay requirement for hourly paid women and minors covered by the order.

the pockets of the private insurance carriers now.

Unemployment Insurance

An indication of possible action on the unemployment insurance front also appeared on the horizon this Tuesday when SB 994 was amended to incorporate what appeared to be amendments worked out by the upper house Committee on Insurance and Financial Institutions. There are no benefit increases in the bill, however. It's strictly a U.I. financing bill. Its purpose is equally apparent: Don't let the present merit rating provision continue to operate because all employers would be forced to go to a flat 3% contribution; Instead, juggle a few tax schedules with surtaxes outside of merit rating to save some big employers from paying the flat 3%, and force others to pay up to 4.2%. We wonder how many employers know what fate is being planned for them.

Teacher Credential Reform

SB 57 (Fisher) appears to be on its way. An Assembly Education Subcommittee gave the measure its blessing, turning down the opposing CTA revision bill. The Fisher reform measure, backed by the Governor, the AFL-CIO teachers and the Federation, reduces the present array of some 40 credentials to a basic five, and prescribes higher training standards for California teachers with emphasis on subject matter competency. This may well be the major school bill of the session.

Bargaining Rights and Procedures

Right to organize and collective bargaining bills for public employees were given a preliminary hearing last Thursday by the Assembly Industrial Relations Committee, but were held over for further hearings. Also held over by the committee last week was the Federation's omnibus bill establishing procedures for determining bargaining rights in intrastate commerce. It's set again for hearing as we go to press.

Killed by a 4 to 6 vote this Wednesday was AB 2466 (George E. Brown) which would have established organizational and collective bargaining rights for employees of municipal utility districts. The Assembly Public Utilities and Corporations Committee dumped the bill. Two years ago, an almost identical measure just missed reaching the Governor's desk. It was killed the last minute by slipping it into Senate Finance for slaughter. The contrast this session of the measure failing even to get out of Assembly

COMMITTEE HEARINGS

Within the limits of this weekly publication, Newsletter will attempt to inform affiliates of important measures scheduled for hearing under a three-day "hearing notice" required by the legislature.

To be on the safe side, as bill digests are carried in Newsletter, affiliates should drop a note to committee chairmen requesting notice of hearings on bills of interest. Write the committee chairmen, c/o State Capitol, Sacramento. Bill digests carry the committee to which a bill has been referred.

DEMO CLUBS URGE STATE ANTI-MONOPOLY PROTECTION

The California Democratic Council recently joined with organized labor in demanding taxpayer protection against unjust enrichment, monopoly and speculation under the state water development program approved by the voters last fall.

Meeting in Fresno, the CDC's Board of Directors overwhelmingly called upon the state legislature to enact AB 1326 (O'Connell) and AB 1606 (Burton) which would conform state law to federal policies on acreage limitation and public power.

Both measures are necessary not only for the protection of taxpayers, but also to assure maximum federal participation in state water development so as to permit use of the state's credit for sorely needed liberal program to meet the state's growing social needs. It is conservatively estimated that a half billion dollars of federal aid is a stake.

Both bills are the subject of continued hearings before the Assembly Water Committee. The Committee has been flooded with requests for action, but thus far there is little evidence that the committee will take on the monopoly interests who put over the state water development scheme.

The following is the CDC resolution:

"The California Democratic Council has persistently opposed unjust enrichment and monopolization of benefits from public water development projects. Thus we have joined other segments of the Democratic Party in upholding the Federal 160-acre limitation and power preference provisions. We believe the issues are the same when the state builds water projects, and are convinced that the only workable solutions are those of historic reclamation law. We were acting on repeated assurances that the lack of policies to govern the state water program would be remedied after passage of the Burns-Porter bond act.

"Therefore, the Board of Directors of the California Democratic Council urges passage by the Legislature of AB 1326 (O'Connell) to create a state 160-acre limitation, and AB 1606 (Burton) to give power preference to public agencies.

"We suggest further that in order to reduce the burden of costs to California and to insure water supply at a price farmers can afford, that the state seek to contract with the Federal Government for cooperative development of state irrigation facilities under reclamation law and integrated with the Central Valley Project."

IWC Issues Minimum Wage Order for Women and Children

Focus on Piece Rate Exemption

Promulgation of the order drew immediate focus on the lack of a piece rate minimum and the meaning of the reporting pay provision for piece workers as a substitute.

Answering questions, Commission members agreed that a piece rate worker laboring in the field eight hours would only be assured of 50 cents per hour. On the other hand, a piece rate worker required to work less than four hours after reporting would be guaranteed the $4.00 in the reporting pay provision.

Commissioners also said that if a piece rate worker reported as required and quit after only a few minutes work for any reason, he would also be guaranteed the $4.00 for reporting. The wording of the reporting pay provision, however, casts doubt on this interpretation, which would be the only leverage on growers to establish piece rates approaching the hourly minimum.

The Commission, in a press release issued with the order, said it had "taken the middle course between the recommendations of farmers and farm workers."

Growers were opposed to any minimum or regulation of hours, while the Federation and employee members of the Commission's wage board recommended a $1.25 hourly minimum with piece rate application and an eight-hour day. The Commission's order contains no limitations whatsoever on working hours.

Other provisions of the order cover minimum standards for field sanitation, lifting requirements, uniforms, equipment and protective garments, meals and lodging, etc.

The order, number 14-61, is to be published not later than June 16th, and will become effective 75 days thereafter.

The Commission also issued order 13-61 covering field packing operations. It is essentially the same as an existing order covering after harvest operations in packing sheds.

"Little Norris-LaGuardia Act" Set For Floor Test in Assembly

gation, are resolved at the stage of the temporary restraining order. In the study made by a subcommittee of the United States Senate on February 8, 1951, the California practice and the practice in the Southeastern States were deemed to be the only major areas in the United States where such unrestricted issuance of temporary restraining orders remained as a matter of course. In Los Angeles County alone the study noted ex parte restraining orders were granted in 89 out of 98 cases in which they were sought; in only 40 of these cases were preliminary injunctions granted on the pleadings after hearings; in only 2 of these cases were permanent injunctions issued after examination and cross-examination of witness.

"The evil simply presented by these stark facts cannot be denied — in 89 cases the issuance of the restraining order essentially stopped activity of workers and their organizations, but only 2 of those cases involved conduct which was eventually found to be unlawful. Thus, lawful activity was restrained upon the employer's application in 87 of 89 cases!

"3. Many states, including most industrial states, have adopted some form of restriction on the issuance of temporary restraining orders patterned after the Federal Norris-LaGuardia Act.

"4. AB 425 seeks to equalize the position of labor and management insofar as the issuance of injunctions is concerned by introduction of a "Little Norris-LaGuardia Act," though its provisions are less broad than the provisions of that Act. To accomplish this, however, the repeal of the so-called "Jurisdictional Strike" statute is necessary because of the abusive use of injunctions thereunder.

"Finally, the repeal of the "Hot Cargo" law is simply to remove obsolete language held unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court in the case of In Re Blaney."

Very truly yours,

THOS. L. PITTS
Secretary-Treasurer
