INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS SEMINAR

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7th

It has always been the desire of the Institute to sponsor continuing educational programs in the field of collective bargaining. This year the Alumni Association with the cooperation of the Institute of Industrial Relations is undertaking a one-day seminar in which to present new ideas relevant to the introduction of and the continuing dialogue on automation.

This one-day seminar will be held this year on Saturday, November 7th, on the UCLA Campus. We would like to conduct such seminars annually and will do so if pre-registration response warrants our doing so. The seminar will start at 9:00 A.M. and will include reports on the ILWU-PMA Mechanization and Modernization Agreement and Basic Steel Plans. These discussions will be conducted by various leaders from labor and management intimately familiar with these and similar programs.

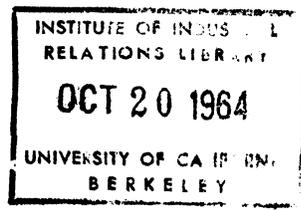

Major subjects discussed will include:

"The Mechanization and Modernization Agreement of the Pacific Maritime Association"
Harry Bridges, President, International Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union

"The Basic Steel and Profit-Sharing Plans"
Cass Alvin, Regional Educational Director,
United Steel Workers of America

"Collective Bargaining Today -- As Seen at the NLRB"
Gerald A. Brown, Member,
National Labor Relations Board

Among other scheduled seminar leaders will be: Robert J. Wayne, Division Superintendent of Industrial Relations, Kaiser Steel Corp., Fontana, California; John Hutchinson, Associate Research, UCLA; Paul Prasow, Lecturer, Business Administration, and Research Economist, UCLA; Hugo Morris, Research Director, Retail Clerks, Local #770.

The Industrial Relations Alumni Association in cooperation with the Institute of Industrial Relations, University of California, Los Angeles presents a Seminar on:
