Mr. Hiram W. Johnson, Jr.,
Major Archibald M. Johnson,
Attorneys at law,

San Francisco.

My dear Boys:

It is my hope to clean up next week all things in which California is interested here, and thereafter come out. After a day in San Francisco, I shall go south, and devote myself most of my time to the southern part of the state, where Moore is very strong, and where I am weak. I, of course, will keep you advised by telegraph of my movements. When I enter the state, necessarily some pronouncement will be expected of me, and I am anxious, for once in my life, to be prepared. If anything occurs to you that you think I ought to set forth, I would be delighted if, on receipt of this letter, you would send me a night letter.

I had two bruising days this week on almonds and walnuts. As you know, I won out. This was peculiarly a one man fight, and my colleague was not worth the powder to blow him up in it. The real fight on almonds came on Monday, and after one vote, which was the test, the quorum was broken, and the matter went over until Wednesday. Shortridge had Tuesday in which to read what I had said, and gathered together his documents, and so he spent an hour or more on the floor muttering ^{on Wednesday} and doing no good. The next item, walnuts, he was utterly ignorant of, and sat mute during the consideration of it. Notwithstanding this, his office, in conjunction with Armstrong, prepared a nasty story, which was sent to the Los Angeles Times, giving him the entire credit for all of my work. However, we'll not worry about that at the present time.

Mother is feeling pretty well, but distressed beyond measure at the prospect of the fight in California. I have been urging her as best I could to remain here, but, of course, she feels she ought to be with me.

I have not very much detail about what is occurring in California, although I have many general letters. Jack's last letter received day before yesterday was singularly cheering to me. If I did not feel so frazzled nervously I would not very greatly regret the coming fight, and perhaps when I get into it, I will be all right.

I will give you due notice of my movements here.

Affectionately,

Dad

Just tipped the scales at 189 1/2. In this campaign, I'll not carry within thirty five pounds what I've carried in previous fights. Mother is beginning to worry about the great loss, although it isn't really noticeable.

United States Senate,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Senate Chamber, Saturday, July 8, 1922.

My dear Jack:

Saturday afternoon! An empty senate, La Follette talking, talking, talking, nobody listening, Grossman of Louisiana and I waiting, waiting, until La Follette finishes, to insist on an increased tariff on rice. We've the promise of the Committee and I think there's no doubt we're going to get what our rice people want. In so many of it all, the constant vigilance and pushing and persuading to get these things California industries demand. I wonder if there's any appreciation of it. Rice growers have sent me a petition signed apparently by every interested party in our State and because of it, I've been on the job. Tell Dr Dow, if he's interested, I'm one of those responsible for the additional tariff. I haven't any idea it will change. Keep Merritt (whom I wouldn't ask to change on any point) to make any individual rice owner singing his hymn of hate has me among the loss. The only 'satisfaction' in this tariff work, and it's been hell, as the demonstration I could do it

I was awfully glad to have your letter night before last. Nobody writes me in detail and the newspaper clippings don't enable me to get under the surface of things. The paper in Los Angeles are cautious with me and won't hazard any opinions. McCabe confines himself to a long recital of facts but so I keep these long hours and let my heart out, when I notice a few of our old people reputing me in San Francisco and W. C. T. U. resolving against me in Los Angeles. You understand why I'm writing you here in this foul Senate atmosphere, don't you? Instructively, I turn to you, lad, as the only one to whom I can say what I want or give ~~the~~ a peeking glance at my thoughts.

In my robe today to you and Arch I told you my weight was $189\frac{1}{2}$ - really the reduction is remarkable. Do you know what's doing it? Just fretting and worrying. I want to kick myself but I'm an old foo-foo now and probably not worth the kicking. We went out to dinner night before last. I wore

My dear Boys:

I have a long wire from McCabe from Los Angeles this morning, evidently sent after consultation with our Los Angeles group, asking me to be in San Francisco on the twenty-fifth, and to open the campaign, so far as meetings are concerned, in Los Angeles on the twenty-eighth. He sent me a long tentative itinerary covering the time until the primary. The proposals are satisfactory to me, and if nothing unforeseen arises, I will leave here Friday, July 21, arriving on Overland Limited Tuesday, July 25. I'm sending you word at earliest possible moment, of course. I'll wire any change in the situation. This program gives me a month of hard campaigning, but that's part of the game, and I'll come with the idea of doing everything that may be set for me to do in the month preceding August 29.

Mother, of course, will come with me. There's nothing new to report. Interminable tariff talk still holds us. The almond and walnut people will never know on what thin ice we skated here. Look at the Record, and you'll see some of the telegrams put in the Record by the Democrats. Every Senator had from one hundred to four hundred from his constituents. Our people forget that there's one State, ours, raising almonds and walnuts, and forty-eight States manufacturing candy and engaged in baking. Where the country has one nut grower, it has five hundred bakers and confectioners. Yesterday, I got eight cents on eggs, notwithstanding Olmsted, proprietor of the Petaluma paper, said the people there were dancing jigs in the streets because there was a candidate against me. Our publicity ought to show some of these things, although I have really had fair publicity on my tariff activities.

This is just a note to let you know of my contemplated homecoming.

Lovingly,

Ada

My dear Jack:

This is for your eye alone, unless you choose to show it to McCabe. You know my financial condition. What I've put in the safe deposit represents everything I have for Mother. I stripped my bank account here pretty low, and now I find myself confronted with $600. of telegraph bills of last month and probably an equal amount this month. In addition, $500. had to be used in another direction. These are legitimate campaign payments, and while I don't want any more aid than absolutely essential, I wish there was some way I could, without interfering with other legitimate expenditures, meet these. Very foolishly, I had the owl

Drug store man and Lumber send their contributions direct to Los Angeles. I might have retained them, but didn't.

Don't bother about this note, unless opportunity naturally presents itself. I work you as I do nobody else.
Affectionately,
Dad.

July 13, 1922

Mr. Hiram W. Johnson, Jr.,
Attorney at law,
Mills Building,
San Francisco.

My dear Jack:

I have just received your letter of July 7. I am very glad you write me as you do, because, as I have said to you before, nobody will give me any detail, and the only detail I get is from your letters.

I observe what you say about Sapiro. Of the important men he mentions, Tucker, of the Almond Growers, can not be otherwise than with me. Montgomery, of course, is my intimate friend at San Jose. Teague has declared for me. Willis Morrison is with me. Thorpe, the head of the Walnut Growers, gave out the finest kind of a statement. Sutherland is part of the fight at Fresno, and one of the few men who has ever been for me there. Dr. Walker of Willows called on me and had a fine talk with me. He said he was going out to do everything he could for me. In addition to this I have received from Wylie Giffen the following wire:

"Fresno, California.

"I am informed that rumors have reached you to the effect that I would not support you in your fight for re-election STOP These rumors are entirely without foundation. I have not agreed with you in your stand on treaty questions but can never forget the great fight you made to redeem California from corporation control and for this reason I am for you with my whole heart. Wylie M. Giffen. "

Mr. Hiram W. Johnson, Jr. - 2

I observe what you say about Los Angeles. I know you are right. The cautious way in which our friends in Los Angeles write me demonstrates that they don't want to hazard opinions, and knowing them as I do, I don't believe they are under the surface there.

Yesterday a conference was held at Pasadena of the representatives of the ninth district. I wired Jim Johnston at Los Angeles asking him to telegraph me the situation, and particularly of the ninth district. I have asked Frank Doherty respecting the latter. I have no word today from it, and because I have no word I imagine something happened that our friends don't like to communicate. Doherty, of course, knows me very thoroughly, and so does McCabe. Each of them likes to confine himself to the barest relation of fact, omitting sometimes detail with which I ought to be familiar. However, I will be out shortly, and then will be on the ground. I do think in the north there has been done all that could be done, and knowing the difficulties in the south, I am mighty grateful to the men who have been doing the best they could there. Of course, papers like the Record down south rap me for support of Flint and Youngworth, but Heavens, without them I would have had difficulty in starting.

I have commenced cleaning up here, and within a day or two, I will send you certain volumes to keep for me until my arrival. They are matters merely that I may need as reference during the campaign.

Affectionately,

Dad

July 15, 1922

Mr. Hiram W. Johnson, Jr.,
Major Archibald M. Johnson,
Attorneys at law,
Mills Building,
San Francisco.

My dear Boys:

I have my transportation, as I've told you, for Friday, the twenty-first, leaving on the Overland Limited from Chicago, Saturday, the twenty-second. The strike is beginning to worry me. I lunched with the President day before yesterday. He was laboring under the impression that the strike would be settled yesterday. He said, however, if it were not settled then, it might develop into a most serious convulsion. I found in this, as in most every other matter, he had little understanding, and simply was drifting, hoping for the best. In private conversation he has expressed himself so often favorably, that I can not but feel very kindly towards him. He thinks, too, that the article he inspired the other day in the Washington Post is ample for all purposes, and ought to dispose of the fictitious issue made by Moore and his advocates. I have been very careful to tell him that I asked nothing, and wanted no pronouncement in my favor, and that I was perfectly willing to fight Mr. Hoover again in California, but that, of course, I did not like to fight Mr. Hoover disguised as Mr. Harding. I think before the campaign is over we'll pretty thoroughly dispose of this sham issue of the Harding policies.

The fight, I think, is what I used to write about when everybody else was telling me there would be no fight. It is the old forces in California, plus those who can never forgive me for beating their idol in 1920, plus a very few gangrened individuals, like Rowell. Indeed, it is the crystallized discontent that comes to a man in a political career, with always behind it, those who hate me for the original contest in 1910.

All of my communications from California are fairly optimistic. In the early part of the week, however, I received a telegram from Doherty concerning the attitude of the Hearst papers in Los Angeles, which, of course, has bothered me. This is the telegram:

"Los Angeles, Calif.

"Examiner here instructed from New York to support you but not to attack Moore or his supporters. Can you not explain that Times is making usual mendacious campaign against you and unless we are in position to refute misrepresentations vigorously will be at disadvantage. Have had several strong editorials and interviews recently exposing affiliations and fraudulent professions of opposition and need more Examiner. Had picture story of Moore headquarters on most expensive corner in world ready for publication tomorrow but upon receipt of these instructions withdrew it. Frank P. Doherty."

I wired the substance of the telegram immediately to Neylan saying to him that I did not feel in the situation of taking it up personally, and asking him if he would not. On July tenth I received from Neylan this wire:

"Have your wire and am taking matter up today."

Since then, I have heard nothing at all of the matter. There is a tremendous stir in politics in New York at present. Hearst, apparently, is striving for the Democratic nomination for Governor. The other papers are lambasting him daily, while his own papers give tremendous space to anything in his behalf. Were I to apply to him direct, I have no doubt that, full as he is with his own fight, he would suggest some activity by me in New York State. This would be quite impossible, and I don't want to get into any such a situation. I am in the very strange position, therefore, of being called a mere Hearst puppet, while I will not communicate with him, and while I am wholly uncertain of the effective support of his papers. They have done so well, however, thus far, that I am extremely grateful. I don't know what I would have done, particularly in Los Angeles, without the publicity they have given me, and they really have made a good fight there up to a week ago, when the orders came.

An attack is made upon my failure to vote upon the Esch-Cummins Bill and the Newberry case. I have sufficient intellectual honesty to say to you that this is the only part of the assault I think justified. The Newberry case you understand. I missed my vote by the train being four hours late, and I have the official statement of the Pennsylvania Railroad to that effect. It does no good to assert this, however, because the fact is twisted and lied about. In December, 1919, I got sick with an unfortunate inflammation of the bowels. Mother wired you at the time. Immediately upon getting half way right, I rushed to California because of the impending presidential fight. I had never paired in the Senate, and I did not take the precaution to pair at that time, and before my return, the Esch-Cummins bill was voted on. I should have paired, or I should have stayed and voted. I would have voted against the bill, but that is neither here nor there now. I did not vote, and in the six years that I have been here, I missed the two votes I mention. This is a perfectly legitimate source of attack upon me. All the rest of the stuff they have published and spoken is bunk. The answer to the attack, though, should be neither apology nor explanation. It should be the questioning of Mr. Moore. "How are you on the Newberry case? You are for the Harding policies, none of which you specify. One of the Harding policies was the seating of Newberry! Moore, must of necessity be for Newberry. He could not be otherwise, and his connections make it perfectly obvious that he would have been for the Esch-Cummins Bill. He can be made to take both positions, providing we have any press that will go after him.

The fight will tighten up from now on. You'll find that our fellows gradually will begin to get frightened, just as men always do, when a fight gets hot and bitter. The timid, here and there, chosen for denunciation, fear that the whole world is denouncing them. You must watch this. In addition, by the lavish use of money, a lot of poor, misguided fellows will be taken from us. Wherever there is this lavish use of money, it ought to be exposed. It will give us a good talking point, especially when assaults are made in relation to the Newberry case. Kent, for instance, I am advised by wire, came out in a statement against me, speaking of the Newberry case. He expended double the sum that Newberry did, in California, and the reply should be no apology concerning Newberry, but an attack upon Kent and his expenditures.

Some weeks ago, immediately after Moore became a candidate, I wrote Al. and Jim Johnston, asking that Moore's record be looked up carefully. He was always one of the Chamber of Commerce crowd. I am perfectly certain that he was opposed to the Workmen's Compensation Bill, and probably he had an interview while it was pending in opposition. I am equally certain that he was opposed to our whole Progressive program in California. This ought not to be difficult to ascertain. During the Exposition he wanted to sell booze there. He has always been a wet. There ought to be some record of this. At any rate, we ought to have his record, so that we could go into it thoroughly during the fight. He has always been pro-japanese.

I want you to be exceedingly careful regarding McCabe, because in much I am dependent upon him. I think he is doing everything that is within his power, and while we may not agree sometimes with his manner of doing it, I don't want to detract from his very great service. Pardon this reference to him, but I am making it from my knowledge of what necessarily will occur in the next two or three weeks as the fight gets bitter and hot, and apparently changes its aspect.

I got my work done on the big California items in the tariff bill just in time. There's been hell to pay during the last few days. If it had not been for the western bloc the tariff bill would have been shot to pieces. Bitterness has been engendered of late, and this bitterness would probably have defeated me on almonds and walnuts if it had occurred before those items came up.

Heaven only knows what is going to be the outcome of the feeling that there is upstairs at present.

Affectionately,

P. S. I'm enclosing the Washington Post article.

My dear Boys:

I wrote you on Saturday warning you about the attitude of our people as the fight tightened up. My mail this morning discloses that what I was suggesting already has occurred. With the great newspaper to-do and Moore's fight under way in the South, I have various letters this morning, two from San Diego, telling me of the troubles and difficulties there, and a telegram from E.P. Clarke, of Riverside, in response to one of mine, saying in his opinion, Riverside would be close; and various other letters from both the North and the South showing that the nervous people are becoming nervous, and the timid ones frightened. Indeed, this morning's mail is rather lugubrious. I am glad I am going to get out shortly. The fear that I have is the fear I always have in political campaigns, that our friends are not under the surface, that they really do not know what ^{ordinary} ~~our~~ people are thinking of, or how ^{ordinary} ~~our~~ people are going to vote. At any rate, it is up to us, if we observe our adherents getting into the attitude that is obvious to me this morning, to bolster them up, and keep them optimistic and in fighting trim.

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it repeated, that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one-half the un-repeated message rate is charged in addition. Unless otherwise indicated on its face, this is an un-repeated message and paid for as such, in consideration whereof it is agreed between the sender of the message and this company as follows:

1. The company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the un-repeated-message rate beyond the sum of five hundred dollars; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the repeated-message rate beyond the sum of five thousand dollars, unless specially valued; nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines; nor for errors in cipher or obscure messages.
2. In any event the company shall not be liable for damages for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for the non-delivery, of any message, whether caused by the negligence of its servants or otherwise, beyond the sum of five thousand dollars, at which amount each message is deemed to be valued, unless a greater value is stated in writing by the sender thereof at the time the message is tendered for transmission, and unless the repeated-message rate is paid or agreed to be paid, and an additional charge equal to one-tenth of one per cent of the amount by which such valuation shall exceed five thousand dollars.
3. The company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward this message over the lines of any other company when necessary to reach its destination.
4. Messages will be delivered free within one-half mile of the company's office in towns of 5,000 population or less, and within one mile of such office in other cities or towns. Beyond these limits the company does not undertake to make delivery, but will, without liability, at the sender's request, as his agent and at his expense, endeavor to contract for him for such delivery at a reasonable price.
5. No responsibility attaches to this company concerning messages until the same are accepted at one of its transmitting offices; and if a message is sent to such office by one of the company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.
6. The company will not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the company for transmission.

NIGHT LETTER
 PERSONAL
 CHARGE TO SENATOR HIRAM W. JOHNSON

ALL MESSAGES TAKEN BY THIS COMPANY ARE SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING TERMS:

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it repeated, that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one-half the unrepeatd message rate is charged in addition. Unless otherwise indicated on its face, this is an unrepeatd message and paid for as such, in consideration whereof it is agreed between the sender of the message and this company as follows:

1. The company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the unrepeatd-message rate beyond the sum of five hundred dollars; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the repeatd-message rate beyond the sum of five thousand dollars, unless specially valued; nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines; nor for errors in cipher or obscure messages.
2. In any event the company shall not be liable for damages for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for the non-delivery, of any message, whether caused by the negligence of its servants or otherwise, beyond the sum of five thousand dollars, at which amount each message is deemed to be valued, unless a greater value is stated in writing by the sender thereof at the time the message is tendered for transmission, and unless the repeatd-message rate is paid or agreed to be paid, and an additional charge equal to one-tenth of one per cent of the amount by which such valuation shall exceed five thousand dollars.
3. The company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward this message over the lines of any other company when necessary to reach its destination.
4. Messages will be delivered free within one-half mile of the company's office in towns of 5,000 population or less, and within one mile of such office in other cities or towns. Beyond these limits the company does not undertake to make delivery, but will, without liability, at the sender's request, as his agent and at his expense, endeavor to contract for him for such delivery at a reasonable price.
5. No responsibility attaches to this company concerning messages until the same are accepted at one of its transmitting offices; and if a message is sent to such office by one of the company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.
6. The company will not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the company for transmission.
7. Special terms governing the transmission of messages under the classes of messages enumerated below shall apply to messages in each of such respective classes in addition to all the foregoing terms.
8. No employee of the company is authorized to vary the foregoing
