PROCEEDINGS

of the

1954 Pre-Primary Convention

California Labor League for Political Education

Monday, April 12, 1954

MORNING SESSION

The 1954 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor League for Political Education was called to order at 10:40 a.m. at the Building Service Center, 240 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, by Thomas L. Pitts, President. Led by President Pitts, the delegates rose and recited the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States.

Invocation

President Pitts introduced the Reverend Ettore DiGiantomasso of St. John's Methodist Church, San Francisco, to deliver the invocation, describing him as a long-time friend of the labor movement and asking him if he would tell the delegates something of his background at the conclusion of the invocation.

Reverend DiGiantomasso gave the following invocation:

"Our Heavenly Father, whose love embraces every nation and whose sovereign power ruleth over all, we are grateful to Thee for the high privilege of serving the cause of the people of America. We seek the truth, our Father. Guide us in our consideration of the mysteries which challenge us and the problems which beckon us. Make us earnest and open-minded in our quest of the facts. In all our deliberations may Thy spirit ever lead us on, so we may enlarge the boundaries of our souls and find a spacious freedom in our loyalty to truth.

"Be Thou the leader of this convention and with all those connected with it. Remember our dear ones everywhere. Remember our boys and our girls in the service of our nation.

"We would commend the leaders of our nation into Thy hands, so that in these perilous days they may seek Thy guidance in all their endeavors. In Thy great mercy, shorten this time of tribulation and send us Thy peace. Make Thy presence felt here and now, for we ask it in Thy name. Amen."

"I wish now to express my gratitude to your President and Secretary and to each and every one of you for this high privilege in considering me to appear before you for the Invocation.

"I worked my way through preparatory schools and college and theological school by belonging to a union. I worked for many years in a tailor shop, as a waiter in restaurants, and at all kinds of odd jobs. My heart is with labor and every ounce of strength is for the cause of truth, for justice, so that we, the people of America, can lead the world in a cause which everyone is fighting now, for our right to live.

"Thank you, and blessings on you."
(Loud applause.)

President Thomas L. Pitts

President Pitts then welcomed the delegates to the convention, as follows:

"It becomes my privilege, on behalf of the officers and Executive Council of the California Labor League for Political Education to extend to you our greetings to this convention. We have not held many conventions of this type. It is not so long ago that a number of our people, scattered through the length and the breadth of our nation, became convinced that this type of organization was a real necessity for the labor movement in order that its members might obtain the just treatment and just consideration that should prevail.

"We have been—yes—experimenting. In past years we have worked hard in these conventions. In each and every one of them, of course, we have found and will find some difference of opinion. Difference of opinion will be sharp in some instances, and justly so, because the human mind is so made that we cannot at all times have unanimous agreement. That difference is typical of the democracy prevailing in our country. I am confident that the differences that may result in this convention will not cause any of our people to stray from the common goal and ultimate objectives of those who sincerely and honestly speak for the people whom they are privileged to represent in this great labor movement.

"I want to express my great appreciation to those members of the Advisory Committee who came here from all parts of the state and worked hard and long yesterday and into the early hours of last night with the League's Executive Council. And may I tell you that, after they had completed their work and were free to enjoy some of the lighter and finer things, the Executive Council worked on until the hour of almost 1:30 this morning.

"I think a most careful job has been done. I know that during my time as an official of both the Federation and the League, no more effort, no more energy, and no more concentrated, hard, sincere, honest thinking have been expended than in those meetings from which will come recommendations to this convention. Heavily resting upon the shoulders of those people was the responsibility of trying to bring logical and realistic programs to our people in this convention, in view of the necessities that sometimes go along with politics as it presents itself to us.

"Some things may be questioned here and there. In the great mass, however, I think that will not happen. But where a question arises, may I assure you that (1) the action taken and the recommendations set forth are a sincere action and sincere recommendations, and (2) that the main and great concern kept in mind in those meetings was: What do we do to the pocketbooks of those in America whom we are privileged and honored to represent?

"I know, delegates, how friendships exist here and there in this great field of politics, and I know, as I said before, that there will be sharp differences. As your Chairman, I call upon you to extend, in all of the discussions that will take place in this convention, due consideration, courtesy, and above all, tolerance to those who are expressing their opinions as they see the situation. This is their responsibility. They have to answer to the membership of their organizations for what they do on this convention floor. And if we conduct ourselves as outlined, this convention will go down in the history of the great State of California as one political convention with a keen sense of understanding, a good knowledge of politics, and a great desire to continue to do the job that it can do for the people that this League represents in this state.

"I bid you welcome. I am happy to see this good attendance, because it shows that there is a real, keen interest in the problems that lie before us.

"We are faced with great ones. Unemployment is staring us in the face and measures have to be taken to insure a sound economy in which our people have an opportunity to thrive.

"I shall say no more except just a wish that, from all that may be said here, we shall have the greatest and best convention to date of the California League for Political Education, and that our organization will continue to grow better and stronger as each year and each election go by."

Glen Slaughter

Research Director, Labor's League for Political Education

President Pitts then presented Glen Slaughter, Research Director of Labor's League for Political Education, who addressed the convention as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, officers of this great Labor League, delegates and my many friends here in California. It is indeed a pleasure to be back here again and to bring you the greetings of Jim McDevitt, the Director of Labor's League.

"Normally on a trip west—all the way across the country—we feel an obligation to talk for a long time in order to compensate for the price of the plane ticket back and forth; it only seems right. But you have a big break in store for you today. I was out here on a number of pieces of business other than this meeting, so I do not feel obligated to take up an enormous amount of your time when I suspect that you have certain deliberations which may take a little time.

"I am not going to discuss any candidates today. It would be very unwise on my part, and it would be inappropriate when you are in the midst of very democratic selections of candidates who should receive your endorsement. There is no excuse in the world why I should inject anything at this point. What I should like to do is to discuss with you a few of the highlights of our national program. In particular, I want to emphasize the necessity for getting those dollars rolling in if we are to help our congressional candidates; and then I should like to make a couple of comments about what is going on in Washington as it affects you and your membership.

"When you see an audience like this, it is a great thing, when you consider that from 1924 to 1948 we had very little to do in the political scene. As a consequence, our support in the legislative halls slipped badly. But the deliberations that have gone on here the last couple of days and will go on today are symbolic of how far we have come. In fact, this very hall in which we are meeting is symbolic of how far labor has come. George Hardy gave me a conducted tour through it. It is a beautiful hall. It shows that we are taking care of our membership, that we have a strong union movement. But just as we have grown in membership strength, so must we grow in political strength if we are to achieve our objectives.

"I am reminded of a story of the old timer they invited to a union meeting to speak to a new group of men who were being introduced into the union and were receiving their initiation.

"The old timer, who had worked in the open pit mines, said, 'Back in the early days I was a pick and shovel man. There was a man working with me who always set the charges. We had a very tough employer, and the mine was non-union. There were a lot of accidents, and we were instructed that, no matter what happened, we were to keep on with our work. We weren't to stop. A lot of the equipment was in bad shape and there was no such thing as being taken care of when you were injured on the job and lost time, and so forth.'

"'One time I was working with a pick and shovel and my partner set the charge. The equipment was falling and the charge went off, and it blew my partner up in the air. I sneaked a little look away from that pick and shovel work and I saw him up there. He was going straight up, with that dynamite under him. First he looked like a little ham. Then I looked again and he looked like a loaf of bread. I looked a third time, and he looked like a little pea away up in the sky. Then I sneaked another look, and he was coming down. He was about the size of a pea. I kept on working with the pick and shovel, but I looked again and he was about the size of a loaf of bread. Then I went back to work with my pick and shovel, but finally

I took another look at him and he was coming down still farther, and he was about the size of a ham. Then I went back to the pick and shovel, because we were told to keep on. Finally he landed beside me with a terrible crash.'

"'And so,' the old timer said, 'that's the reason I joined the union. The reason I joined the union was not because the safety equipment was bad. I didn't join because that detonating equipment was bad, I didn't join because they wouldn't even let me stop my work because a man was injured on the job. And I didn't join because he didn't get paid for his hospital bill. The reason I joined the union is because those dirty skinflints docked him for all the time he was up in the air!' (Laughter.)

"That is the way it is in politics. We are just in the beginning stages of this new political program developed by the AFL. But we have come a long way, frankly, since we started.

"I was the first one over with Joe Keenan when we opened that office in Washington, D. C. We had about $20,000 of borrowed money and somewhat questionable support from all sources. However, that election by people who really went out and did a job made a contribution along with other civic groups. That was a very successful election. We didn't have, though, the one-third vote to support a presidential veto.

"In 1950 we slipped a little. In 1952 we did not elect the presidential candidate we had endorsed, but we held on to most of our friends in the House and Senate. We have the same number today after this last election of Senators as we had after the 1950 election. There was a slip of about fifteen seats in the House. It was a remarkable achievement to keep that trend. I am convinced, and I know you are convinced, that the reason why that was true is because we were looking at the record and telling our people to vote according to the record, and not according to the party label or some emotional reason, one way or another. We looked at the record and we went out and supported our friends.

"And another thing. Somebody had to cast those 27 million votes for Adlai Stevenson, the AFL-endorsed candidate for President. And if you will look at the precinct returns, you will be proud of the fact that the labor precincts stood up better than any others.

"I do not know how you feel about it, but I think the greatest decision we ever made since I have known this League was the endorsement of Adlai Stevenson. When you look back on it, we have nothing for which to apologize. When you look back at the record of the last year, we are learning a lesson which we should have known before, too. Do you remember how the Democrats used always to be coddling the farmers, always throwing something to them? That is because the farmers consistently were the main source of opposition in many parts of the country to the Democratic slate. So the Democrats appeased them. As soon as the professionals took a look at those precinct returns and found out the same thing that we did, they decided that if they were going to keep their administration in power, they had to get some labor votes. That accounts for the choice of Martin Durkin as the Secretary of Labor, and it also accounts for the fact that the best man in the Cabinet is the present Secretary of Labor. We may not agree with everything he does, but he is a lot better than we might have expected.

"This spring, in both the House and the Senate, they are jockeying around with the Taft-Hartley amendments. Maybe I am wrong, maybe I won't win my bet, but I suspect that when they get through with this session political fear will prevail and very little if anything will be done about the Taft-Hartley Act. Frankly, in my opinion, the less done the better, looking at some of the amendments that they are voting in these committees. We would be just as well off with the present law as with the embellishments that they have the majority to put through.

"But the lesson is this: we called them straight, the way we saw them, and the public respected us and our membership respected us and our political opposition respected us. And what has happened to the poor, old farmers? Do you know what they were selling potatoes for a couple of weeks ago up in Maine? Forty and sixty cents a barrel, just like in 1932! Remember that both your enemies and your friends will respect you if you call them the way they are.

"This lesson I think was best illustrated by the way George Meany handled that endorsement of Stevenson. Rather than being put on the spot through a group of men making a decision, he said, 'Let's put out the record and let the men decide.' That is what you do in your League here. By reason of the size of your delegation, the fact that the delegates are all properly accredited, you do not have the business of stacking them by who gets there rather than through proportional representation. That is why your top candidates came down seeking your endorsement and stood in the lobby of the Cliff Hotel yesterday waiting to be interviewed. It shows great respect for your organization. You have one of the greatest political leagues in the country, and you can well be proud of it.

"Continue to make your decisions according to the record, and the membership will respect you, the public will respect you, and both your enemies and your friends will remember that you are a responsible and effective citizens' organization.

"When they passed the Taft-Hartley Act they said that we couldn't use union funds in any way whatsoever to strike back politically. That means that we have to collect voluntary contributions for Congressional candidates. I don't have to tell you that we do not have a majority friendly to labor in the House and Senate today, but I also don't have to tell you that there is a real hangover from the last election. People are very unhappy about what has transpired in Washington since the election—not just labor people but business people, farmers and citizens generally.

"I think that this is to be an excellent election from labor's standpoint because usually those who are friendly to us are friendly to true competitive enterprise and farm prosperity, and so forth. I believe they will get a solid citizens' support in this election, and that it is going to be a good election.

"Our contribution does not mean much, our endorsement does not mean much, unless we get out and help our friends materially. That means getting those dollar voluntary contributions in. We have sent out membership cards through the international unions to their respective locals. Literature is available. And in any other way we can we want to help your local organizations to get those dollars rolling in. As you know, fifty cents of each dollar collected goes back automatically to your State League for your disposition here. The other fifty cents is kept in the national reserve fund. That is used in the various states where our chances are best.

"I would like to remind you that at least in the last election, possibly the one before (my memory does not serve me on that), we sent in more money in the primary than you had collected in the state at that time. Not just fifty cents, but more than a dollar of every dollar collected. That was done because of the importance of your primary out here. Other states do not mind their dollars coming in here to help you out, just as you do not mind your dollars going to them when the need arises. A reserve fund is necessary so that the dollars can be used where most needed at the right time. That dollar is absolutely essential. It does not go to pay my salary or Jim McDevitt's or for any of the operating expenses of the League. It is for the candidates for Congressional and national office. They need that money, and they won't have it unless your members contribute it.

"And so I suggest that when you talk to your members you remind them that this is for the candidates; that it is not a subscription; that it is not to pay a lot of salaries in Washington. It is purely and simply to help the candidates. And that unless they put up that dollar, where are the candidates to go? If a man sticks his neck out consistently for labor and refuses in any way to sell his soul to some special-interest lobby that is trying to use legislative and administrative action to gain special privilege and profit; if he does that, if he is a real friend of the people, to whom is he to turn for contributions?

"You do not have to be told that in this state it would probably cost a quarter of a million dollars to run a respectable senatorial campaign. Without that kind of money, it is almost impossible to get your name before the public if you are friendly to labor. For a congressional candidate, the average is at least $35,000.

"We are now in that age in which the opponents of labor have billboards, television and all the techniques of the hucksters. It is not enough to say that our candidate is a better man, if the people do not know about him. We estimate that a billion dollars have been spent since 1932 to convince the ordinary people of this country that black is white and white is black. They did not wind up getting quite what they wanted, but they confused the people. They had a lot of grays mixed up in the color. So the people find it difficult to know who is the best man. It is our job to help our candidates become known to the public for what they are: real believers in a strong democracy, friends of labor, business, and a booming economy for the farmer.

"That is what that dollar is for. So get them rolling in. Those dollars don't do us any good if they are still in the pockets of your members. They don't do us any good if they still happen to be in your treasury. They only do us good when we get them in Washington so that we can get fifty cents back to your state for such disposition as you see fit. The other fifty cents we put in the national treasury—and probably some of that will come back here because of the importance of your primary.

"Now is the time to buy the TV time and the space for billboards. It doesn't help your June 8 primary if the money comes in next October, and it really doesn't do much good if the money comes in on June 7.

"Now as to why we are so concerned in Washington about the present situation. I should like to point out to you that your Labor's League and your AFL have been very effective in stemming a tide in Washington which for a while looked like it would really lead us to a serious recession. We hope that it doesn't get any worse. Many of you have heard me discuss this before, and our Labor's League releases have also hit on this.

"This recession that we are in now is not a natural result of the end of the Korean War. It is not a 'natural rolling readjustment.' This recession was promised to us, manufactured and delivered to us, by the policies of this administration. Go back and read the speeches before the election, go back and read the State of the Union Message after the election, and you will find that they weren't fooling us. They didn't lie to us. They told us plainly and simply and clearly what they intended to do. But too many of us have forgotten after twenty years what they really had in mind.

"When they talked about a 'hard dollar' to halt inflation it was just nonsense. Inflation had already been stopped. What they had in mind was shrinking the economy back to what they considered a normal and healthy situation. And that's what they did.

"There is nothing so completely controlled by government, not by a free market but by government, as the price you pay for credit and the amount of bank credit available to business. By raising the interest rate and deliberately shrinking back the amount of credit available, contractors were unable to get construction loans at rates that made sense economically. Utilities cut back on expansion programs, business generally was shrunken down a little. They said that this was 'healthy' because there was too much overtime, and there was too much pressure on the labor market, and there were too many fly-by-nights getting into business—the fellow who wants to give competition to the big monopolies. That is what they did to the RFC and all the lending agencies of the government. They had it all back in New York.

"Last fall sometime I saw a good friend of mine in Washington. We had gone to school in Berkeley, and he finished law school and was practicing law in Arizona. When he came to Washington he gave me a ring. He was very disgusted. He was in Senator Goldwater's office. Senator Goldwater is a new Senator and a very unfriendly Senator as far as labor is concerned.

"My friend wanted to come over. We sat down, and I asked, 'What is your problem?'

"He said, 'I came to Washington to complete an RFC loan of $100,000 for one of our clients. I go down to the RFC and they say: "We are not in the business of lending money. Go up to New York and get it from one of the banks."

"My friend told me, 'We can't get money from New York. They want to lend money to the companies in the East, with their interlocking directorates.'

"I asked him, 'Well, what do you think the election was all about?'

"I don't know what is so immoral about booming prosperity. I just don't understand it. I read an article in the paper yesterday that I imagine a lot of you read also. It was an Associated Press story which referred to the conviction the Eisenhower administration brought to Washington that the economy was 'dangerously over-extended,' 'in need of a period of rest', 'consolidation', 'readjustment'. 'Transition to a new economic basis seems as strong now as fifteen months ago. Administration leaders say the economy has been going through such a period, not a recession or a depression.'

"Isn't that fantastic? What is the matter with booming prosperity?'

"Here is what is in back of their minds. The unemployment we have today they wanted. They told us so. What happened? Last October the low point of unemployment was 1.2 million. It jumped to 1.4 million in December, and suddenly in January it was 3.1 million. Everyone said,

'Oh, the reason for that is that they changed the methods of getting the statistics.'

"That was good until February, but even under the new method it suddenly jumped six hundred thousand. So the other day Ike told his press conference, 'Well, if things don't get better next month we will have to do something about it. It will be a key month.'

"Well, the key month went along, and about March 22 the Secretary of the Treasury went over and told the Congressional Committee, 'Maybe March is too soon. We will wait to see how things are in May.' By some strange coincidence, that is the same day that the Committee for Economic Development, the big business lobby in Washington, came out with their statement.

"The situation now is that in March, when the figures came out, unemployment did not go down. It was actually 3,607,000, and it now went up to 3, 725,000. But the papers buried the story. Being dutiful papers, always on the other side of labor, most of them buried it and pointed out that unemployment had gone up, but they made it look as if it were just a little shift in statistics.

"The truth is that seasonal farm employment went up, but the jobs of our members went down. This thing is still going down. Maybe they have reversed this 'hard dollar' policy or maybe they will reverse it in time. Maybe they have reason for optimism. I don't know. But what really concerns me is that they wanted a pool of unemployment. The attitude of some of these big financiers who have been influential in this administration is that the working people are just a mass, they are just statistics. To every person who is unemployed, to every business man who cannot get a loan and keep on with his business, it is a personal tragedy to him and his family; and it is a personal tragedy to this country in which we live, because a recession for one person affects us too. I mean it is hard to find dry land in the middle of a real flood.

"I would like to point out just one other thing to you. They are going to tell you that this is normal, that you have got to expect this, that we are not so badly off. According to Secretary of Commerce Weeks (he went up to Canada about three weeks ago; at least he got out of the country to make this amazing statement), 'Things are all right in the United States. Last year we produced about $367 billion of national products and this year we will produce at least $360 billion—only $7 billion short. That is just as good as we did in 1952. So we are going along all right.'

"Gentlemen, remember this: When they say that we need a 'normal economy', they are dead wrong. We live in a rapidly expanding technological period in which they are continually introducing new devices in industry to increase productivity per man. We are increasing our population at such a rapid rate that unless we produce and take off the market in consumption $15 billion more each year, we automatically squeeze two million out of jobs. Remember that. When people say that a 'normal economy' is all right, economically speaking they are dead wrong from the standpoint of you and your job and the jobs of your members. They are deliberately manufacturing a situation in which, unless they continue to boom and expand, unless they allow business to go ahead, unless they allow the power of the consumers to maintain an expanding economy of $15 billion increase each year, we automatically get two million people on the streets. So don't forget that when you read this stuff about 'Oh, it is all right. It is just a rolling adjustment. We're doing all right.'

"Now translate this information into votes. Elect men who believe in good business and in prosperity and in jobs for everyone. That is what this League is all about. Not to endorse this man or that man, not just to elect somebody on this party slate or that party slate. I don't mean to be cold about it, but we are not nearly so interested in the man getting a $15,000 congressional job as we are in getting men in there who will work for a program to protect our jobs, to protect our economy, to protect the freedom of the country in which we live, to make this a better America for all of us.

"That is what this thing is all about. That is why this Federation was formed back in 1881. That is why we are continuing this political program today, just as they did in the days of Samuel Gompers. Not as an extra-curricular activity, something that is aside from the trade union movement. Every time you sit down at the bargaining table, every time you face the effect of your members of a bad piece of legislation, you are carrying on your backs the hundred million dollars that were spent in the last election to elect these anti-labor forces to office. Unless you do something about it, unless you take the message to your members, you will continue to carry that load on your shoulders.

"The AFL has a good program and a strong program. You are carrying it out in the manner that it should be carried out. In your deliberations today I know that you will consider all the factors involved in judging these candidates, and that you will make decisions, not because of personal feelings but because you are trade union leaders and wish to protect your membership. That is the way it should be. And as far as the National League is concerned, in all of your Congressional contests out here you will have our support in every way possible. Any assistance that you need from Washington on their records, on any other thing, we will give you. Al Green, the new Western Director, who comes from your own State Federation, is working night and day throughout the West to help in every way possible. You have our backing, you have our support, and you have everything that we can do in any way. Basically, of course, nothing can be done in Washington. We are very modest and realistic. The job can only be done by you. And I know it will be done by you.

"And so, in the good American Federation of Labor tradition, I know that you will do a job for your membership, and I wish you every luck in electing a pro-labor delegation to Congress and electing friends of labor to your state offices this year.

"Thank you." (Loud applause.)

Recommendation Procedure

Together with this Advisory Group, the Executive Council met in the Clift Hotel on Sunday, April 11, 1954, and interviewed candidates at thirty-minute intervals from 10:00 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Every candidate who requested a hearing was accorded one.

Two weeks earlier, the Secretary had written to each candidate for all of the offices to be filled, informing him of the date, place and time of the hearings, and furnishing him with a copy of the questionnaire (state or federal) applicable to his office, which had been drawn up by the Secretary and his staff so that the answers would indicate the candidate's attitude upon issues of importance to labor.

At the conclusion of the interviewing period, the Advisory Group met and made its recommendations to the Executive Council. Then the Executive Council met in separate session to make its recommendations to the convention.

Secretary Haggerty closed in support of the Executive Council's recommendation.

Roll Call

On motion by Delegate George L. Rice, Electrical Workers No. B-952, Ventura, supported by more than the required twenty-five delegates, a roll call vote to accept or reject the Executive Council's recommendation to endorse Goodwin J. Knight for Governor was taken.

At the conclusion of the roll call, the result of the vote was announced by Secretary Haggerty, as follows:

YES 100,582 votes

Note: The tabulation of votes on this endorsement will be found beginning on page 14.

Endorsement of Candidates For Other Offices

During the remainder of the afternoon session and the evening session, which began at 7:55 p.m., the convention discussed and completed its slate of endorsed candidates.

Exercising its constitutional right to reject, by a two-thirds vote, a recommendation by a local league, the Executive Council made its own recommendations in the following cases:

Congressional District 13. The Executive Council recommended the endorsement of Edwin L. Carty, which was concurred in by the convention.

State Senate District 38. The local league had recommended Richard Richards. The Executive Council recommended leaving the district "open." After much discussion, the Executive Council's recommendation was voted down and Richard Richards was endorsed.

Assembly District 15. The Council recommended that this district be left "open." The convention discussed the proposal and voted to concur.

Assembly District 23. The Council recommended the endorsement of William C. Berry. Following discussion, the convention concurred.

Assembly District 50. The Council's recommendation to leave the district "open" was concurred in by the convention.

At the conclusion of the endorsement of the candidates, one by one, the convention adopted a motion by Secretary Haggerty to adopt the slate as a whole.

"Open" Recommendations

When the slate of endorsed candidates had been adopted, Secretary Haggerty took up the matter of "open" recommendations, as follows:

"You will note that we left a number of recommendations 'open' for offices in the Assembly, the State Senate and the Congress. That was done probably because we did not have sufficient information for the time being with regard to the various candidates. In order that we may complete our endorsements in every possible district where available candidates exist, I move that whenever and wherever an office is left 'open' in our recommendations, the Executive Council of the CLLPE be given full power to act and make endorsements after consultation with the local leagues, if and where they exist."

The motion was duly seconded and passed by the convention.

Robert L. Condon Resolution

In regard to the convention's endorsement of Robert L. Condon, incumbent, in the 6th Congressional District, Secretary Haggerty stated, as follows:

"The action on your part in endorsing Robert Condon for election disposes of Resolution No. 40 presented at the last convention of the California State Federation of Labor and referred by that convention to the CLLPE Executive Council, which in turn referred it to this convention.

"It was a resolution in essence expressing confidence in the Congressman. The action you took this evening in endorsing him disposes of this resolution, and I recommend and so move that it be filed."

The motion was duly seconded and adopted.

Adjournment

There being no further business to come before the convention, the 1954 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor League for Political Education was concluded at 10:35 p.m. on April 12, 1954.

Fraternally submitted,
C. J. HAGGERTY,
 Secretary-Treasurer.

REPORT OF SECRETARY-TREASURER C. J. HAGGERTY

San Francisco, March 20, 1954.

To the 1954 Pre-Primary Convention of the California Labor League for Political Education—Greetings:

Many political changes have occurred in the state and in the nation since the California Labor League for Political Education last met in convention two months before the November 1952 presidential and statewide elections. Few, if any, of these changes have proved beneficial to labor. All of them are today presenting labor with the clearest, most direct, political challenge it has ever faced.

Attacks on the legislative gains of labor, hard-won through decades of struggle, are not new. Labor is accustomed to meeting them every year in the Congress and the state legislatures. But never before has labor had either so much to lose or such dangerous adversaries.

Fortunately for both labor and our country, we have also had friends—law-makers who have stood by their principles and fought valiantly in defense of the social progress that, in the last few decades especially, has brought the United States to the forefront of the nations of the world.

This 1954 pre-primary convention of the California Labor League for Political Education meets for the purpose of endorsing candidates for federal and state office. In other words, we are going to choose and make our plans to elect our friends and defeat our enemies in the coming elections. On that choice, and on the work we do to carry out our plans, depends in large measure the outcome of this most important election and of the future well-being of American labor.

The California labor movement will enter the coming contest better equipped than it has ever been. In the CLLPE, it has a political organization that has been strengthened and tempered by participation in two presidential and three general election campaigns, and with affiliates experienced in conducting campaigns in their respective localities. It has a statewide labor press far better coordinated to function effectively during the months preceding elections than was dreamed possible when the LLPE was first planned in 1947. And it has members from one end of the state to the other who have been learning how closely voting for LLPE-endorsed candidates is tied to their jobs, their pay checks, and how much their dollar will buy.

Your Secretary's report to this convention will deal in more detail with some of these points. It will also sum up the activities of the CLLPE since its 1952 pre-general election convention, and preliminary steps taken by the CLLPE and the national LLPE in preparation for the 1954 campaigns.

California LLPE

For any political organization, the period between elections is one of potential inaction. The next election seems very far away, and many members are inclined to think that their political organization will remain in top running condition, ready to go at full speed come the next election, even if completely neglected in the interim. Such miracles do not occur.

The California League has weathered this difficult period since 1952 with fair success. Membership, although it dropped from its 1952 level, has remained firm, loyal and informed.

1952 Election

Immediately following the 1952 pre-general election convention, the CLLPE prepared and issued a pamphlet containing its endorsements of candidates for President of the United States, Congress, and both houses of the state legislature, as well as the recommendations of the Federation's convention on ballot propositions. Copies were sent to all the local leagues and AFL local unions and councils in the state, and they were asked to order the number of copies they would need for distribution. In all, well over a million and a half of these pamphlets were distributed during the final weeks of the campaign.

The results of the 1952 general election may be summarized as follows:

1. Congressional Districts. The CLLPE made 27 endorsements in the primary and/or general election and was successful with 11 candidates, or 40.7 per cent of those supported.

2. State Senate. The CLLPE made 12 endorsements in the primary and/or general election and was successful with 7 candidates, or 58.3 per cent of those supported.

3. State Assembly. The CLLPE made 64 endorsements in the primary and/or general election, and was successful with 41 or 64.06 per cent of those supported.

In regard to ballot propositions, the CLLPE campaign gave major emphasis to No. 13, which called for the elimination of the California cross-filing system, which has been vigorously opposed by the Federation for more than twenty-five years. The California Committee to Abolish Cross-Filing, honorary chairman, Dan A. Kimball, then Secretary of the Navy, opened its campaign at the beginning of October. AFL leaders throughout the state were on this committee, and local unions and councils were supplied with thousands of copies of the "Vote YES Proposition 13" pamphlet to distribute to their members. Throughout the campaign the Federation worked with other large groups supporting a YES vote on this proposition: the Republican Committee to Abolish Cross-Filing, the Democratic Committee to Abolish Cross-Filing, the League of Women Voters of California, and Californians for Responsible Party Government.

The proposition failed to carry by only 3,654 votes, so close a margin in a presidential election that all who worked for the measure were heartened, feeling sure that success is possible in the very near future. The official tally of votes showed 2,150,073 for, and 2,153,727 against, clearly indicating the tremendous dissatisfaction with the cross-filing system on the part of the citizens of California.

1953 Session of Legislature

Without delay, the lessons of the November election were driven home to labor everywhere in America as soon as the newly elected Congress and various state legislatures went into session. In California, labor found itself battling for its very existence against a determined, coordinated attack by powerful anti-union interests.

On the opening day of the 1953 session, the California State Federation of Labor's representatives in Sacramento realistically appraised their situation. Despite our successes at the polls, there was a hard core of only 28 members of the Assembly who could be counted upon to support us when the chips were down. It takes 41 votes to pass a bill. Back in 1937, when months of arduous work had brought us no real gains and many setbacks, we had had 38 Assemblymen on our side. And yet the end of the 1953 session found labor with its trade union structure intact, and with certain major gains, after meeting the most concentrated and appalling attacks ever directed in California against trade union liberties and the progressive social legislation which has long been on our statutes. This, as will be seen, was due almost entirely to the devoted and unfailing support of the California AFL unions and councils.

Your Secretary lost no time in drawing labor's attention to the connection between the holocaust that was raging in Sacramento and the need for all-out support of labor-endorsed candidates at the biennial statewide elections. In the midst of the session, a letter was sent to all California unions and councils not affiliated with the CLLPE, setting forth the following facts:

(1) In order to defeat anti-labor laws, and in order to write desperately needed laws for the benefit of the working people of California, we must have more sympathetic legislators in Sacramento; (2) we can elect the needed legislators only through efficient political action; (3) the AFL movement in California has its official political unit in the California Labor League for Political Education. Affiliation with the CLLPE was urged.

Soon after the adjournment of the legislature, your Secretary sent another letter to all AFL local unions and councils in the state, reviewing the session, recounting our victories, and thanking the officers and members of our unions and councils for their splendid assistance and cooperation.

That the reactionary interests did not succeed in their attacks on the unions or the numerous hard-won laws beneficial to the workers of this state was largely due to the thousands of letters and telegrams sent to the legislators by the officers of our unions and councils. In other words, this intelligent and vigorous action made it clear to every member of the legislature that a large segment of the population was aroused over the attacks of the reactionaries.

Stressing the proven worth and the continuing need of unity of action in the legislative and political field, your Secretary again urged immediate affiliation with the California Labor League for Political Education to the end of forming a more sympathetic Congress and state legislature.

These and subsequent reminders did not go unheeded.

1953 Federation Convention

Since there was not to be any formal CLLPE convention in 1953, your Secretary notified all CLLPE affiliates that a special political conference would be held at the 1953 convention of the State Federation of Labor in Santa Barbara, and invited all leagues that were not affiliated with the Federation to send representatives. This conference was addressed by Congressman John F. Shelley, former president of the State Federation of Labor, and by Glen Slaughter, research director of the national Labor's League for Political Education. Out of the addresses of these men emerged a deeply disturbing picture of the national political situation and the tasks confronting labor in the 1954 elections.

Delegates to the Federation convention made voluntary contributions totaling $1,792.08 to the national League fund, which may be used to assist in the campaigns of candidates for the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives.

Six resolutions relating to political education and activity were referred by the Federation convention to the CLLPE's Executive Council for consideration and action. These resolutions were as follows: No. 39—"LLPE Clubs"; No. 40—"Reaffirm Support of Congressman Condon"; No. 41—"Support LLPE"; No. 90—"Permanent Political Organizations at Community Level"; No. 116—"LLPE Precinct Organization"; No. 157—"One Joint Source of Political Funds."

At its meeting on February 28, 1954, in Long Beach, the CLLPE Executive Council took the following action on these resolutions:

Nos. 39, 41, 90, 116, 157: "The subject matters of these resolutions is similar; namely, a request for amplification of existing permanent leagues and determination of the procedures which can more effectively produce satisfactory campaigns. The Executive Council realizes the importance and necessity of some type of organization to implement the political program of the Labor League, and therefore instructs the Secretary to take whatever steps are necessary in collaboration with local leagues in the areas to carry out the intent and purposes expressed in said resolutions."

No. 40: Action on this resolution was postponed pending consideration of the entire subject matter at the time of the CLLPE pre-primary election recommendations and endorsements.

CLLPE NEWSLETTER

On January 12, 1954, the first issue of the NEWSLETTER of the California Labor League for Political Education was released. This informative bulletin reports political developments of importance to organized labor and appears every two weeks.

Copies of the NEWSLETTER are sent to all CLLPE affiliates, the labor press, the metropolitan daily papers and their labor and political editors, and to the newsrooms of the radio and television networks.

Endorsement Aids

In order to assist the local leagues as well as the state political organization in making correct appraisal of candidates, the CLLPE has made available the voting records of all candidates who have served in the state legislature and the Congress. The California State Federation of Labor has maintained these records for state legislators since 1913; the A F of L tabulation on Congressmen and Senators also goes back for many years.

During the 1953 session of the legislature the State Federation was able to make an impressive record of committee roll calls, and has recently compiled the voting records of all California Congressmen and Senators from 1945 through the early months of 1954.

Supplementing this material, the CLLPE drew up and sent to its affiliates lists of suggested questions to be put to candidates for federal and state office during interviews by the recommending bodies. Answers to these questions would reveal the candidate's attitude toward the A F of L political program.

National League

Three decisions made by the National LLPE's Administrative Committee at its first meeting after the 1952 election have already benefited the state leagues and will be of great value in the months to come.

Voluntary Contributions Campaign

Because half of the 35 U. S. Senate seats up for election this year are in one-party states where decisions are made in primary elections (and this is true also in California, thanks to the cross-filing system), the Administrative Committee decided that the national campaign for voluntary contributions of $1.00 per member should start in 1953, rather than in the election year itself. This was the first time that the League has conducted such a drive in a non-election year, and the results have exceeded expectations.

One-half of the money contributed has been, and will continue to be, returned automatically to the respective state leagues where the money was collected, while the other half has gone into a national reserve fund to be used this year in elections where our chances are best and the need greatest. The drive for voluntary contributions will be intensified, of course, in the coming months.

It must be remembered that every cent of these contributions is used for direct assistance to LLPE-endorsed candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives, since the Taft-Hartley Act forbids such expenditures of union treasury funds. All LLPE salaries and the costs of basic educational activities are paid by the A F of L. Assistance in campaigns for state office, such as Assembly and Senate, comes from state LLPE funds derived from the per capita tax.

Women's Auxiliary Director

In recognition of the important housewife's vote, the Administrative Committee decided to authorize a full-time national women's auxiliary director for the LLPE, whose job will be to set up a nationwide women's organization for political action. The primary objective will not be the women AFL members, who are already part of the LLPE program, but the thousands and thousands of wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of AFL members. The potential vote of these women is staggering, and every effort will be made, through the new women's auxiliary organization, to line them up behind LLPE-endorsed candidates.

It is understood that the women's director will be named in the very near future.

Regional Directors

The third important decision made by the Administrative Committee was to appoint four regional directors of LLPE activity, paid and directed by the national League, in order to render better service to state and local leagues and coordinate the national program. This expansion of staff was provided for in the LLPE constitution and is now being carried out for the first time.

C. Al Green, vice president of the California State Federation of Labor and member of Plasterers and Cement Masons No. 429, Modesto, was appointed western states regional director soon after the first of the year. This region comprises twelve states.

A western states conference, one of four conducted by the national League in advance of the 1954 elections, was held in San Francisco on March 13, with James L. McDevitt, national director of the LLPE, presiding. Other speakers were William J. McSorley, Jr., assistant director; Morris Novak, LLPE radio consultant; former Congressman Franck R. Havenner, now director of the San Francisco Union Labor Party; Congressman John F. Shelley, and your Secretary.

The major points of national LLPE policy presented by McDevitt to the conference may be summed up as follows:

(1) Political education must be given priority over economic action. The switch of anti-labor emphasis from the economic to the legislative area has made it necessary for unions to organize politically or perish.

(2) A national women's auxiliary director for LLPE will soon be appointed.

(3) The LLPE will concentrate on "marginal" Congressional districts in the 1954 primary elections; marginal districts are defined as those where the incumbent won his seat in 1952 by a margin of 5 per cent or less.

(4) LLPE emphasis will continue to be on issues, rather than personalities, in the drive to defeat those Congressmen who "vote and act like special emissaries of the National Association of Manufacturers."

(5) Success of the AFL in the 1954 Congressional primaries will rest primarily on the response to the current voluntary contribution campaign.

The conference was attended by representatives of state, city, county, and congressional district leagues, as well as of local unions and central bodies.

Political Education Information Services

The national league has greatly expanded its political education information services.

Early in 1953, Director McDevitt began to issue the monthly LLPE REPORT, which goes to all AFL international union publications. In July the first POLITICAL MEMO made its appearance, to be sent from time to time to all AFL and LLPE affiliates. Both of these are fact sheets on important legislative and political matters.

In addition, the AFL NEWS-REPORTER keeps its subscribers fully informed on all developments, and the excellent AFL-sponsored Frank Edwards newscasts are broadcast throughout the nation. The scope and influence of the Frank Edwards programs have made it one of labor's most valuable assets.

The national League also had issued several new leaflets, such as "Contribute... Register... Vote," "The Role of the AFL in Politics," and "Political Education is an AFL Tradition." More will be forthcoming as the year advances.

In January of this year the first of a planned series of recordings was released, "Program of Labor's LLPE," by Director James L. McDevitt. These recordings are designed for use at local union meetings and LLPE rallies. Other recordings will outline the history, purposes and methods of the LLPE, and as the campaigns progress, specific political issues will be discussed by various labor and political leaders. Further information on these recordings may be obtained from national League headquarters in Washington, D. C. They should prove very useful during the coming campaigns.

In closing, your Secretary would like to emphasize just two points. First, the 1954 elections are fateful. The future of labor in America may be determined for years to come by our success or failure at the polls. Second, we have the organization, we have the members, we have the will to win. Let's do the job!

Fraternally submitted,
C. J. HAGGERTY,
Secretary-Treasurer.

REPORT OF THE AUDITORS

San Francisco, March 3, 1954

California Labor League for Political Education
995 Market Street
San Francisco 3, California

Gentlemen:

We have audited the recorded cash receipts and disbursements of the California Labor League for Political Education for the period March 1, 1953 to February 28, 1954. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

Cash receipts, as recorded and evidenced by duplicate receipts on file, were found to have been regularly deposited in the bank. Disbursements were evidenced by paid cancelled checks on file which we compared with the cash book entries as to payees and amounts, and scrutinized as to signatures and endorsements. Disbursements were either supported by voucher or approved for payment by Mr. C. J. Haggerty, Secretary-Treasurer.

The commercial account maintained with the Bank of America, N.T. & S.A., Humboldt Branch, San Francisco, was reconciled with the bank's statements on file. The balance on deposit as at February 28, 1954, as shown on Exhibit A attached, was confirmed by correspondence with the depository.

The segregations of disbursements contained in this report have been compiled from information furnished by employees of the Federation.

In our opinion, the accompanying Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements prepared on the cash basis of accounting presents fairly the results of operations of the California Labor League for Political Education for the period March 1, 1953 to February 28, 1954, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a consistent basis.

We attach the following:

Exhibit A—Statement of Cash Receipts and Disbursements—March 1, 1953 to February 28, 1954.

Schedule 2—Detail of Disbursements—March 1, 1953 to February 28, 1954.

Very truly yours,
Skinner & Hammond
