January 1974

Guardian prices going up

Not since January 1968 has the Guardian raised its subscription prices. During that period of time our operating expenses have increased by leaps and bounds. Printing costs have risen over 60 percent and further increases are in the offing. Mailing costs are skyrocketing with a special vengeance for the second class newspaper rate. As our sustainers no doubt know, all other costs are going upward as the inflationary spiral continues.

Therefore, the inevitable has come to pass. Beginning February 1 subscription prices will be going up. Our new price schedule will be $12.50 for one year; $20 for two years; $7.50 for students, unemployed, retired workers and GI's. Foreign postage rates will be raised to $3 and $4. Our $1 trial subscription will be reduced from 10 to 8 weeks. The newsstand and bookstore price will rise to 35c.

The increase in prices will not make up for the large deficit under which the Guardian is forced to operate. Not in our entire 25 year history has the Guardian ever ended a year out of the red.

'74 YEAR OF GROWTH

Without our sustainers continued publication of the Guardian would have been at best difficult if not impossible. Now as we begin a new year, what we feel will be a year of growth for the paper, your support assumes even greater political importance.

In 1974 we feel that we can continue to make progress in the circulation of the Guardian. During 1973 our subscription curve showed a slow but steady rise. We are now developing programs to reach what we believe is a large potential readership for the paper, a potential that has barely been touched.

Improving the quality of the Guardian's news coverage is in the forefront of our minds. We intend to build up our bureaus in Chicago, Atlanta and the Bay Area while moving forward with plans for the development of bureaus in Los Angeles, Detroit and Boston.

In the area of foreign coverage we believe that the addition of Martin Nicolaus to our staff will enhance our coverage. Judging from his first few articles we think our hopes are well founded.

To sustain this growth—we need you, our sustainers.

Many sustainers will be receiving renewal letters in addition to the newsletter, asking they renew their pledges for 1974. Thus far over 25 percent have done so in advance and we are hoping for 100 percent, by the time the results are in.

The possibility of renewed bombing by the U.S. of Vietnam is very real. This was pointed out by Richard Ward in the Guardian of December 12. The liberation forces in South Vietnam remain alert to defend the liberated areas.

Did you read?

In the month of December there were a number of outstanding articles in the Guardian which you might even want to re-read. They were:

—Wilfred Burchett's continued coverage of the developing Middle East situation from the Algiers Conference of Arab States to the Geneva Conference.

—Iain Christie's exclusive report in the December 5th issue from the liberated areas of Mozambique.

—Carlos Calderon's interview with Cesar Chavez (12 / 5 issue).

—Barry Weisberg's continued insightful coverage into the "energy crisis."

—Lawrence Lifschultz report on "Bangladesh—Two Years Later" in the December 26 issue.

—"Afro-Arab Unity Grows" a report from Lebanon by Fred Lowe (12 / 19 issue).

—Peter Williamson's, "Behind the ITT Scandal" in our December 26 issue.

These articles combined with our regular features and news coverage made for a politically important month of Guardians.

In upcoming issues we will have: continued coverage of Mid East developments from Wilfred Burchett; an interview with Hortensia Allende (widow of Salvador Allende) by Carlos Calderon; continued coverage of the economic crisis in the U.S.; as well as foreign and domestic news of importance.

Nicolaus becomes foreign editor

A new by-line has been appearing in the pages of the Guardian for the past few weeks: Martin Nicolaus. Well known to people in the Bay Area and on the west coast generally, Nicolaus has moved to New York to join the Guardian staff. He replaces Barry Rubin as the Guardian's foreign editor. Nicolaus is an experienced Marxist who most recently completed translating the English edition of Karl Marx's "Grundrisse," now available in paperback from Penguin.

The United Farmworkers Union (AFL-CIO) is intensifying its boycott of grapes and lettuce throughout the U.S. During December the Guardian continued its coverage of this important struggle including an interview with Cesar Chavez.

This Chinese woodcut depicts a medical team visiting a commune in rural China.

'73 China tours conclude

The Guardian's 1973 China Tours concluded with the departure of our fifth tour December 19.

Made up of political activists from around the country, the China visitors will spend three weeks in The People's Republic. The group will visit Canton, Shanghai, Nanking, Changsha, Shaoshan (Mao's birthplace) and Peking. The 22-person group is led by Guardian staff writer Carl Davidson.

The Guardian is quite hopeful of scheduling additional trips for 1974. Included will be a third tour of sustainers. Exact details will be available in late January. All queries should be addressed to Karen Davidson at the Guardian.

News and notes

Finally! The Trotsky pamphlet, though much delayed, is now out and has been mailed to all sustainers. We hope you enjoy it and would like to hear your criticisms . . . November was the seventh consecutive month during which new subscriptions were up over the same month a year ago . . . The Guardian has just held its bi-yearly elections for the positions of Managing and Executive Editor. Jack A. Smith and Irwin Silber have been re-elected for two year terms. The three other members of the Co-ordinating Committee were also re-elected for one-year terms. They are Renee Blakkan, Carl Davidson, and Jeffrey Rickin. The Co-ordinating Committee is the elected leadership of the Guardian.

25th anniversary celebration nears

The Guardian's 25th Anniversary Celebration is less than a month away.

The celebration is scheduled for Saturday night, November 24th at Hunter College Auditorium in New York City. The hall seats over 2000 and we hope to fill the place with friends of the Guardian.

One important aspect of the program will be to place the Guardian in the context of the struggles of the past 25 years. Since its founding in 1948 the Guardian has participated in the crucial political struggles of the time. Whether it was taking up the struggle against McCarthy, supporting the struggle for Civil Rights in the early 60's, opposing U.S. intervention in Vietnam, or taking part in the struggle for freedom for political prisoners, the Guardian was there.

Not only our paper, but also our readers have been a part of the struggles of these 25 years. Therefore, another aspect of the program will be a salute to our readers. Through the use of slides and introductions from the audience we will attempt to tie together the history of the Guardian and its readership.

The featured speaker will be the author and film-maker Felix Greene. In addition there will be a program produced by people's singer Barbara Dane. Featured in this program will be: El Grupo, Puerto Rican Independence movement singers; the Covered Wagon Singers, group of active duty and recently discharged Air Force people from Idaho who will be making their first New York appearance; and Barbara Dane and her electric band, The New World Rollers. Howard Da Silva, film and stage actor, will also participate in the program.

To make this program a success the support of our sustainers is necessary. We hope that as many as possible will attend the program. A special section of seats has been set aside for sustainers, contributors and friends of the Guardian at $10 per seat. General admission is $3.

See you there!

"El Grupo" Puerto Rican singing ensemble in a recent appearance at ExpoCuba in New York. They will appear at Guardian 25th Anniversary Celebration at Hunter College, November 24th.

Silber goes cross country

Guardian Executive Editor Irwin Silber is currently on a cross-country speaking tour that will take him to eight cities. Sustainers in Cleveland, Chicago and Minneapolis have already had an opportunity to meet with Silber at meetings and receptions organized by Guardian supporters in each of these cities.

His trip is designed to help new Guardian bureaus get set up in Chicago, northern and southern California. These bureaus will be a vital contribution to improving the Guardian's on-the-spot coverage of news in several critical areas of the country. If sustainers in other areas are interested in trying to get a Guardian bureau going, they should write with any ideas they have.

The balance of Silber's schedule during November follows:
Nov. 6-7: Eugene, Oregon (at the university)

Nov. 8-11: San Francisco Bay area. A Guardian 25th anniversary celebration will be held Fri., Nov. 9, 7:30 p.m., at the Sun-Reporter Bldg., 1366 Turk in San Francisco. Silber will also be speaking at a forum on "Social Imperialism and Revisionism" Sat. night, Nov. 10, at Apumec Hall, 3256 E. 14 St., in East Oakland.

Nov. 15: (Thurs.), Silber will speak on Culture in revolutionary China in the Human Relations Lounge at the University of Colorado in Boulder, 8 p.m.

Nov. 16-18: Los Angeles. There will be two talks at the Long March, 715 S. Parkview St., L.A., on Fri., Nov. 16 (Politics and Film) and Sat., Nov. 17 (International Imperialism in Today's World), both at 8:30 p.m. There will also be a reception and fund-raising party on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, at a place to be announced.

People's Singer Barbara Dane is producing and will perform at the Guardian's Anniversary Celebration.

Give the Guardian

What better gift than the Guardian!

For the holiday season the Guardian has a special gift subscription rate of $7.50. The response to this offer has been especially gratifying the last several years. Last year we received over 300 new subscriptions and hope to top that this year.

The Guardian will send a card announcing the sub and the recipient will receive one year of the best radical paper in the U.S.

What better gift than the Guardian, why not subscribe for a friend, relative, or co-worker.

Puerto Rico tour

The Guardian in co-operation with Puerto Rican independence groups is sponsoring a political tour of Puerto Rico.

Scheduled for two weeks, January 4 - 18, the trip will visit historical sights, neighborhoods, a petrochemical plant, a daycare center, the site of the proposed superport and many other places included in the context of a general tour of the island.

There will be drivers, guides, and interpreters from the independence movement accompanying the tour.

The total cost is $595 from New York. To reserve a place write to Guardian enclosing a $100 deposit. For more information call Karen Davidson at the Guardian (212) 691-0404.

News and notes

A large promotional mailing for new subscriptions has recently been sent out. Using the lists of the Black Scholar, Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars and several other organizations and publications the initial results have been excellent . . . new subscriptions have shown a large increase over 1972 figures for the first few weeks of October . . . any criticisms of the newsletter or suggestions for what you would like to see included are welcome.

The fascist coup in Chile found the kind of analysis which the Guardian brings to such a situation in great demand. In the weeks following the coup over 1000 additional copies of the paper were sold. In addition many subscriptions were received with requests for back issues covering the coup.

The Guardian Marketplace continues to make great strides in this the second year of its existence.

Conceived as a way of bringing politically relevant materials to Guardian readers and at the same time generating additional income for the paper, the marketplace has become one of our most successful ventures.

As the holiday season approaches we ask our sustainers to consider doing some of their holiday shopping through the marketplace. Not only do we think we have an excellent selection of items, but also the income to the Guardian helps us to improve and develop our paper.

We wish to welcome all new sustainers who have joined us in the last few months. The response has been gratifying and the sustainer program has shown slow but steady growth. This show of confidence in the viability of the Guardian encourages us in our work.

-----
A word of appreciation to all those who responded to our "catch-up" appeal in last month's newsletter. Those extra dollars really help.

Dear Guardian Sustainer:

We wish to extend to you a special invitation to attend a celebration commemorating the 25th anniversary of Guardian publication. It is through the help of friends such as yourself that the Guardian has been able to publish regularly and continuously over these often trying years. For this reason we feel that the 25th anniversary is both a victory for the Guardian and a tribute to the firm dedication and progressive spirit of our Sustainers.

In honor of this occasion there will be a celebration and fundraising benefit in San Francisco, Friday evening, November 9th.

Guest of honor will be the Executive Editor of the Guardian, Irwin Silber. He will propose a toast and make brief remarks. Guardian sustainer Robert Allen, Associate Editor of Black Scholar, will present a short selection of slides from his recent trip to China. There will be revolutionary musical entertainment and plenty of time for informal discussion and socializing. A no-host bar will be open throughout the evening.

Dear Bob &amp; Pam:

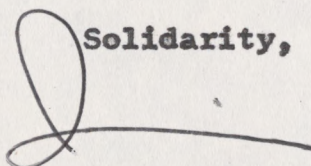

It was great seeing you again and, of course, I'm especially appreciative of your hospitality while I was in San Francisco.

We have great hopes for the Guardian Bureau and I hope that ~~x~~ you (Bob) will be able to maintain a close relationship with it. Naturally, I know that it won't be able to be your primary concern.

Bob, have you read Henry Winston's book, "Strategy for a Black Agenda?" The revisionists are trying to make this their main weapon (in the U.S.) for an attack on China. Winston devotes several chapters to an attack on China's "nationality" policy. In addition, it is the CPUSA's summary of its views on black liberation.

I think that it is quite important for a serious critique of this work to be offered. How would you feel about taking a crack at it?

See you soon. Love from all.

Solidarity,

Irwin Silber
