Mr. Robert Allen
199 Monteceto Avenue #201
Oakland, CA 94610

Dear Robert:

It was good talking to you on the telephone yesterday. I too am pleased that we are making progress on the republication of Black Awakening in Capitalist America. I will have the changes you required on the cover done and will have these approved by you before we go to press. My intention is to have the book out by January 1990 at the latest.

I will appreciate receiving a one paragraph description and as many blurbs from earlier reviews as possible. I will also need a black and white photo of yourself.

RE: A PIECE OF MINE

I am pleased to hear that the rights for this book are available. As you know, this was one of our best selling titles in our distribution list when we carried it.

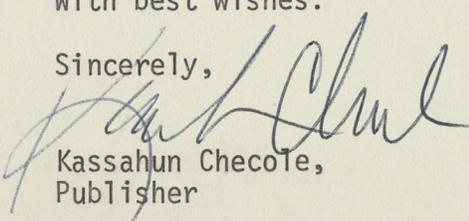

I will be delighted to publish this under Africa World Press. I would like to make amodest offer to Ms. Cooper of 7½% paperback and 10% hardcover royalties with an advance of $1,000 to be paid half upon the signing of the contract and the balance upon publication.

For this purpose, I am enclosing contracts for Ms. Cooper's consideration. If and when Ms. Cooper agrees to publish with us, I will have the book in print within three months after the signing of the contract provided that we are able to shoot from your edition. What I need for this purpose are two original copies of the book, A PIECE OF MINE.

I have enclosed for your review copies of our latest books and catalogs.

With best wishes.

Sincerely,

Kassahun Checole,

Black Awakening in Capitalist America is a classic study of the Black liberation movement of the 1960s. Examining Black Power and black capitalism, the student and radical movements, nationalists and integrationists, Allen argues that Black America, hemmed in by racism, constitutes an underdeveloped, domestic colony within the United States

Black Power was an expression of black nationalism and the thrust toward black self-determination, Allen suggests, but corporate America responded with neo-colonial tactics of cooptation and repression that seriously undermined the movement.

Black Awakening in Capitalist America is essential reading to understand the origins and development of the contemporary black struggle for freedom

WHAT THE REVIEWERS SAID:

The New York Times Book Review: "Well written, scholarly, it is at the same time analytic history and penetrating social commentary."

The Black Scholar: "A definitive work. This book must be read and reread."

The Guardian: "Virtually indispensable for an understanding of what is going on today in black communities across the nation."

Black Enterprise: "A timely, important book about the possibilities for radical change in the socio-economic status of blacks in American society."

Publishers Weekly: "Provocative... Allen supports his thesis persuasively."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

ROBERT L. ALLEN is also author of Reluctant Reformers: Racism and Social Reform Movements in the U.S. and Port Chicago: The Story of the Largest Mass Mutiny Trial in U.S. Naval History. A former editor of The Black Scholar, he is a graduate of Morehouse College and holds a Ph.D. degree in sociology from the University of California.

Dear Kassahun;

By now you should have received the photo and back cover copy I sent.

I found only one error in the text that should be corrected. On Page 89 of the paperback edition, third paragraph, first sentence, the word "jargon" should be changed to "viable".

I look forward to seeing the new cover art.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Allen

Dear Robert:

Thanks for your note of the 20th. Apparently we made a mistake and neglected to pay for May but paid you instead for June. So the next payment will be reversed, and we will send out a check to cover the May activity on your account.

Condor and Hummingbird looks promising.

Dear Kassahun:

Thank you for your recent payment of $63.07. Upon checking my records it appeared that this payment was for the June 4, 1986 statement. There was a payment due in the amount of $50.53 for the May 12th statement which I do not have recorded as received. Has that payment been sent?

Thanks for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely,

Robert Allen

Dear Robert:

Thank you for your note of the 23rd of April. I checked our February sales records and found out that the reason that you did not get a sales report is because there were no sales of your books during that month.

It will be good if we can get advance reading copies of your forthcoming books, as well as cover PMTs, so that we can try and place an advance order and include the materials in promotional efforts.

With best wishes.

Dear Belvie:

It was good seeing you at the ABA Convention, and I am pleased to know that you are working in a mutual area of interest. I hope to be back in San Francisco in late July, and hopefully we can get together for lunch or dinner.

In regard to the distribution of the first volume by Wild Trees Press, please note that we are now preparing our fall catalog, and I need to know fairly soon if you will be interested in our including this title and your forthcoming titles in our distribution list.

Our terms on distribution are as follows:

- 1) We take 55% discount on the retail price.
- 2) You cover shipping costs, except on returns.
- 3) We report monthly on sales, and make the first payment 90 days after the first sales report and monthly thereafter.

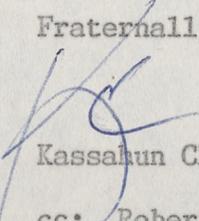

In promoting and marketing your book, we include it in our seasonal catalog, and introduce it to the bookstores and libraries we serve through our sales representative. We provide a full trade service to bookstores, libraries and jobbers, and have standing orders from many of these.

We are currently distributors for Spokesman Press, New Beacon, Lawrence Hill, Eerdmans, Williams-Wallace, Zimbabwe Publishing House, the Catholic Institute for International Relations, and several others.

If the above terms are acceptable, please send 100 paper and 50 cloth copies of your first title.

I look forward to hearing from you at the earliest.

Fraternally,

ETHIOPIA*

Agrarian Reform in Ethiopia by Dessalegn Rahmato

Many changes have taken place in Ethiopia since the mass revolutionary uprisings of the early 1970s. Perhaps among the most important decree implemented by the post Haile Selassie regime is that of agrarian reform.

Agriculture is the mainstay of the Ethiopian economy, and a demand for a social revolution in the ownership of land was expressed in the popular slogan of "Land to the Tiller" during the height of the student movement in the 1960s and the popular uprisings of the early 1970s.

This book is an evaluative study of the impact of agrarian reform in Ethiopia, with particular regional focus on the South.

Dessalegn Rahmato is a Research Associate at the Institute of Development Research, Addis Ababa University. He is currently engaged in a study concerned with state and society in modern Ethiopia.

Never Kneel Down: Drought Development and Liberation in Eritrea

by James Firebrace

The war in Eritrea is in its twenty fourth year. Hundreds of thousands of people have been killed or disabled or have fled their homes. Over a third of the Eritrean population face starvation as the continuing conflict fuels a major famine. The Eritrean People's Liberation Front is now winning major victories, which may prove to be a turning point of the war. Meanwhile Ethiopia, one of the poorest nations of the world, spends over a third of its budget maintaining and equipping its vast but increasingly demoralized army.

This book is a result of a fact finding mission to Eritrea made by Stuart Holland, Labour Shadow Minister for Overseas Development and Cooperation, and James Firebrace, War on Want's Programme Officer for the Horn of Africa.

Class and Revolution in Ethiopia

by John Markakis and Nega Ayele

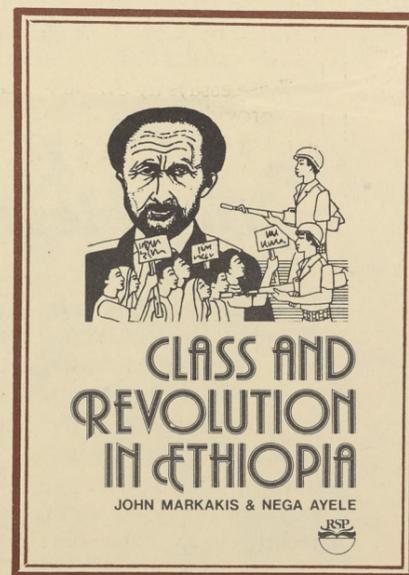

With a New Introduction by John Markakis

There has been very little historically rooted analytical writing on the Ethiopian revolution. Class and Revolution fills the void, and in spite of the fact that the first edition came out in 1978, it still stands out as one of the best analytical accounts on the subject.

"... an invaluable counterweight to the previous muddle and confusion... One of the authors of this book paid for his advocacy of (an independent role for the workers and peasants) with his life. Thousands of Ethiopians have died in this struggle but the fight for a genuine, independent socialist Ethiopia continues."

THE CHURCH STRUGGLE IN SOUTH AFRICA

by John W. de Gruchy

"De Gruchy presents a South African church history, an analysis of the roots of apartheid, and the story of black consciousness and the black theology that has grown from it... He is unstintingly fair in explaining beliefs with which he disagrees..."

Paper, $7.95 — Library Journal

APARTHEID IS A HERESY

Edited by John W. de Gruchy
and Charles Villa-Vicencio

"These essays by Christian leaders... provide historical, ethical, and theological critiques of the idea of apartheid, which, as the authors indicate, had its origins in the churches..."

— Choice

Paper, $5.95

BONHOEFFER AND SOUTH AFRICA

by John W. de Gruchy

"Remarkable... Bonhoeffer is one of the most relevant theologians for South Africa today, but he is possibly also one of the least known... We now have a book that can do much to remedy this state of affairs."

— Journal of Theology for Southern Africa

FOOD POVERTY AND POWER

Anne Buchanan

FOOD, POVERTY AND POWER by Anne Buchanan

Buchanan sets out to explode several myths about the continuing massive problem of famine and malnutrition in the Third World. Drawing on a wealth of examples she shows how the multinational agribusiness serves to increase the disparities between nations and between regions and classes within nations. 124pp.

GROWING UP BLACK IN CANADA
by Carol Talbot

In 1841, Samuel Henry Davis, a freed slave and the great-great grandfather of Carol Talbot, arrived from Maine and stood at the Detroit/Windsor border. With an irreversible decision he walked towards Canada, known to freed slaves and run-away slaves as 'freedom-land'. Today, Black Canadians, whose forefathers helped to build and develop this vast land, are occasional footnotes on Canada's historic pages. 100pp.

Behind the War in Eritrea

Edited by Basil Davidson,
Lionel Cliffe and
Bereket Habte Selassie

A bitter war rages in Eritrea. For 24 years the Eritreans have been fighting for freedom. Unlike many other independence movements the Eritrean peoples have been able not only to initiate far-reaching land reforms, but to administer whole towns and cities for long periods of time. In recent years Russians have given powerful support to the Ethiopian army in an attempt to crush free Eritrea.

This book fills a notable gap in our knowledge of modern Africa. It provides expert analysis of the historical background to the present conflict, first-hand reportage, and unique reports about the social developments of this war-torn area.

Comment - Eritrea

The Eritrean people's struggle for independence has lasted 23 years. This Comment traces the history of a conflict which has cost tens of thousands of lives, and examines the complexities of foreign interests in it. The Comment argues that emergency aid and international action to solve the conflict are now vital if a major human catastrophe is to be avoided.

The Roots of Crisis in South Africa

by Ann Seidman

"The crisis in Southern Africa is intertwined with the struggle for world peace and human decency. In the face of increased South African repression, the international community has the obligation and capacity to forge true democracy through dialog and conciliation. To bring about change, we must understand the complexities of the situation. Ann Seidman's extensive new study provides readers this essential understanding. It is must reading for those who seek to effectively support the struggle for the liberation of Black South Africa."

—Congressman Ronald B. Dellums

THE ROOTS OF CRISIS IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

Ann Seidman

"Walter Rodney's How Europe Underdeveloped Africa gave us a thoughtful analysis of the problems faced by people in Africa who are trying to rid themselves of the remnants of colonialism. Ann Seidman's book is a basic primer which analyzes the impact of neocolonialism. Policymakers and legislators in Congress need to read more of this kind of analysis. The information on the roles of multinationals and their self-justification of the greed that perpetuates poverty and violence in the region is especially useful."

—Mel King (Dept. of Urban Studies and Planning, MIT)

"This study is non-apologetic for its common-sensical and challenging conclusions drawn from thorough-going and sensitive analysis of every aspect of the contemporary Southern Africa situation. The study is based on extensive research and experience and is presented in clear, straightforward prose. The implications for regional peace, progress and development that the study reveals from its analysis of internal trends and external involvement are important for us all."

—Willard Johnson (National Co-Chair of ACAS, National Board Member of TransAfrica)

Dr. Ann Seidman, Senior Research Associate for Oxfam America, has lived and worked for eleven years in Africa. An author and editor of over 14 books on African development, international economics and the roles of women, Dr. Seidman is currently a Visiting Professor at Brandeis University and an Adjunct Professor at Clark University.

Robben Island, Hell-Hole: Reminiscences of a Political Prisoner in South Africa

by Moses Dlamini

Moses Dlamini was prompted into active politics by the Sharpeville shootings of 1960 when he became an underground member of the Pan Africanist Congress. Arrested in September 1963 and convicted of furthering the aims of a banned organization, he spent two years of his imprisonment on the notorious Robben Island.

Writing in a uniquely South African style, Moses Dlamini has given us a stunning account of Black people's life in that tortured country.

Uganda: An Historical Accident? Class, Nation, State Formation

by Ramkrishna Mukherjee
foreword by Immanuel Wallerstein

This is a classic study by one of the Third World's distinguished social scientists. It is a study of the social, political and economic transformation of traditional society in Uganda under the brunt of British colonialism. But the scope of its thesis and the philosophies and arguments it took on makes its theoretical implications and significance of broader import to the study of all transitional societies in the Third World.

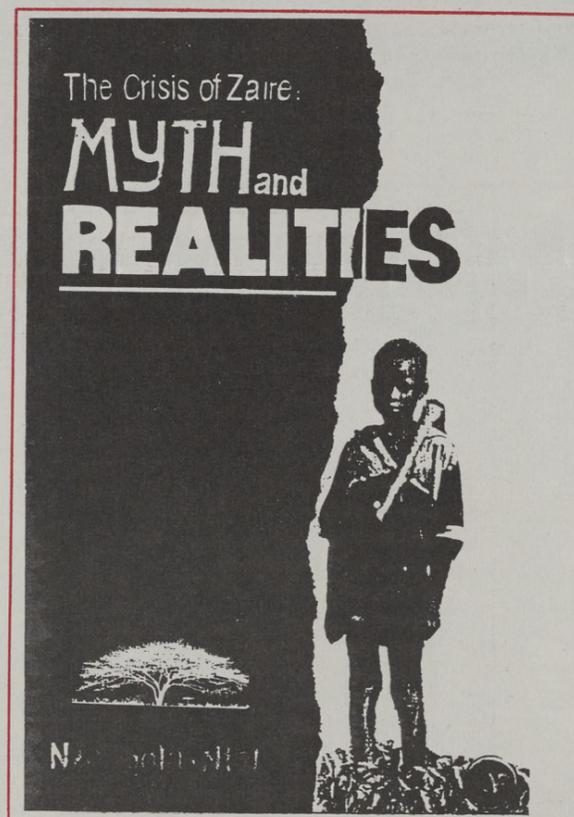

The global impact of colonialism and imperialism notwithstanding, Professor Ramkrishna Mukherjee's unique study is the earliest radical critique of received anthropological and political conceptions regarding societal transitions under colonialism. In the African case, it is one of the first books of its kind to provide a radical and anti-colonial analysis of traditional African society in transition in the process of its forced incorporation into the capitalist world economy.

Ramkrishna Mukherjee, a distinguished scientist of the Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta, is the author of, among other prominent titles, The Rise and Fall of the East India Company. He also teaches sociology at SUNY-Binghamton.
