Format	Description	Date
PRINTED	A Journal for the Missionaries	September 1846-
TRANSCRIPT	by Susan L. Tolman	April 1848 Holyoke Seminary

A transcript of two journals both titled "A Journal Kept for the Missionaries Who Have Once Been Members of Holyoke Seminary." The first journal covers one academic school year from September 1846 to August of 1847. The second is dated September 29, 1847 and ends April 26, 1848 and includes some writing by Rebecca Fiske, a teacher at the Holyoke Seminary. The journal was written as a "journal of common events" to be sent to missionaries abroad who were former students of the Seminary. Most of the entries are about Missionary meetings and teacher meetings, as this was written while Susan L. Tolman was a teacher at the Seminary and before she had gone on a religious mission. Many teachers are mentioned, the illnesses and religious sentiments of her students, as well as improvements to the grounds of the school. These items were included to keep the missionaries abroad in contact with the school. The last entry by Susan L. Tolman tells of her "friend Mr. Mills" and his upcoming trip to Ceylon.

Comments: Reports to Trustees

Format	Description	Date
MS	To the President and Board of Trustees	1892 Mills College
The handwritten letter informs the Board of the successful and quiet school year. The writer explains to the Board that in the previous week, a 13 year old girl from Port Townsend, Washington took ill and died. Three of her sisters are also living at Mills. The writer of the unsigned letter acknowledges that the students are upset but are holding up well. The income of the school has not kept pace with expenses and financial competition with University of California and Stanford is mentioned as one cause of low funds. The writer suggests more energy be spent in securing money for the endowment and advertising campaigns. Finally, it is suggested that Dr. Chapman be hired to advertise the school when he visits churches. On the back of the letter is written "Mrs. Mills Report," but there is no signature.
DOCUMENT	President's Report	October 11 1893 Mills College
This letter is unsigned but is on stationary belonging to Mrs. C.T. Mills. It gives a description of the new teachers employed for the year and those who have left. 132 students are enrolled and an unusually large number are on scholarships, working at the school or paying reduced tuition. The school is not financially prepared for an emergency and a desire is expressed for a permanent endowment. One senior has left early leaving five to graduate from the College and 12 from the Seminary.
DOCUMENT	President Mills' Report	January 29 1906 Mills College
The gifts of Mrs. Smith have enabled the school to hire more teachers, and are greatly appreciated. The plans for the construction of a gymnasium that was to be the gift of Mrs. Belcher have been canceled because her sons have decided it is too great an expense. Mr. Carnegie wants to name the library after his daughter, Margaret Carnegie since it is being designed by a woman architect and is to be used by women. Mrs. Mills wants to "drop out" the younger students so that the school will be a true college, but realizes that the Preparatory Department brings in the most money. Finally, she mourns the death of Mrs. Smith, who had funded the extra teachers, an organ, water, and the Campanile. Her last gift to the college was $50,000 to fund the Department of Domestic Science. This letter is unsigned but is titled "President Mills' Report."

This obituary appeared in a London newspaper. It tells of the death of Dr. Raymond Palmer and his life as husband of Emma Nevada, the famous singer, and as father of Mignon Nevada, the famous opera singer. The obituary also contains information on Dr. Palmer's medical practice. He died from pneumonia on March 21.

Mrs. Waybur sends a picture of Mignon Nevada (or "Gloria," as she called herself when she was younger) to Persis Coleman and regrets that a box of letters and pictures of Emma Nevada was lost in their move from Berkeley.

Mignon Nevada gives Mills College permission to print the letters of Emma Nevada that are in the College archives.

A copied excerpt from a letter by Mary Cook who was visiting London. It is not addressed to anyone. She writes that yesterday "he" visited Mignon Nevada and had her sign the letter giving permission to print the letters of her mother. She also gave him a portrait of her mother done in chalk to give to Mills College. There are physical description of Mignon and notes about her character and home.

TRANSCRIPT from Mary Cook
