Historical Background

During the Cold War (1947-1991), several Presbyterian churches in Southern California developed a relationship with Protestant-Evangelical congregations in Berlin and East Germany, in order to encourage them spiritually and materially as they recovered from the devastation of WWII and experienced the challenge of an oppressive communist regime.

These relationships were an outgrowth of the World Deputation program (1950s) for short term missions for youth begun at the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, under the auspices of the denomination's Foreign and National Boards and the World Council of Churches, and later joined by other congregations in the area.

The first team to go out, advised by Corrie ten Boom, was led by Louis Evans Jr. and included Colleen Townsend, Ralph Hamburger and Walter James. Over the years, the program grew from youth work-camps into a regular visitation ministry to East-Germany by pastors and lay people. The group came to be known as the "Berlin Fellowship," or BF. Berlin Fellowship ran from 1961-1996.

Biographical Note

Reverend Ralph Hamburger (Sept 1923 - Sept 2, 2018) grew up in Germany and Holland, where his family was part of the resistance helping Jewish people escape the Nazis. Hamburger relocated to Los Angeles, CA to attend college. At that time, he became involved with the First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood (FPCH).

In 1974, Robert Munger (Professor of Evangelism at Fuller Theological Seminary) and Ralph Hamburger were appointed as fraternal delegates to Christian Churches in East Germany by the San Gabriel Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Hamburger served in the FPCH's World Deputation teams, the Berlin Fellowship, World Vision, and additional underground churches across Europe.
