Scope and Content

The postcard collection, especially those showing Northwestern California scenes, follow Tim McKay's lifelong interests in the natural world and in the ways that people and communities use their surroundings for livelihood and solace. McKay also saved/collected contemporary cards celebrating arts, events, and political causes for the Humboldt Bay region. These are incorporated into the History-Ephemera section of the main McKay Collection (2007.01). Additional portions of the collection remain unprocessed. These cover other geographic areas and novelty cards showing animals and flowers. The unprocessed portions are available for research by appointment.

Arrangement of Collection

The northwestern California portion is processed to the item level and housed in sleeves in 15 three-ring binders of traditional size postcards (3.5" x 5"). Oversized postcards are in two additional binders. Each card is assigned a number. The postcards are arranged geographically, except for the first categories where the location is not known. These are arranged by broad subject. The subject and geographical categories are a guide to the contents rather than a comprehensive list of all identified areas. Geographic and subject expertise was provided by Diane Hawk, author of the three volumes of Touring the Old Redwood Highway.

Starting with number 2007.02.0386 the postcards are arranged south to north and west to east, mostly along main highways such as Highway 101, Highway 299, Highway 36, etc. The numbers after the headings refer to the first postcard in the category, followed by the Binder number. For some categories there will be three numbers (and Binder numbers) because some postcards are larger than the traditional size. Many of these required larger holding sleeves.
