

Container List for the Jeffrey S. Kriger photographs, 1970-1989 (#1995-10)

Scope and Content of Collection

The Jeffrey S. Kriger photograph collection documents the photographic works of San Francisco-based photographer, entrepreneur, and fine arts framer Jeffrey Kriger during the 1970s and early 1980s. Arranged into two series, photographic materials and non-photographic materials, represented items include prints and negatives, photograph inventories, and an artist contract.

The first series, photographic materials, makes up the majority of the collection and is comprised of photographic prints, negatives, slides, and contact sheets. This series includes images from Kriger's photo project "What's for Lunch?" and "Beyond Mice", as well as black and white abstract images, many of which were taken during Mardi Gras in New Orleans. Other subjects documented in this series include San Francisco's Stud Bar, Lesbian & Gay Freedom Day Parades, Harvey Milk, San Francisco street scenes, apartment interiors, the Rolling Stones and Neil Young concerts, a hippie camp out, Europe, and erotica. The negatives and contact sheets exist in both 35mm and 6x7 formats (note: there are no contact print books #6, #10, #14, or #16, and the first book is unnumbered). Many of the materials in this series include inventory numbers originally assigned by Kriger.

Non-photographic materials, the second series, primarily document Kriger's administrative activities as a San Francisco-based photographer and owner of a fine art framing business. Materials include photograph information sheets which contain dates, sale statistics, and titles of individual photographs taken by Kriger, as well as address books, inventory sheets, and a signed contract for consignment of artwork. There is also one folder of memorial material collected after Kriger's death in 1989.
