*This inventory reproduces the original labels on the Clippings envelopes. Some of the envelope labels contain harmful descriptions of certain communities or disabled people. They reflect outdated, biased, and offensive views. They are reproduced here in order to allow researchers to accurately and digitally view the labels as they are. The MVC Research Library works hard to ensure staff-generated description does not contain harmful language. While the content of original historical records cannot be altered, you can report potentially harmful language that you see in archival descriptions to library@venturamuseum.org.

*This inventory reproduces the original labels on the Clippings envelopes. Some of the envelope labels contain harmful descriptions of certain communities or disabled people. They reflect outdated, biased, and offensive views. They are reproduced here in order to allow researchers to accurately and digitally view the labels as they are. The MVC Research Library works hard to ensure staff-generated description does not contain harmful language. While the content of original historical records cannot be altered, you can report potentially harmful language that you see in archival descriptions to library@venturamuseum.org.

Walls and most of roof of adjoining banquet-multipurpose hall is completed.; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, February 1967: first cement work is poured, upright pieces are sides to the entrance from the lobby into the auditorium. Exterior walls are staked, but no construction has begun. Most of the underground work is completed. Other shot is of banquet hall, crane lifting girders into place. ; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, February 1968: Seat installation began in early February, and was nearly completed when these photos were taken Feb. 9. Also, finish work in the forecourt was underway. Bricks are being laid for a decorative effect around a fountain base in these photos. Leonard Zerilli was named auditorium supervisor in February, and he is shown standing in front of structure. ; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, November 1967: Roof and outside almost completed; much plastering done inside. All interior cement work finished, and interior walls and detail work underway. Multipurpose room completely finished on outside and most of major work done inside. Began installing plumbing fixtures and kitchen equipment. Heavy rain in mid-November delayed outside work on auditorium, particularly cementing for forecourt, but some work was able to continue inside during storm. ; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, January 1968: Painting outside of auditorium is nearly completed. Finish work virtually completed in banquet hall and well on its way in main auditorium. Forecourt cemented and landscaping begins. ; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, May 1967: Work begins on superstructure on main auditorium; as beams go into place, final touches are put on cementwork for foundation and floor of auditorium. ; (Oxnard) Auditorium clippings; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, April 1967: Nearly all cementwork in floor areas and stage is completed and wooden forms for risers being built on sloping main floor. Rain throughout April has delayed construction about a month. In Banquet hall: all girders in place and much of the side-wall masonry is completed. Wood base for roof nearly completed. ; Oxnard auditorium – Spiral negatives, March 1967: Most floor cementwork is completed, some fresh cement was being poured and smoothed as these pictures were taken. Earth-fill for slope to main floor is completed. Interior walls of vomitories and lobbies finished.
